SILENCE OF PHONE SAVES 7 PERSONS OVERCOME BY GAS

NEIGHBORS DEFEAT FUMES BY MINUTES

Force Open Door and Carry Out Unconscious Victims; Defective Flue Blamed.

An unanswered telephone occasioned an alarm yesterday that snatched the lives of seven persons from the grasping hand of death. Coal gas had overcome the seven while they were asleep in their home at 117 Eastern avenue northeast, Takoma Park. Death was but 30 or 40 minutes away when neighbors discovered them unconscious.

Those overcome: Mr. and Mrs. James McMahon, both 22 years old; Miss Marie McMahon, 17; Jackie McMahon, 3; Junie McMahon, 2; James Smith, 23, and William McMahon, 45. James McMahon and Smith were the most seriously affected. The former still was unconscious at a late hour last night in Providence hospital, while Smith, a sailor, was taken to the U. S. Naval hospital.

Poisonous fumes had filled the house, a bungalow, through a defective flue of the furnace. Upon retiring Saturday night, police were told, all complained of feeling ill, but no one seemed to know why.

Silent Phone Alarms.

Mrs. Marie McMahon, 1301 Madison street northwest, mother of McMahon, and Mrs. N. Smith, mother of Mrs. McMahon, telephoned to the house yesterday morning. Receiving the familiar answer of the operator, "They don't answer," Mrs. Smith became alarmed and telephoned to Albert A. Heale, who lives across the street at 118 Eastern avenue, and requested him to investigate. Mrs. McMahon said she thought that all had gone to church.

Heale, seeing the milk on the porch, sensed impending danger and hurried to the house. He forced open the door, and upon discovering the persons unconscious, called to Policeman H. W. Pickles, of the Thirteenth precinct, who resides at 112 Eastern avenue; George Brown and other neighbors.

Fighting their way through the gas-filled rooms, the neighbors threw open all windows and doors and carried the children into the open air. All, save William McMahon, who was sitting in a chair, were found in their beds. The children were quickly resuscitated and taken to the homes of neighbors. Efforts to rouse Smith and James McMahon were fruitless at first.

Clogged Flue the Cause.

Smith, after first-aid treatment by Dr. A. D. Little, 6911 Fifth street northwest, regained consciousness, and hospital treatment was recommended for him. Attempts to arouse McMahon were in vain and he was taken from the house to Providence hospital.

The flue, which was clogged, is in the cellar and has been defective for several days. McMahon had employed workmen to adjust the defect, and they were to work on it today.

Police were told the entire household had complained of a peculiar odor in the house Saturday, and upon retiring last night all complained of feeling ill. Believing it was caused by something they had eaten, they retired.

Physicians expressed the opinion that the entire household would have been wiped out within the next hour after discovery. Police praised the quick-wittedness of Mrs. Smith in calling upon neighbors for aid.

Son of Carter Glass And Companion Hurt

Roanoke, Va., Nov. 21 (By A. P.).—Miss Helen Thomas and Carter Glass, jr., both of Lynchburg, were injured in an automobile accident which occurred on a sharp curve on the Williamson road, a short distance beyond the northern city limits of Roanoke, late Saturday night. A third occupant of the car, Miss Florence Miller, also of Lynchburg, received only a few scratches and has returned home.

Both injured persons were removed to a local hospital. Miss Thomas is suffering, it is believed, from a fractured skull, while Mr. Glass' injuries are said not to be serious. He is a son of Senator Carter Glass, of Virginia.

Mothers Force Culver To Abolish Aviation

French Lick, Ind., Nov. 21 (By A. P.).—Timid mothers have forced the Culver Military academy to abolish its aviation school, according to Brig. Gen. Leigh R. Gignilliat, superintendent.

"Mothers of our cadets," he said here today, "almost unanimously have refused to give required permission for their sons to learn to fly an aeroplane, so we are returning to the Federal government this month the seven planes granted us since the world war, and will abandon the flying school."

Whirlwind Engagements Mark Queen's Quiet Day

Members of Royal Party Lost by the Wayside on Trip Across Continent Rejoin Marie of Roumania in New York.

New York, Nov. 21 (By A. P.).—Queen Marie's desire for rest and relaxation before sailing for home on Wednesday was set aside today while she was whisked hither and yon keeping four engagements that kept her on the move from 9 o'clock this morning until past sundown.

After little more than five hours' sleep at the Tuxedo home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Mitchell, Marie motored to New York to spend an hour in the Metropolitan museum, to attend luncheon at the apartment of Mrs. Robert Weeks Kelly, tea at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ira Nelson Morris, and then back to Tuxedo for dinner at the Mitchell's. Gen. Pershing was a guest at the luncheon at the Kelly home.

Princess Ileana was away even earlier than her mother, motoring to Calvary church and then taking luncheon with the rector, the Rev. Samuel M. Shoemaker. Ileana was accompanied by Miss Ida Marr, her governess, and J. B. Ayres, Ford Motor Co. representative, who said he was in the car during the drive at the request of Queen Marie. He was dismissed from the royal train several days ago in Seattle when Col. John H. Carroll, in charge of the special, objected to newspaper articles quoting Ayres.

Samuel Hill, millionaire, whose Maryhill museum was dedicated by Marie in Washington State, and who left the train at Seattle after becoming involved in the disputes aboard it, put in an appearance here today. With him was Miss May Birkhead, a member of the Hill party on the train, who left it at Denver.

They appeared at the Kelly home some time after Marie had entered, Hill being ushered to the queen's table. He refused to say whether he would be here to say good-by to her majesty on Wednesday.

"I don't know what my future plans are," he said, "I am always subject to her majesty's commands, you know."

He remained at the Kelly home when Marie left to have tea with the Morrises.

WIDOW OF LIEUTENANT SLAIN IN CROWDED CAFE

Mrs. Betty King Shot Dead by Admirer as He Sits at Table With Her.

TRIES TO END HIS LIFE

San Francisco, Nov. 21 (By A. P.).—Mrs. Betty King, widow of Lieut. Robert King, U. S. N., came to the end of a turbulent love affair here last night when she was shot to death by George W. Barnett, an automobile salesman, who trailed her from Minneapolis.

Today Barnett's life was hanging by a slender thread as a result of a bullet wound which he inflicted in his head after he killed Mrs. King, while seated across from her at dinner, in a downtown restaurant. Barnett is married and has a daughter. Football crowds in the cafe were startled by the shots.

First reports from police headquarters said that Mrs. King was formerly married to Barnett and the fatal quarrel resulted from a disagreement over remarriage. Police detectives' overnight version of the affair was that Mrs. King, whose husband was killed in an automobile accident in Dorchester, Mass., in 1922, had not been married to Barnett but that she had met him in Minneapolis about a year ago.

"They fell in love," Police Detective Everett Hansen said in a report today. "Wishing to free herself from any entanglements, Mrs. King came to San Francisco. Barnett followed and obtained employment with an automobile firm here. I understand he desired the companionship of Mrs. King until such time as his wife in Minneapolis obtained a divorce.

"Mrs. King's identity was established through letters in her reticule. One of these letters was stamped and addressed to Barnett, in Minneapolis. It contained messages of love, but spoke of his former letters as having been incoherent."

After Barnett located Mrs. King in San Francisco he took quarters in the same hotel where Mrs. King lived. When she refused to receive him, he forced the lock on her door and was expelled from the hotel. Later he apologized to the management and occupied quarters in an adjoining downtown hotel.

Robber Is Shot Dead In New York Street

New York, Nov. 21 (By A. P.).—A bandit who held up and robbed the clerk of a cigar store here last night was shot and killed in a running pistol battle with Ernest Rice, a probationary patrolman.

Leslie Turnbull, the clerk, was alone in the store at 144th street and Amsterdam avenue when the robber entered and, covering him with a pistol, rifled the cash register of $30 and fled. The clerk ran to the door, shouting for the police.

Rice gave chase, and when the robber failed to halt fired two shots at him. The robber returned the fire and Rice then dropped him with a bullet in the head.

Sir Austen Greeted By 2,000 in Monocles

Glasgow, Nov. 21 (By A. P.).—It took all Sir Austen Chambelain's characteristic imperturbability to remain serious when at the ceremony of his installation as lord rector of Glasgow university recently he was faced by 2,000 boy and girl students, all wearing monocles like himself, singing in unison: "Oh, Austen, dear, we love you so!"

Like his famous father, Joseph, Britain's foreign secretary can not very wkell be imagined without his single eyeglass. There were loud protests from the students when he changed it for horn rim spectacles to sign the document appointing him to his new dignity.

NATIONAL EMERGENCY PROCLAIMED IN DUBLIN

Free State, Under Its Terms, Raids Republican Organ Women's League.

DOCUMENTS ARE SEIZED

Dublin, Nov. 21 (By A. P.).—A state of national emergency has been proclaimed under the public safety bill recently adopted by the senate and approved by the governor general. The Dail Eireann has been summoned to meet Wednesday.

This state of emergency permits the authorities to arrest and detain without trial individuals suspected of complicity in various offenses, such as attempts to overthrow the government, possession of arms or explosives, and false assumption of military or police rank.

Acting under the proclamation, the police today raided the offices of An Schoblacht, a republican organ, and seized all copies of the paper. They also raided the headquarters of the Republican Women's league and confiscated copies of antiimperialist documents and papers relating to women's organizations.

Fifty persons are under arrest, charged with being implicated in the armed raids a few days ago on the civic barracks at various places. It was these attacks on the civic police that prompted the government to introduce the public safety bill, leading to the national emergency.

Britsh Steamer Near Freighter in Distress

London, Nov. 21 (By A. P.).—Valencia dispatches to Lloyds say that the British steamer Andania is standing by the British freighter, Aldworth, from Norfolk, November 4, for Queenstown. The Aldworth sent out distress signals yesterday, and her condition is considered serious because of the heavy gale.

Convicted Producer Is Ordered to Be Present at Hearing on His Appeal.

New York, Nov. 21 (By A. P.).—Earl Carroll, of "bath-tub party" fame, has been ordered to return home from Europe, it was learned tonight.

He sailed for Europe in October with the permission of United States Attorney Emory R. Buckner, after he had entered an appeal from his conviction of perjury which grew out of a party at his theater last February 22. The appeal will come up for argument early next month, it was explained, and Mr. Buckner desired the theatrical producer within the jurisdiction of the Federal court here.

Carroll was sentenced in March to a year and a day in Atlanta penitentiary and fined $2,000 for perjury in testimony before two grand juries investigating the bath-tub party.

Alleged Princess Reported Missing

New York, Nov. 21 (By A. P.).—Disappearance of Mrs. Hortenau, also known as Princess Obrenovitch and Princess La Barronazde, and reputed to be a granddaughter of a former king of Serbia, was reported to police today. No such princess is listed in the various "Who's Whos" of royalty.

Report of Mrs. Hortenau's disappearance was made by Alfred J. Hortenau, her husband. He told police his wife had not been seen after leaving their home in West Eighty-first street Friday afternoon.

SOLEMNITY TO MARK PROCEDURE IN TRIAL OF FALL AND DOHENY

SELECTION OF JURY TO COMMENCE TODAY

May Take Several Days to Complete Panel; Opening Arguments to Follow.

By ALBERT W. FOX.

The stage is now set for the opening of the trial of Albert B. Fall, former Secretary of the Interior, and Edward L. Doheny, oil magnate, on charges of conspiracy to defraud the government in connection with the leasing of some 30,000 acres of oil lands on naval reserve No. 1 in California.

With Justice Adolph A. Hoehling presiding, the trial starts at 10 o'clock this morning in criminal court No. 1. Into this comparatively small room, with a seating capacity of about 250, there will surge interested persons, lawyers, newspaper correspondents, besides the principals with their counsel and members of the jury panels. But the public and the sensation and curiosity seekers will have little or no chance to watch the proceedings in view of the lack of space.

And the coming trial will differ from some of the recent spectacular trials in the sense that nothing is to be allowed to mar the solemnity of the occasion and give a theatrical atmosphere to what is regarded as a serious matter, which should be dealt with in a dignified way.

Banned From Entire Building.

Judge Hoehling has forbidden flashlights, camera, motion pictures, not only in the courtroom, but in the entire building. This has been the past practice in this court and it is going to be maintained.

Selection of the jury of twelve laymen will be the first business in connection with the trial. Whether this work can be completed today or even tomorrow is problematical. But when the jury is chosen, the opening argument by the government will be the next step. This means that the government's special counsel—Owen J. Roberts or Atlee Pomerene—will state the government's side of the case, the facts which they expect to prove by the evidence. Then will follow the opening statement by the defense. This will be made by Frank J. Hogan, chief counsel for Mr. Doheny. Wilton J. Lambert, who recently joined Mr. Fall's legal forces, will reserve his opening statement until after the government's evidence has been presented.

On the eve of the trial yesterday the only new development came in the form of an authorized statement to the press by Mr. Fall, who heretofore has remained silent in the face of insinuations and criticisms.

But it is understood that reports printed yesterday concerning intimations that persons who had been drawn on the jury panels were being sub-

Doyle Says Spirit Told Houdini's Fate

London, Nov. 21 (By A. P.).—Sir Conan Doyle reveals in a letter to the Westminster Gazette that when he was in Atlantic City with Houdini a seance was held in which a spirit message was received through a medium, the wife of a well-known American lawyer, from Houdini's mother, mourning over the premature end she foresaw for her son.

Sir Conan concludes: "We withheld the message from Houdini, hoping that it might prove she was mistaken. But tha thope has now been dissipated."

Sallisaw, Okla., Nov. 21 (By A. P.).—Blazing a path of gunfire to escape, six men took Matthew Kimes, convicted slayer of a deputy sheriff, from the county jail here early today and fled with him to the hills where they were sought by possemen in parts of Oklahoma and Arkansas tonight.

The men, suspected by officers to be friends of Kimes, who is under life sentence, disarmed two jailers whom they locked in cells and left in an automobile, firing volleys of shots when Chief of Police J. C. Woll sought to interrupt their flight. Woll returned the fire, but apparently none of his shots took effect.

Kimes was sentenced for the murder of Perry Chuculate, who was killed in a gunfight between a posse and Matthew and George Kimes, a brother. The latter received a 25-year sentence in connection with the deputy's death.

Officials tonight said the band that liberated Kimes included two women, one of whom they believed was the wife of the escaped prisoner.

Have One Baby at Least, Shaw's Idea for Teacher

London, Nov. 21 (By A. P.).—George Bernard Shaw, winner of the Nobel prize for literature, thinks that all schoolmistresses should have a baby.

The Twickenham education committee recently dismissed the head mistress of the girls' secondary school on the ground that her responsibilities as the mother of a 7-month-old baby were incompatible with her school duties. The head mistress, Dr. Isabel Turnadge, is a doctor of philosophy and a bachelor of science, and has been married three years.

G. B. S. is quoted by the Westminster Gazette as commenting:

"Twickenham is near the river, and the sooner the Twickenham people put their education committee in the river the better. It would be far more sensible to refuse to allow any woman to become a teacher unless she had at least one baby, and looked after it properly."

FRENCH FEAR FAILURES IF FRANC KEEPS RISING

POINCARE GIVES WARNING

Paris, Nov. 21 (By A. P.).—The French franc has come to the parting of the ways. This week will be momentous with regard to the future standing of the French monetary unit in the international exchange market.

The public is as deeply perturbed over the too rapidly soaring franc as when it fell to the lowest depths on July 21 last. Unemployment has made its appearance and exports are dwindling. The government is taking action to prevent further improvement, just as it did in July to halt depreciation.

Such is the information gathered around the bourse today, which, although officially closed for business, was teeming with activity. Brokers' clerks were cleaning up and registering the accumulation of selling orders of the past few days and getting ready for tomorrow's business.

The level where economic difficulties begin has been reached, and should the franc continue to improve in the same ratio as in the last few weeks experts among the manufacturers and wholesalers look for sudden failures.

Brokers and their clerks are confidently expecting a turn in the market tomorrow, with improvement in French securities, which have been carried downward in the extensive selling of the past ten days.

Premier Poincare and former Premier Herriot, radical socialist leader, now minister of education, speaking at Tarbes today, laid stress on the seriousness of the situation. The premier pleaded for continuation of the national union ministry and declared that the whole future of the nation was at stake.

"The peril of yesterday," he said, "has been averted, but has not yet disappeared."

M. Herriot also called for "the sacred union" to face the new danger.

Strangely enough Americans are no more popular with the falling dollar than they were when it was worth 50 francs. The man in the street continues to believe that foreign speculation is responsible for the pinched circumstances—has caused the rising franc and the maintenance of the high cost of living, and he loses no opportunity to express his opinion.

P.).—The body of Water Grommel, nineteen, one of two boys who were drowned when they ventured out onto the thin ice that covered Lake Calumet here, today to recover a duck which they had shot, was found by coast guards this afternoon. Buffalo, N. Y., Nov. 21 (By A. P.).—Harry (Gene) Finnegan, 16-year-old South Park High school boy, died today from injuries received in a football game with the Canisius preparatory team on Friday. Finnegan's back was broken.

REPORT OF POWERS TO CONDEMN JUSTICE IN COURTS OF CHINA

By ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

The United States government and eleven other powers are about to make public the conclusion they have reached jointly that they can not abandon their nationals in China to the mercy of Chinese courts of law until order is restored in that country and the dispensation of justice assured.

This is the result of the movement initiated at the Washington disarmament conference in 1921 to abolish the extraterritorial rights accorded foreign countries in China, whereby cases involving foreigners are tried, not in Chinese but in foreign courts.

A commission representing the powers and headed by Silas H. Strawn, of Chicago, the American commissioner, spent nearly a year investigating the actual operation of the judiciary system in China. It has prepared a 20,000-word report of its findings and recommendations which is to be made public in Washington and other capitals by the powers concurrently.

Travesties on Justice.

The report gives accounts of the travesties on justice perpetrated upon foreigners within the last two years under the reign of the war lords of China, each of whom in the territory he rules has constituted himself judge, jury and high executioner.

"The administration of justice must be protected against any unwarranted interference by the executive or other branches of the government, whether civil or military," the commission observes in connection with the danger of abolishing foreign courts in China under present conditions.

The commission's criticism of the administration of justice in China may be summarized thus:

1. The government of the country has fallen into the hands of military leaders who by virtue of their power assume at will administrative, legislative and judicial functions, thus tending to obliterate the demarcation between the executive, legislative and judicial branches of government.

2. The government treasury has been so depleted that funds are frequently lacking for pay of police and court officials.

Court Procedure Impaired.

3. The uniformity of the laws and of judicial procedure is being impaired by independent laws and courts in regions that do not recognize the central government at Peking.

4. The extension and perfection of the new legal and judicial system adopted by China are being retarded.

Justice in China, the commission reports, is administered at the whim of the "Tuchun" who happens to be in power or the merchant who can pay

Indigestion Kills Ferocious Dragon

New York, Nov. 21 (By A. P.).—Indigestion today killed the remaining "dragon" of the pair brought here in September from the volcanic island of Komodo, near Java. He was called the Veranus Komodoensis and was proclaimed the largest member of the lizard family in existence. Known for his ferocity, he will go to the valhalla of dead monsters, the American Museum of Natural History.

The other lizard died a month ago of starvation.

WOMAN FOUND DEAD IN GAS-FILLED ROOM

Victim, After Disconnecting Stove, May Have Assembled It Incorrectly, Nevitt Says.

Miss Angeline Smith, 65 years old, 915 Fifth street northwest, was found dead in her room yesterday with gas flowing from three open jets on a small stove. Coroner J. Ramsey Nevitt, after a preliminary investigation last night, delayed issuing a certificate until today.

Miss Smith, other occupants of the house told Dr. Nevitt, returned from church at 1 o'clock. Mrs. Margaret Bailey told Dr. Nevitt she detected the odor of gas escaping from Miss Smith's room and opening the door found the woman sitting in a chair, unconscious. Mrs. Bailey mmediately summoned aid and Dr. E. J. Ball, of Emergency hospital, pronounced Miss Smith dead.

Dr. Nevitt said he learned that Miss Smith, who was very feeble, disconnected the stove after returning from church. It is quite possible, it was pointed out, that Miss Smith assembled the parts incorrectly and believed the jets were closed instead of open.

AMERICAN DUCHESS SUES TORLONIA FOR DIVORCE

COUPLE MARRIED IN 1907

New York, Nov. 21 (By A. P.).—Another marriage between American dollars and European nobility has gone into the courts, the New York American says.

The Duchess of Torlonia, the former Elsie Moore, daughter of Charles A. Moore, wealthy shipbuilder of New York and Greenwich, Conn., has started suit for divorce in Connecticut. She names Maria Lorenzonie, said to be of royal Italian blood, as corespondent.

The duke intends to fight the suit and has filed a plea in abatement before Judge John W. Banks in superior court in Bridgeport, Conn. He contends the duchess, being now an alien, has no legal status in America. The couple separated in 1925.

The magnificence of the receptions accorded the duchess in Rome after her marriage earned her the title "The Dollar Duchess." The couple were married August 15, 1907, in Greenwich following a dispensation from Rome.

The duke was excommunicated in 1922 as the result of a duel with Count Filippo Lovatelli, Italian sculptor. The Pope later revoked the sentence. The duchess is now at the home of her parents in Greenwich.

Bridgeport, Conn., Nov. 21 (By A. P.).—Arguments will be held in Superior Court next Friday in the demurrer filed by counsel for Elsie Moore Torlonia, the duchess of Torlonia Italy, to the move by which her husband, the Duke of Torlonia hopes Otto is survived by three children by two marriages. He was divorced from his first wife and his second wife died.

Biarritz, France, Nov. 21 (By A. P.). Grand Duke Dimitri Pavlovich, of a high Russian noble family, and Miss Audrey Emery, daughter of the late John J. Emery, of Cincinnati, Ohio, were married here today. Audrey Emery henceforth wil be known as Princess Illinsky, a title conferred on her by Grand Duke Cyril, head of the Imperial Russian family.

Metropolite Evloksky, head of the orthodox church of Europe, officiated, having come especially from Paris accompanied by a large suite, customary at imperial marriages in Russia before the war. The church was handsomely decorated, and the metropolite wore his full vestments, including a diamond tiara.

Payroll Bearer Yields Empty Box in Hold-Up

Chicago, Nov. 21 (By A. P.).—One Chicagoan has figured out a system to beat the pay roll robbers. Lee Goldman, carrying a $1,600 pay roll of a tire company, was held up by two men and readily handed over a tin cash box. Then he went to the office, took the $1,600 from his pocket and called the police.

He got the tin box just to hand to robbers, he explained, and expects to get a nice new shiny one now to replace the stolen one.

$100,000 BRIBERY IN CANADA CHARGED TO MAINE NOMINEE

G. O. P. Senate Candidate Says Amount Went to Campaign Fund.

SUM PAID PREMIER OF NEW BRUNSWICK

State Authorities Order Inquiry Into Gould's Expenses in Present Election.

Augusta, Maine, Nov. 21 (By A. P.). The date of a hearing on charges that Arthur R. Gould, of Presque Isle, Republican nominee for United States senator, exceeded the legal limit of expenditures in the recent primary has been set for November 26, at the Statehouse, Secretary of State Frank Ball announced tonight. The charges were filed yesterday by the Rev. A. F. Leigh, of Randolph, prominent in the Ku Klux Klan organization of the State.

A request will be filed with the secretary of State tomorrow by Thomas Lehigh, of this city, associate counsel with Frederick W. Hinckley, of Portland, for Mr. Gould, asking for detailed specifications of the charges.

Opponent Files Charge.

Portland, Maine, Nov. 21 (By A. P.). Activities of Arthur R. Gould, Republican nominee for United States senator, in Canadian railways in 1918 were thrust into Maine's election campaign when a committee associated with Fulton J. Redman, his Democratic opponent, tonight made public a report of an investigation it made. In the report the committee refers to a payment of $100,000 by Mr. Gould in 1918 to the then premier of New Brunswick, J. K. Flemming, in negotiations concerning the building of the St. John Valley and Quebec Railway, which payment Chief Justice McKeown, of New Brunswick, is quoted as characterizing as an "act of bribery." Mr. Gould late tonight denied that the payment of the money was a bribe.

The committee accompanied its report by extracts from testimony and findings in the case. The report says in part:

"This matter was brought to the attention of Mr. Redman and as a result of the investigation it has been disclosed that Arthur R. Gould during the progress of an investigation conducted by the Province of New Brunswick, testified under oath that he had paid to J. K. Flemming, then premier of the province, the sum of $100,000, and the commission in its report to the government has characterized this payment as a bribe.

Taken From Record.

"The testimony of Mr. Gould upon which Chief Justice McKeown, of the Province of New Brunswick, who was the arbitrator in these proceedings, relied in finding that Mr. Gould had bribed the premier of New Brunswick, is taken from the official report of the evidence."

The report quotes Chief Justice McKeown as saying in a statement at the time:

"Mr. Gould represents the payment as pratically forced from him. I am not so sure that this is so. I think he was only too ready to purchase an advantage by making a payment of such a nature. Indeed, I can see no other reason why he should have paid it. It seems to me impossible to conclude that any man is going to part with $100,000 unless he expects to gain very material advantage thereby."

The committee's report adds:

"The finding of Chief Justice McKeown in reference to the claim which the chief justice had heard is as follows:

"'That the claimants have no rights which should be recognized or enforced in any court or before any arbitrator, causes the contract to be void by reason of the act of bribery committed by Mr. Arthur R. Gould during the negotiations for the building of the road between the province and the railway company.'"

The date of the provincial commission's report is March 15, 1918. The special senatorial election will take place November 29.

Gould Makes Denial.

Mr. Gould tonight, in reply to the charges made from the headquarters of his Democratic opponent, denied that he paid a "bribe" of $100,000 to the premier of New Brunswick a number of years ago, and asserted that such a sum was given as a contribution to a political party in New Brunswick by his business associates without his knowledge. He declared that the evidence taken before the royal commission was when he was endeavoring to obtain the payment of $400,000 which the province of New Brunswick owed him and still owes him and his associates and that he suffered in New Brunswick as lots of other Americans have suffered in trying to do business with the New Brunswick officials.

Mr. Gould said:

"In 1910 New York capitalists with whom I was associated organized a

MOTORISTS WITH HORN BLOWING HABIT SCORED

Wilfley Announces Meeting Soon on Financial Plans for Representative Edifice.

Obedience to the golden rule would solve the great majority of our traffic problems, M. O. Eldridge, director of traffic, told the congregation of the Vermont Avenue Christian church at "Traffic night" services held in the church last night.

In this connection he bitterly assailed the driver that habitually toots his horn, and declared:

"Unless our everincreasing accident list is curtailed soon it may be necessary some day to lock up every driver who toots his horn at a pedestrian crossing the street at a crosswalk."

Mr. Eldridge was followed by Traffic Policeman W. E. Atkinson, who gave a talk on the motorist from the standpoint of the traffic policeman. The Rev. Earle Wilfley, pastor, made a brief talk, appealing for a "conscientious observance" of traffic regulations.

Financial Meeting Soon.

Dr. Wilfley announced that a meeting of business men will be held here soon to discuss plans for financing the great representative church of the Christian denomination, which is to be erected on the northwest corner of Fourteenth street and Massachusetts avenue. The moving spirit in the meeting will be R. A. Long, of Kansas City, Mo., who has offered to bear the expense of one-tenth of the $1,000,000 church.

The church will have a frontage of 250 feet, Dr. Wilfley said. The plan is to have it completed and to dedicate it at a world convention here of members of the Christian Church in 1930, the dedication to be a part of the program in celebration of the 1900 anniversary of the establishment of the church of Christ on the day of Pentecost, he said.

Cigars at Stake in Vote Tonight by Citizens Group

Georgetown Association, for Men Only Since 1887, Will Decide if Doors Shall Be Opened to Women Who Clamor for Admittance.

Members of the Georgetown Citizens association may smoke their pipes for the last time at the meeting tonight and the box of cigars that has been passed around at meetings since 1887 may never be passed again.

Tonight, Washington's oldest and only stag association will vote on a constitutional amendment proposing that women be admitted to its membership. It's not the first time such a ballot has been taken. Pleas of members' wives to be admitted to this masculine retreat sternly have been turned down twelve times in the history of the organization, but things look differently this time. J. A. Oliver, president of the association, admitted yesterday the women have a better chance of benig admitted than ever before. However, it promises to be a close vote and the president will not cast his ballot unless it is a tie.

In the old days the association used to meet in a fire engine house and it proved a convenient alibi against admitting women. In recent years they have used smoking as an excuse for barring the fair sex, but that no longer holds water with them. What the association always has cherished has been a place where the members not only could smoke but say what they liked, dress as they wanted and conduct themselves in the approved masculine fashion. The element in the association still insisting on these masculine rights will put up a stiff fight tonight, but it looks as though theirs will be a losing cause.

Philip Walker, secretary of the group, who never has attended a meeting without his pipe, would not reveal how he is going to vote on the proposed amendment. "The danger is from women who want to run the show," Walker countered when pressed for his conviction on the subject. The secretary said he had been assured by some married members "that they most certainly would vote against the resolution."

George W. Offutt, author of the resolution proposing the admission of women, said he liked to smoke, too, but that it was unfair to bar women from their only means of public expression on civic matters. He pointed out that women were members of all other citizens' associations in the city.

Before voting on admitting women the association will hold its annual election so that it will be assured of at least one more year of masculine control. Oliver will not be a candidate for reelection and Isaac B. Nordlinger, first vice president, probably will succeed him.

LAKEHURST, N. J., NAVY AIR CLASS TO START FEB. 15

Eight Men Will Assemble for Study in Anticipation of Big Program.

MANY APPLY FOR STUDY

In anticipation of the bigger navy air program, a class of eight naval officers will assemble at Lakehurst, N. J., February 15, for training in lighter-than-air craft and probably will consist of two lieutenant commanders, two lieutenants and four lieutenants (junior grade) or ensigns. Applications have been requested from officers throughout the service.

Applicants will be required to pass a physical and psychological examination given by a naval medical officer qualified in aviation medicine, and only those who have successfully passed physical and psychological tests within six months immediately preceding February 15, will be considered. Ensigns, junior to the class of 1924, are not eligible for duty.

The training is to provide replacements for officers already on airship duty and to provide for expansion in that branch of the naval air service called for by the five-year development program. At present there are eight airship pilots at Lakehurst, and twelve under training will be qualified by the first of the year.

There are approximately 20 other officers on aviation duty and 12 in general services who are qualified in lighter-than-air aviation. However, most of these have not been trained in rigid airship operation, and would require refresher courses before being available for duty. The navy hopes to have 47 trained rigid airship pilots ready when the five-year airship building program is completed.

2 Sleeping Coaches Plunge From Tracks

Butler, Ind., Nov. 21 (By A. P.).—The lives of 17 persons were endangered early today when two sleeping coaches on Wabash train No. 2 slid down an 18-foot embankment. The eastbound flyer was three miles south of here when a rail snapped. A third sleeper was derailed.

Harry Gamble, coffee salesman of Detroit, was the most seriously hurt. He suffered a fracture of one arm. Eight or ten other passengers received minor injuries.

MANY COAST ARTILLERY UNITS FOUND INACTIVE

Personnel Needs Training to Play Part in National Defense, Hero Says.

FIRING IS BETTER YEARLY

The coast artillery corps contains so many inactive units a considerable period for mobilization and training would have to be allowed before it could play its part in the plan for national defense, according to the annual report of Maj. Gen. Andrew Hero, jr., corps chief.

The personnel is sufficient to continue training in all types of armament assigned except trench artillery. Shooting is improving yearly, but a redistribution of authorized personnel is recommended.

"Prior to the national defense act of 1916," the report states, "the strength necessary for the coast artillery corps was determined by the general staff, to be a complete manning party for overseas possessions and for all submarine mine systems, and one-half of one manning party for the seacoast guns of the continental United States. The militia army was small and it was deemed essential to be prepared to delay the occupation of any strategic harbor until the field forces could be reinforced and concentrate.

"With the national defense act of 1920, the strength of the coast artillery corps was not increased, although a considerable portion of that strength was withdrawn from fixed defenses to man the new types of armament added to the responsibilities of the corps. But successive reductions in the army has left the situation demanding readiness in important harbors identical with that obtaining in 1916.

"Nevertheless, instead of strengthening the harbor defenses as the available field force was reduced, the opposite policy has been followed and the coast artillery corps has stood at least its percentage cut in all reductions. I wish to renew the recommendation on this subject of my predecessor, to the effect that serious reconsideration be given steps to remedy this situation."

Members of the Columbia Typographical union yesterday afternoon voted $25 for relief of sufferers in the La Plata cyclone disaster November 9, at their monthly meeting in the Typographical temple, 423 G street northwest.

The meeting was addressed by Charles P. Howard, president of the International Typographical union. Howard discussed trade conditions, taking an optimistic attitude in regard to their future. Frank Morrison, secretary of the American Federation of Labor, attended the meeting as guest of the union.

ENTHUSIASM RALLY TOMORROW BY AIDS OF CITIZEN GROUPS

COLUMBIA HEIGHTS IS LEADING IN CAMPAIGN

Suter, Director of Work, Estimates 10,000 Members Have Been Obtained So Far.

A mass meeting of all 45 citizens' associations' presidents, secretaries, membership committee chairmen and delegates to the Federation of Citizens Associations will be held tomorrow night at 8 o'clock at the drive headquarters, 1336 New York avenue northwest.

The purpose of the meeting will be to create more enthusiasm in the city-wide membership drive of the neighborhood associations being conducted under auspices of the federation. Delegates to the interfederation conference, composed of civic bodies in Montgomery county, Md., and Arlington county, Va., also will be invited to attend the meeting. All three District commissioners will be asked to attend. J. C. Suter, in charge of the campaigning, will announce the speaker today.

The Columbia Heights Citizens association appears to be leading in obtaining new members. A. B. Carty, president, estimates that between 500 and 600 new members have been obtained since the drive opened November 13.

On Way to Win Prize.

W. I. Swanton, of the association, is in line for a ton of coal. The Mount Pleasant Coal Co. has offered to give a ton of coal to the individual member obtaining the largest number of new members.

Mr. Swanton, who is on the downtown committee, obtained 30 new members Saturday. He has been averaging between ten and twenty new members daily since the drive started. The coal offer was made by W. B. Sutherland, president of the coal company and a member of the association.

A similar prize has been offered to the individual of the Mid-City association obtaining the largest number of new members by G. Howard Dunnington, coal dealer and member of that body.

Dougherty Will Speak.

Commissioner Proctor L. Dougherty will speak on the drive before the Georgetown Citizens association meeting tonight at 8 o'clock over the Potomac Savings Bank, at Wisconsin avenue and M streets. Mr. Suter will address the Conduit Road association Friday night on the campaign at the Potomac Heights Community church.

Harry N. Stull will continue in charge of campaign headquarters on New York avenue this week. He will be assisted at headquarters by Mrs. Frank Hiram Snell of the League of Women Voters, Mr. Swanton, William R. Whitt and David Babp, secretary of the federation.

The Columbia Heights association will keep its neighborhood campaign headquarters open this week at 3107 Fourteenth street, with H. C. Phillips in charge. Downtown headquarters will be open nights, and the federation's New York avenue headquarters will be open only during the day.

The goal of the Columbia Heights associaiton is 1,500 new members and the objective of the federation, embracing 45 associations, is 50,000. Definite returns from nine associations to date indicate that about 2,000 have been signed up since the drive opened. On the basis of those returns, Mr. Suter estimates that about 10,000 had been obtained throughout the city.

Vare and Smith Seats Discussed by Women

Political adjustments involved in the seating of Senators Vare and Smith, and the procedure to be followed in event the Senate should refuse to seat them, were discussed before the Women's National Political Study club yesterday at the Phyllis Wheatley Y. W. C. A., by Robert J. Nelson, vice president of the Negro Press association.

He presented statistics showing the number of votes on which Southern senators have been seated in contrast with the number of the electorate disfranchised, setting forth that the number kept away from the polls in certain sections of the South by intimidation and subterfuge was larger in proportion than the electorate brought out by methods of campaigning in the North. Miss Jeanette Carter presided. The subject was discussed by Miss M. M. Kimball, Mrs. Edna French and Miss Maude Rafter.

Two Injured in Auto Crash Near Rosslyn

James Nelson, of Aurora Heights, Va., was seriously injured last night in an automobile collision on the Lee highway, near Rosslyn, Va. Harold Howard, also of Aurora Heights, was bruised.

The two men were on their way to Washington, where they are employed, when their automobile was in collision with another said to have been driven by John Blackwell, colored, of Merryfield, Va. The driver jumped from his car and disappeared in a nearby woods. Blackwell was arrested by State Policeman A. D. Langley and lodged in the Arlington county jail, charged with driving while drunk. Nelson was taken to Georgetown hospital, where it was found he had a possible fracture of the skull.

Capital Auto Deaths Rise, Report Reveals

Automobile fatalities in Washington during the four weeks ended November 7 almost were double those reported for the same period last year, figures gathered by the Department of Commerce and released yesterday indicated. Deaths from automobile accidents jumped from 7 in the 1925 period to 12 in the most recent survey.

Four of the deaths in Washington, however, resulted from traffic accidents outside the city limits. National figures released by the department showed a corresponding increase. The total for the four weeks' period, reported as 676, was greater than the figures for any similar survey since the department inaugurated the four-week compilations in May, 1925.

WILBUR COMES TO AID OF OLD IRONSIDES DRIVE

Ship Should Be Perpetuated to Children as Patriotic Symbol, He Says.

ARTIST TO PAINT RELIC

(By the Associated Press.)

Secretary Wilbur sprang to the rescue of the "save Old Ironsides" movement yesterday, declaring the proud old hero ship Constitution, veteran of 42 battles in which she never knew defeat, "is sending out an S O S to the nation she defended."

"Surely this gallant old defender of our young nation is worth saving as a living reminder of our glorious past," the Naval Secretary said, stirred by the fact that to date only $225,000 of the $650,000 needed to save the ship from the junk heap and restore her to her original beauty, has been collected by patriotic subscription.

"Her appeal should be perpetuated to our children and to their children, a symbol of patriotic citizenship wherein lies the security of our nation's future."

As an immediate practical means to stimulate the movement, Mr. Wilbur announced that Gordon Grant, noted marine artist, had been authorized to paint the likeness of "Old Ironsides" as she appeared in the days of her glory, to hang in the White House. The painting will be reproduced in a limited number of ten-color prints made by a new process. The work is to be done at cost by the reproducers as a contribution the cause, and the results will be sold over the country by State quotas at 25 cents each, although their actual value has been placed at several dollars. Local patriotic committees will arrange for the sale and each reproduction will be numbered to insure authenticity.

WITNESSES TO BACK ALIBIS FOR DEFENSE IN HALL-MILLS CASE

HENRY STEVENS AIDED BY FISHERMEN FRIENDS

Attorneys, in Statement, Cite Birth Records of Widow and Her Brothers.

Somerville, N. J., Nov. 21 (By A. P.).—Many persons will tell a court and jury here this week where they were on the night of September 14, 1922.

This question has been asked many times in the fourteen days of the Hall-Mills murder trial, and it will be repeated again and again as witnesses are presented in the closing days to support what the defense claims to be "perfect alibis" for Mrs. Frances Stevens Hall and Henry and Willie Stevens.

The sister and brothers are charged with the murder of Mrs. Mills, about 10:20 o'clock on the night of September 14, 1922.

The defense opened its case with two more or less perfunctory witnesses Friday afternoon, after the State had taken fourteen days to offer 84 men and women as witnesses in an effort to show that Henry Stevens shot Mrs. Mills while Mrs. Hall and Willie Stevens were near.

The defense started to prove its alibi when Henry Stevens took the stand in his own defense and denied flatly that he was within 50 miles of the spot where the choir singer and minister were killed. He was fishing on the beach at his Lavallette, N. J., home, he said, until about the time fixed by the State for the crime and at the exact hour may have been splitting a bottle of ginger ale with a neighbor.

Fishermen Back Story.

The neighbor came to the witness stand to support this statement, and Lavallette fishermen during the afternoon made the courtroom into an Izaak Walton league meeting, with story after story of how the bluefish were running on the evening of September 14, when one outstanding catch was made—a 6-pounder—which Henry Stevens weighed on his pocket scales as an admiring crowd looked on and struck matches to see figures on the scales.

When court adjourned yesterday afternoon, minus a too frivolous audience which was dismissed by the court for unseemly conduct, the defense had not introduced all the fishermen who will tell of fishing with Henry Stevens that night. Others will follow tomorrow to add more weight to the first of the three alibis to be offered.

When Henry Stevens' story has been told the cases of Willie Stevens and Mrs. Hall will be presented with an attack somewhere in between on the credibility of some of the State's witnesses.

Defense to Call Experts.

Mrs. Gibson, who has been a picturesque figure in the case, rode into the mystery on a mule, she says, when she went through the now famous De Russey's lane on the trail of corn thieves and returned later to witness another chapter in the affair when she was hunting for a lost moccasin.

A battle of experts is in prospect during the defense presentation. The State offered three fingerprint experts to testify that the print of the left index finger of Willie Stevens appears on a calling card of Mr. Hall found near his body. The defense is known to have a counter battery of fingerprint experts in readiness, and in outlining the defense case to the jury Clarence E. Case said that the print attributed to Willie Stevens' finger will be shown to be "hocus-pocus."

Willie Stevens and Mrs. Hall will follow their brother to the witness stand, but defense counsel has not indicated the order in which the two other defendants will testify. The claim will be set up that Mrs. Hall and her brother were in their New Brunswick home the night of the double slaying until about 2 o'clock, when, alarmed at the continued absence of Mr. Hall, they arose and went to the church where he was rector to see if he had fallen asleep in the church.

The State brought its case to a dramatic climax Thursday, when Mrs. Jane Gibson, the star witness of the prosecution was brought into court on a hospital cot and testified from a bed in front of the jury that she saw all three of the defendants at or near the place where the bodies were found.

The three defendants, sitting calmly as the State brought witness after witness in an effort to connect them with the killing of Mrs. Mills, were unchanged in demeanor as the defense began answering the charges.

Defense Cites Birth Records.

Defense counsel, through Robert Neilson, tonight issued a statement caused, it said, because Special Prosecutor Simpson in his cross examination of Henry Stevens yesterday, "endeavored to cast doubt upon the parentage of Mr. William Stevens." The statement said, in part:

"The facts which are all of public record in the appropriate church registers are as follows:

"Henry Hewgill Stevens, the eldest of the three brothers and sister was born in Poughkeepsie, N. Y., November 20, 1869, and baptized at St. Paul's church, Poughkeepsie, February 27, 1870, by the Rev. P. H. Synnot.

"William Carpender Stevens, the second child of Francis Kirby Stevens and his wife, Mary Noel Carpender, was born at Aiken, S. C., March 18, 1872, and was baptized at St. John's church, New Brunswick, N. J., June 16, 1872, by the Rev. Charles E. Phelps.

"The church register is still in existence and shows that the godparents of Mr. William Stevens were his father, his mother and his maternal grandfather, Jacob Stout Carpender.

"Mrs. Hall (Frances Noel Stevens), was born at Aiken, S. C., January 13, 1874, and was baptized in her parents' home at Aiken, February 2, 1874, by the Rev. Everett C. Edgerton, the rector of the local Episcopal church. Her birth and baptism are noted in the register of this church. Mrs. Hall has in her possession the family Bible in which the births and baptisms of her brothers and herself are fully noted in the handwriting of her mother, Mrs. Frances L. Stevens."

TARIFF EXTENSION FOR SHIPPING OF U.S. UP HERE TOMORROW

Policy Will Be Argued Before Ship Board by Representatives of 10 Organizations.

BOAT BUILDERS BASE PLAN ON PEPPER BILL

Would Apply Commodity Refund Principle to Construction of Vessels.

Extension of this country's tariff policy to American shipping will be argued in all of its phases by representatives of ten cooperating organizations in the field of maritime construction and repair, before the United States Shipping Board holding the last of a series of conferences here tomorrow morning.

The plan to be advocated by the ship builders is based on the bill introduced at the last session of Congress by Senator George Wharton Pepper, of Pennsylvania, which would apply the export commodity refund principle of our tariff laws to the construction of American vessels designed to be used in foreign trade.

Refunding of the tariff element of a ship, shipbuilders argue, would reduce materially the American shipowners' initial outlay, and the resultant interest, depreciation and insurance charges.

Supported by Industry.

Clarence Samuel King, secretary of the Atlantic Coast Shipbuilders association, asserted in a statement issued yesterday that the shipbuilding industry of the United States is a unit in supporting the proposal, holding it would encourage construction of vessels for foreign trade, conserving American ship yards as a factor in maintaining an American merchant marine.

When asked for an opinion on the Winchester-Gibbs proposal before the Shipping Board last week, for the purchase and charter of vessels of the United States and American Merchant lines, and the construction of two new transatlantic liners to cost more than $30,000,000, for operation under the trade name of the United States Line, by American Rear Admiral David W. Taylor, former head of the bureau of construction and repair of the Navy Department, predicted the plan would go a long way toward putting the United States among the maritime leaders of the world.

"We now are in a state where there is vital need of disposing of our surplus products abroad," he said, "and if the general prosperity of this country is to continue we must have ships, under the American flag and of the most efficient type, in order to get and maintain our necessary share of foreign trade."

200 Study Change

Speakers who will appear before the Shipping Board tomorrow to argue extension of our tariff policy are H. G. Smith, vice president Bethlehem Shipbuilding Corporation; James Swan, editor Marine Engineering and Shipping Age; G. W. Dalzell, counsel Atlantic Coast Shipbuilders association; W. F. Gibbs, president Gibbs Bros., Inc.; H. C. Hunter, counsel New York & New Jersey Dry Dock association; Admiral David W. Taylor, U. S. N., retired; Alexander Smith, editor the Port of New York; H. L. Ferguson, president Newport News Shipbuilding & Dry Dock Co.; C. L. Bardo, vice president American Brown Boveri Electric Corporation, and J. Harry Mull, president William Cramp & Sons Ship & Engine Building Co.

According to Clarence King, more than 200 executives of shipyards, ship repair plants and allied marine interests were enabled to study the proposed tariff change through the instrumentality of the Atlantic Coast Shipbuilders' association, and not a single unfavorable criticism was received to any of its features.

Carlos Ibanez, minister of war, was solved late last night with the constitution of a new cabinet by Manuel Rivas-Vicuna, independent liberal deputy and a newspaper man.

The personnel of the ministry is as follows: Premier and minister of the interior, Manuel Rivas-Vicuna; foreign minister, Jorge Matte-Gormaz; minister of justice and education, Alvaro Santa Maria; minister of finance, Alberto Edwards; minister of agriculture, Arturo Alemparte; minister of war, Gen. Tug Found Wrecked; Crew of 9 Missing

Anacortes, Wash., Nov. 21 (By A. P.).—The tug Bahida, which carried a crew of nine, sank near Jack Island, in Puget sound, today. None of the crew had been found tonight.

Wreckage of the vessel was found on the shore of the island, between Anacortes and Bellingham, Wash. Examination led to the belief that an explosion of the ship's boilers preceded the sinking about 2 a. m. Most of the crew usually is asleep at that hour.

National Horse Show Draws Socially Elect

True lovers of the equine "four" will gather at the national horse show to reaffirm their undiminished affection despite the steady encroachment of rubber-hoofed sixes and eights on the domain in which he was for generations supreme.

Vicar Opens Services With Football Whistle

Kingston-on-Thames, England, Nov. 21 (By A. P.).—One sharp blast of a referee's whistle from the pulpit startled the congregation in St. Paul's church, Kingston Hill, when the Rev. A. Wellesley Orr arose to deliver his sermon. Instead of prefacing his remarks with a text of Scripture, the vicar explained that the whistle would serve as such, as many of the listeners were members of football clubs of the Kingston district.

"This whistle strikes terror into many of you, as I noticed by the way in which you jumped," the minister began. Pointing out that he himself as a young man had been an association referee, the vicar proceeded:

"My refereeing appeared to annoy some of the players because they began to swear; so I gave it up, as it is no use making a man swear on Saturday afternoon and trying to do a bit of good on Sunday."

The pews of the church were decorated with football jerseys.

POWERS WILL CONDEMN CHINESE LAW COURTS

the highest protection money. The commission cites eleven cases in which Chinese were beheaded or shot and foreigners were thrown into jail without trial. Most of these cases occurred almost under the nose of the commission in the different cities where it was making its investigation at the time.

What would happen to the nationals of a power relinquishing its extraterritorial rights is illustrated by two of the eleven cases cited involving a German in one instance and a Russian in the other, whose countries had relinquished their treaty privileges.

German Is Thrown in Jail.

The German, Otto Heinsohn, was arrested because his firm had refused to continue selling munitions to the military governor of Fukien, after Germany had signed an agreement not to supply arms to China. Heinsohn was thrown into jail because a shipment of arms ordered before the German embargo was proclaimed, was held up in Peking.

The Russian, Boris G. Osteroumoff, was general manager of the Chinese Eastern railway and was arrested without warrant on October 3, 1924, because he differed with the Chinese governor on questions of management.

Although the president of China issued a general amnesty to all prisoners on January 1, 1925, Ostroumoff was confined until September 12, 1925, when charges against him were dropped. He had been held eleven months without bail.

Extraterritoriality Must End, Gen. Chang Declares

Nanchang, Kiangsi, China, Nov. 21 (By A. P.).—Gen. Chang Kai-Shek, 30-year-old idol of the Cantonese revolutionary forces, told the Associated Press today the revolution in China will not end until extraterritoriality concessions and "unequal treaties" have been abolished.

As he outlined his program and that of the revolutionary army, it includes:

Conquering of all China and setting up the "committee form" of government; abrogation of all existing treaties; abolition of extraterritoriality, and all foreign concessions; restoration of the supremacy of the Chinese courts.

The revolutionary forces, Gen. Chang said, are determined to accomplish the downfall of imperialism. Their opposition to "imperialism" is not confined to China alone, but "must spread to other countries that are under imperialistic yoke."

Toward America, the new government feels friendship, yet it regards America as imperialistic because of the failure of the United States to give the Philippines independence.

Bullets in Coal Pile Endanger Man's Life

Special to The Washington Post.

Winchester, Va., Nov. 21.—R. B. Rogers narrowly escaped being shot today when one of two steel-jacketed bullets grazed his head after it exploded and tore a hole through his kitchen stove. Rogers had dumped a bucket of coal in the stove, and in a moment or two there were two loud reports, and the bullets came tearing through the side of the stove. He investigated the coal pile and found upward of a dozen .44-caliber steel-jacketed bullets.

FORMER DUCHESS DENIES COERCION, SAYS WRITER

PARENTS CALLED LOVING

London, Nov. 21 (By A. P.).—While the former Duchess of Marlborough is reported to be in southern France, The People, described in its title as "a weekly newspaper for all classes," publishes what it professes to be an exclusive interview with her in Paris, but undated, which purports to throw a new light on the annulment of the Marlborough-Consuelo Vanderbilt marriage.

The writer of the interview says he was able to obtain it "because of my long association with her family." He quotes Consuelo, now Mme. Jacques Balsan, as declaring indignantly:

"I say once for all that the suggestion of undue pressure is the foulest slander that could be uttered against my father and mother, both of whom thought only of my happiness, and would never have been party to the match had not they thought they were studying my welfare."

Admitting that she may have been a little romantic and easily persuaded in her own heart under the glamor of a first love that it was for her own happiness she was taking the step, she went on:

"But I want you to be clear. The step was mine and I alone was responsible for it. Disillusionment came soon, but that is my business, and does not concern the public. It is only because my parents have been attacked that I speak out now."

Consuelo refused to discuss the decree of annulment and added that although she had been besieged by reporters, she had given no other interview.

Airplane to Search For Missing Hunters

Lake George, N. Y., Nov. 21 (By A. P.).—An airplanewill be used tomorrow in a search for two Orange county men who have been missing since Monday when they went duck hunting. The men are L. J. Green, agricultural agent for the New York, Ontario & Western railroad, and John J. Eden, superintendent of the Harriman estate at Arden. Residents of the county today scoured both sides of the lake and all of its 365 islands without finding a trace of the men. Twelve State troopers aided in the search.

Montana Dry Laws Wiped From Books

Helena, Mont., Nov. 21 (By A. P.).—When Gov. J. E. Erickson yesterday signed a proclamation announcing the results of the vote November 2 on initiative and referendum measures, he wiped off the statute books all State prohibition enforcement legislation except that dealing with sale of liquor to minors and the validity of this provision is questioned.

Attorney General Foot, whose office has had charge of prohibition law enforcement, said the repeal of the liquor laws by the voters wipes out his force of enforcement officers. He holds, however, that cities may prosecute bootleggers under nuisance ordinances.

Switch Left Open; Train Is Wrecked

Columbia, S. C., Nov. 21 (By A. P.).—One man was killed and two others injured when Southern railroad passenger train No. 11 bound from Charleston to Columbia ran into an open switch at Moy, 26 miles east of here, last night. Two engines which were pulling the six-car train were thrown on their sides and the baggage and express cars badly damaged.

G. B. S. PROPOSES TUNNEY REWRITE HIS FIGHT BOOK

CITES CHANGE IN PURSES

London, Nov. 21 (By A. P.).—Making what the Daily Mail calls "an indulgent reply" to Gene Tunney, champion heavyweight pugilist of the world, in the champion's strictures on "Cashel Byron's profession," George Bernard Shaw, author of the book is quoted as saying:

"If the book were modernized for a film it would upset its character a good deal. I think it would be rather amusing to bring the book up to date and make the fight in it that between Dempsey and Tunney. I haven't time to do it now, but I might do so sometime."

Tunney criticized the English playwright's book on the ground that the character of Cashel Byron was badly drawn and the story silly. Tunney remarked that Shaw did not seem to understand either the temperament or the psychology of the professional boxer, and Byron was made to appear as no more than a blundering vulgarian. Finally he declared that the book must be viewed only as a product of the immature years of the writer.

G. B. S. admits the truth of the criticism that the work is immature, but is not sure whether Tunney knows what nineteenth century boxers were like. He points out that Cashel would be glad to get a guinea for a fight, while Tunney might want a hundred thousand dollars.

"If Tunney thinks he can rewrite the book, and improve it," concludes its author, "he better do so. He ought to know more about it than I."

"Whsipering Gallery" Now Believed Hoax

London, Nov. 21 (By A. P.).—"The Whispering Gallery," from the pen of an anonymous author, who claimed that his name was a "household word among European diplomats," has apparently been entirely abandoned by its publishers, the John Lane Co.

On its first appearance, disclosing what were alleged to be secrets of the court and private affairs of noted personages, "The Whispering Gallery" drew so much denial of various incidents related, that the publishers withdrew it.

The Daily Mail now prints a long, signed statement from the publishers saying that they seemingly were the victims of a hoax and admitting the book ought never to have been published. They offer their apologies for any offense it has given.

Oslo Denies Rumor Of Royal Engagement

Oslo, Norway, Nov. 21 (By A. P.).—Crown Prince Olav's reported engagement to Princess Ingrid of Sweden, as announced by newspapers outside the kingdom, has brought forth the semiofficial statement that nothing is known at the Norwegian court of such an event.

The report was first published in Stockholm on rumors from this capital.

Are You "Toxic?"

Good Health Requires Good Elimination of the Body Poisons

WHEN one hasn't good elimination, and there is a poisoning of the blood from the waste products of metabolism, one is said to be "toxic." The kidneys are the blood filters. Functional inactivity of the kidneys permits a retention of waste poisons in the blood. Symptoms of this toxic condition are a tired, languid feeling, drowsy headaches and dizziness and, often, a dull, nagging backache. That the kidneys are not functioning as they should is sometimes shown by scanty or burning passage of secretions. Many readers have learned the value of drinking plenty of pure water in this condition and the occasional use of a stimulant diuretic to the kidneys. Doan's Pills have been winning friends for more than forty years the country over. Doan's are a stimulant diuretic* acting on the kidneys only. Users everywhere endorse them. Ask your neighbor!

Keeping up with the South

In the 15-year period, 1910-1925, the coal mined in the states of the South served by the Southern Railway System has increased 65 per cent; the pig iron production increased 14 per cent; active cotton spindles increased 53 per cent; and the total value of mineral production increased 205 per cent.

In the two decades, 1900-1920, the value of farm property in these states increased from approximately $2,500,000,000 to more than $10,000,000,000.

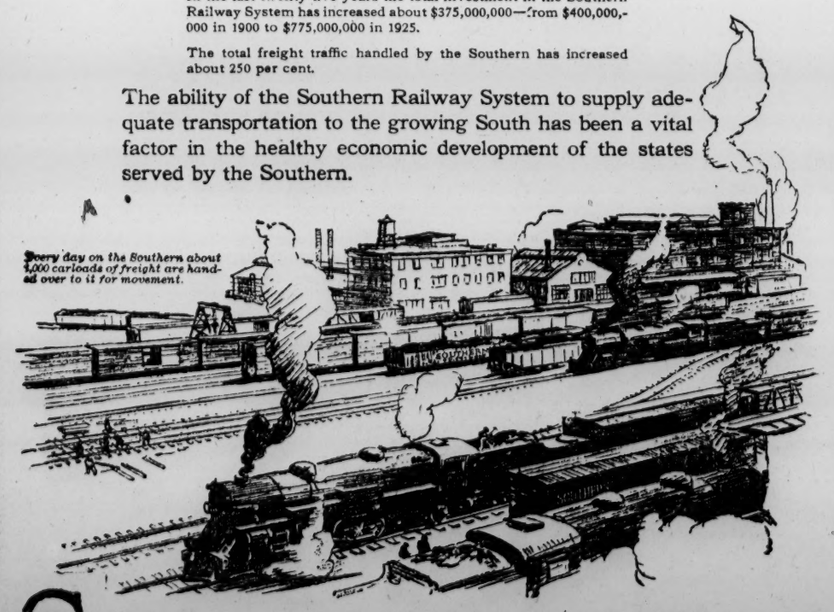

And in the 20-year period, 1904-1923, the value of all manufactures produced in these states increased from about $1,200,000,000 to almost $5,000,000,000.

Such has been the growth of the South. The growth of the Southern Railway System in the same period also is impressive.

In the last twenty-five years the total investment in the Southern Railway System has increased about $375,000,000—from $400,000,000 in 1900 to $775,000,000 in 1925.

The total freight traffic handled by the Southern has increased about 250 per cent.

The ability of the Southern Railway System to supply adequate transportation to the growing South has been a vital factor in the healthy economic development of the states served by the Southern.

Every day on the Southern about 4,000 carloads of freight are handed over to it for movement.

OFFERINGS AT THE THEATERS

PALACE

Strickland renders jazz with a classical touch, enticing it from his group of syncopators in a gentle and persuasive manner.

As for Cy Landry—well, it is to be hoped that he never will give up his slip-sliding days and his semaphore arm. His touch-and-go laugh system is good for dry constitutions.

Not to be outdone by Landry is Jack North with the "ukiest" uke along the Dixie line. North does spanking good work. The mantle of fun thrown around his shoulders by Landry, which he must carry off-stage, is guarantee of that, if nothing else.

"Upstage"—good as pictures go—has nothing extraordinary to offer beyond being a good vehicle for dressing up Miss Shearer's talents. The story is one of back-stage life, featuring Miss Shearer in a love by-plot.

A good Aesop is on the bill, a novelty number, "Tin-Types," has its merits; Betty Marvin frisks a bit and Tom Gannon brings home "the Thanksgiving turkey" with his orchestra.

METROPOLITAN

Harry Langdon has taken his place among the great clowns of the screen. In "The Strong Man," his new film which opened the week at the Metropolitan yesterday, he wins the definite right to be classed with Chaplin, Lloyd and Keaton. His own personality is funnier by nature than any of theirs, and probably always has been. But the strings that move the movies only have lately been so pulled as to equip him with the casts, the directorship and the adequate stories that go to make the big screen comedies.

"The Strong Man" is as effective as any of the products of the intensive laugh-making machinery that Hollywood slowly has developed out of early custard-pie drama. Many parts are screamingly funny.

The hero is a young Belgian soldier who is captured in no man's land by a German who is a professional strong man. As "Zandow's" assistant, he comes to America, hopnig to find Mary Brown, who has written him sweet letters. They reach a town ruled by bootleggers who have opened a big music hall next to the church. The good people of the town march seven times around the hall in hope that the walls will fall like Jericho's. Zandow becomes drunk and the little Belgian has to take his place on the stage. The walls fall as a result and Mary Brown proves to be the pastor's blind daughter. If that isn't a lucid plot, see the picture and laugh anyhow.

COLUMBIA

Distinctly collegiate is the Thanksgiving week program at the Columbia, where Richard Dix, in "The Quarterback," is being held over for a second week. The setting of "The Quarterback" is on two college campuses, and their sorority and fraternity houses. The story deals exclusively with college students, and the action centers around the popular college football. Richard Dix is quite a satisfactory college hero, and Esther Ralston, a typical coed.

The theme concerns the fortunes—and misfortunes—of Jack Stone, student of Colton college, obliged to work his way through by a milk route, who is in love with a coed of a rival college. He is the hope of his college football team because of his speed, but finds himself disgraced and disqualified the morning of the big game. Then the coed, Louise Mason, redeems the honor of Stone, and a little hero-worshiper brings him to the field just in time to win the game for Colton—and Louise for himself.

"The Quarterback" is another college picture to add to the ever-growing list. College and college football recently have become a "best-seller" theme for films, as exemplified by "Brown of Harvard," "One Minute to Play" and "The Campus Flirt."

"The Quarterback" will be to some memories of the good old days, to others familiar incidents of the present, and to still others the visualization of a life they dreamed of and longed for, but never attained. All in all, it is unusually good entertainment that shouldn't be missed.

The collegiate atmosphere is further carried out in the overture; a compilation of the songs of local colleges. Supporting the film features are a Pathe News Reel, a comedy and Loew's Magazine, a novelty.

GAYETY

"Kosher Kitty Kelly," playing at the Gayety this week, is just another one of those Irish-Jewish comedies following in the footsteps of "Abie's Irish Rose." This one has comedy of all nationalities in it, including Greek and Chinese.

Kitty Kelly, herself, about whom the song is written, is being played by Irene Leary. Blanche Sourre is the pretty Jewish girl and the two juveniles are Lew Lesser and Fred Steger. The chief slap-sticking is done by Katharine Bingham as Mrs. Kelly, Phil Ott as Ginsberg, and Harry Rose as Wan Lee. Jack Ford and Edna Lawrence supply most of the dancing numbers in a nice way.

The traditional plot, about the love affairs between the two races, is given a new ending in this one, for everything ends happily with the Irish girl marrying the Irish boy, and the Jewish boy selecting the girl of his own race to marry in the end. Thus we have a double wedding.

CENTRAL

Just as "The Spoilers" was deemed such excellent motion picture material that it was filmed again recently in the manner of the more modern era, so has come to pass in the case of "The Flame of the Yukon," featuring Seena Owen, which is being presented in its reincarnated form as chief feature of the bill at Crandall's Central the first two days of this week.

In the role Seena Owen brings to the screen a new creation of the character of the Alaskan dance hall siren who was won away from the life of the Northern resorts through her love for a clean-minded and valorous young tenderfoot. The glamour of the role could not possibly be dimmed, but to it Miss Owen brings attributes that make it more than ever real and romantic. The supporting cast is led by Arnold Gray, Mathew Betz and Dorothy Greenwood.

The comedy for the first bill of Thanksgiving week is supplied by Walter Hiers in "Hitchin' Up," an amusing two-reeler, and a new release of "Screen Snapshots" also is shown.

NOTE ASKS RESCUE OF GIRL ON RUM SHIP

Coast Guard Cutters Put to Sea in Search for the Supposed Captive.

Beach Haven, N. J., Nov. 21 (By A. P.).—Coast guard cutters have put to sea to try to recsue Kate Lavina, a New York girl, believed to be a prisoner on a rum-runner somewhere off the New Jersey coast. Search for the craft, known as the Jupiter, followed the finding of a note on the beach by a boy. The note was in a whisky bottle. Printed on plain paper and dated October 20, 1926, it read:

"Please save an American girl from rum runners. They are somewhere off Atlantic City. They want me to take care of them. They are always drunk. My name is Kate Lavina and I am from New York. Please help me. My father will pay you for it. The boat is called the Jupiter; her next stop will be Cape May."

The Jupiter was described as a speedy craft and one of the most persistent offenders in rum running. It has not been sighted for several months.

KEITH'S

For some time past Hollywood has sent its quota to the Keith circuit. Forsooth, some of the screen stars have been none too good behind the footlights. Like the fellow in the song who misses his Swiss, the majority of these folk need a director all the time. Comes then Beverly bayne to offer relief. She does so in a breezy little sketch written by Edwin Burke, a travesty on family life, that goes over big.

The whole bill this week at Keith's registers. Only one act fails to click—a golfer and his sticks; probably because interest in golf wanes after country courses are left behind.

Harry J. Conley, in an old story polished up by Willard Mack, brings his village "slicker" in a new setting and causes much merriment. Then there is Alma Neilson, in a dancing act, and Bertell and Gould in a whirlwind xylophone and dance offering.

Jim Barton is acknowledged by experts to have the best "drunk" ever staged. Of course, it is a male inebriate. Corinne Tilson brings the best female portrayal vaudeville ever saw—a screamingly funny picture of the lady who looked too long upon wine when it was red.

The "Runaway Four"—four fellows who wear the navy uniform—are back again with an act that never fails to win favor in Mr. Robbin's Fifteenth street playhouse. The bill closes with Bob Anderson's educated pony going through her paces.

All told, about as smooth running show as the local Keith forces have presented in the year of grace 1926.

EARLE

Another and a better Orpheum unit show is the holiday bill attraction at the Earle this week, with a feature picture, "For Alimony Only," starring Leatrice Joy.

This number of the Orpheum circuit presents as its headliner Doc Baker, remarkable for his rapid change of costumes. Doc Baker's "protean revue" is extremely colorful in staging and costumes. It offers a diversified combination of music, dancing and songs—Baker's voice is fine, but those of the Bower sisters are weak—however, they make up for the shortage by their dancing.

Joseph K. Watson, character comedian, creates laughs in his comic monologue, "Disarrangement of Facts." The only criticism is of the subject Watson uses—the ideas and the manner of getting the laughs from the audience goes over well.

Billie Gilbert makes a lot of nonsense out of nothing, presents it in a breezy manner, and calls it "Kerchoo."

Willis and Holmes, who call themselves the "Backyard Entertainers," are tame in that particular act but make up for it in other parts of the unit show.

Roy Weber and the ensemble close the vaudeville portion with a short act, "Easy Sailing," which is distinctive for its settings.

"For Alimony Only," the film feature, also can be counted on for entertainment. Leatrice Joy and Clive Brooks are costarred, with Casson Ferguson and Lillyan Tashman in support. Clive Brooks is cast as Peter Williams, a victim of Narcissa, a woman of the world who marries for alimony only. Peter, after the divorce, is forced to be thrifty to make up the alimony on which his former wife is living, and supporting Bert, a friend. Peter meets Mary Martin, who soon becomes the second Mrs. Williams, and she too is forced to save for her precedessor's alimony. Now the situation is this: Narcissa, although wishing to marry Bert, can not, without losing their only source of income, the alimony, and Peter, desiring to give Mary better things, wants to be freed from his debt. Before the finis, both parties come face to face in a roadhouse, which at the same time is being raided by the police.

Leatrice Joy, as Mary, has much opportunity to act, and does it well. Lillyan Tashman, as the money-loving divorcee, has a part set amid luxurious surroundings, and her acting is in accordance with them, fine. Clive Brooks, as usual, is good. The Earle News is the only other film.

STRAND

As a special Thanksgiving week attraction, Manager Sparrow, of the Strand, has substituted a complete musical production for his usual five acts of vaudeville. This musical show is "Hits and Bits of 1926," personally produced by Victor Hyde, with I. B. Hamp, the big hit, who comes out first to introduce the show and from then on comes in and out until he does his slow motion at the finale. He is a riot in the comedy sketches, especially the one called "Pants."

Beatrice Jamieson contributed several solo numbers, including "The Mystery of Love." Rush and Butler are "Charleston" hounds; Earl Root and Lew Lewis added more laughs. Mr. Root's dramatic bit in one of the sketches brought down the house. The setting for Miss Gray's Dutch number is very pretty and the Dancing Dozen, Dutch girls and boys, furnished the dances to Miss Gray's song, "Where the Tulips Grow."

Director Manvell's overture is made up with "Gems From Geo. White's Scandals of 1926," some of the gems being "Black Bottom," "Lucky Day" and "Birth of the Blues."

TIVOLI

Corinne Griffith is the "tin pan alley" song plugger to the life in "Syncopating Sue," her latest First National vehicle, being shown the first two days of this week at Crandall's Tivoli theater as the chief feature of a bill that embraces much rich entertainment value.

"Syncopating Sue" relates the New York adventures of a girl hired to pound out ordinary tunes on a cheap piano in a Broadway song shop immediately under the offices of New York's foremost theatrical producer. He implores her to stop her racket and she bargains to do so for a chance on the stage. Net result: Stanch adherence to the love of the trap drummer she had met on the gaudy street.

Miss Griffith is supported by Tom Moore, Lee Moran, Rockliffe Fellowes, Joyce Compton and Sunshine Hart.

The short-reel comedy presents Alice Day in Mack Sennett's "The Ghost of Folly," and a new symposium of the "Topics of the Day" also is screened.

AMBASSADOR

At Crandall's Ambassador theater the first three days of this week a new Newsreel and added short subjects, accompanied by pipe organ music by Mirabel J. Lindsay and Gertrude Greiselman, comprise the supplementary attraction of an entertaining bill. In "The Strong Man" the star is supported by an unusually notable cast that includes Gertrude Astor, Priscilla Bonner, William V. Mong and Robert Mc[illegible]. A complete review will be found in conjunction with Crandall's Metropolitan.

RIALTO

"Michael Strogoff" races for another week across the Siberian wastes at the recreated Rialto. And that is good news for it proves the public knows more about its wants than the critics.

"Michael Strogoff" has its theatrical values and its cinema values; for both to be of the superior type would be asking more than is asked of many of the films that flit their way across the stage world today.

"Michael Strogoff" is the story of a courier of the Russian czar carrying from Moscow to a beleagured garrison of the emperor's in a faraway Irtursk, a message of soldier help. To do so the courier must cross the wastes of Siberia, through Tartar enemy country—a distance of 5,000 miles. His adventures make up the story.

The color photography of the play is outstanding. One scene—that before the tent of the Grand Khan of the Tartars—where Strogoff is blinded, is a magnificent climatical scene. It is full of Russian beauty.

The same embellishments that graced the play last week hold over also—Stefan Kozekavitch, Russian barytone soloist, and the Max Pemberton dancers. Rox Rommell, conducting, leads his orchestra along the musical heights.

BELASCO

Mme. Lillian Evanti, coloratura soprano, the ledaing singer among the colored women of this country in a valedictory concert last night at the Belasco theater, gave a superlative presentation of varied and artistic repertoire as a tribute to the graces of her operatic talent and to an appreciative audience. The concert was the last, but one, in America, before undertaking her third continental tour, December 4.

Her vocalization under adequate control, her trilling and staccato singing, her perfect articulation in the florid Italian butterfly song (Scarlatti), and the "Song of Spring" (Handel), from the French opera "Rodelinda," demonstrated as initial numbers her artistry and dramatic force. Rendition of three negro spirituals from Burleigh proved a revelation of intimate personal charm, evoking numerous encores.

Costumed exquisitely in fashion of 1830, she sang the grand air from "La Traviata," as a final number, giving an interpretation of Violetta daintily sensible of the superior nuances, and meriting the ovation accorded. Her high notes were rendered with exceptional charm, affording clear exposition of her finished method of tone production. Miss Lydia Mason, who accompanied her, was compelled to respond to several encores.

The program included "Alleluja" (Mozart), "O Cease Thy Singing, Maiden Fair" (Rachmaninoff), "Fiocca La Neve" (Cimara), and "Me Company Along" (Hageman).

MUTUAL

Don't miss seeing the "Land of Joy," with Sammy Spears and his gloom chasers, which opened yesterday afternoon for a week's engagement at the Mutual.

How those joyland girls, featuring Dona Lee, Mildred Kennedy and Dolly Lewis, could dance and sing. The music was joyous, catchy and irresistible, and the girls went dance mad.

Neither could dapper Tommy Donnelly's feet resist the tempting music. His and Miss Lee's clog dance was one of the big hits in the show. Another hit was "Take Off a Little Bit," featuring Miss Kennedy and the girls.

Sammy Spears, Jack McSorley and Dick Hulse played many new jokes. Sammy Spears, as Issy Cohen, master of ceremony, was true to character, and Dick Hulse, as Chubby, the policeman, gladiator, &c., deserves credit for many chuckles.

Television Is Nearer, Marconi Tells Royalty

Rome, Nov. 21 (By A. P.).—William Marconi, lecturing before the king and queen and many of the highest officials of the kingdom today, told of the progress which had been made in wireless transmission. He explained the new short-wave directional radio system and declared that it will go a long way toward solving the problem of wireless transmission of photographs and of television.

Marconi hoped soon to be able to transmit energy by wireless and believed that the new system would represent a great saving, as it needed only one-tenth the power of ordinary transmission.

Berlin to Get Plenty Of Christmas Geese

Berlin, Nov. 21 (By A. P.).—The Christmas goose crop is to Germany what the Thanksgiving turkey crop is to a large part of America, and the current news from the countryside that the prospects are fine for a high-quality yield comes as a welcome prelude to the German holiday season. No Christmas table is complete without its roast goose and green cabbage.

The product of the nearby rural districts which will help to stock the Berlin market stalls as the Christmas season approaches now is in the last stages of preparation for market, either on the owners' farms or in the big geese-fattening establishments around the city.

6 ENTOMBED IN MINE DO NOT HEED SIGNAL

Hole Drilled to Section Men Were Supposed to Be Brings No Reply.

Hazelton, Pa., Nov. 21 (By A. P.).—Workmen entombed in the Tomhicken mines since last Tuesday afternoon, failed to answer signals sounded to an abandoned breast which the six men were believed to have chosen as a haven of shelter, after drillers had broken through 80 feet 6 inches of earth today. Thirty-three consecutive hours of boring with a diamond drill was necessary before the abandoned breast was reached.

Dropping of electric lights and soundings failed to bring any response from the six men whom it was hoped would have sought refuge from the flooding waters in this section of the mine.

The first breast tipped is the highest in point of pitch and would have offered a most remote point from the surging waters. The [illegible] followed the coal to the outcrop [illegible] engineers, in calculating the distance from the surface, hit close to the mark.

Another hole is being bored in the adjoining breast several hundred feet and tomorrow two more will be started, the last in the ill-fated gangway.

WHY YOU SHOULD DRINK MORE TEA

Sir Charles Higham

THERE is nothing quite so delicious or refreshing as a cup of good tea. It stimulates the brain as nothing else can do. Try afternoon tea as an innovation in your home. Watch the effect on your guests. It promotes pleasant conversation. It strengthens your friendships. The Afternoon Tea habit is now general throughout the civilized world.

How to make Tea

Be sure you use India Tea or a blend containing India Tea and make it in the correct way—as it is served in England. Use an earthenware teapot. Put into it one teaspoonful of India Tea for each cup of tea required. Be sure the water is poured into the teapot the moment it boils. Allow to stand for 5 minutes to infuse. Put a little milk or cream into each cup before serving the tea. It greatly improves the flavour. Then add sugar to taste.

Your retailer or store can supply you with India Tea or blends containing India Tea. He has no difficulty in getting it as practically every wholesale distributor of tea in this district supplies India Tea.

The high level reached in the cultivation of tea in India has only been secured after many years of scientific agricultural research. The highly efficient process of India Tea manufacture is attained by the utilisation of the most modern methods and machinery, ensuring a product of the greatest purity.

CHURCHES TO SEEK FACTS ON BELIEFS IN QUESTIONNAIRE

Newspaper Readers Will Be Asked if They Believe in God or Prayer.

INSPIRATION OF BIBLE AND WORSHIP FIGURE

Dr. Stelzle Thinks Replies Will Prove Startling to the Religious Leaders.

New York, Nov. 21 (By A. P.).—American churches are to use daily newspapers to find out how many persons in this country believe in God.

The question "Do you believe in God?" and eleven others will make up a questionnaire, to be submitted to newspaper readers all over the country by the church advertising department of the International Advertising association, early in December, it was announced today.

Asked in Questionnaire.

The questionnaire will ask:

"Do you believe in God?

"Do you believe in immortality?

"Do you believe in prayer as a means of personal relationship with God.

"Do you believe that Jesus was divine as no other man was divine?

"Do you regard the Bible as inspired in a sense that no other literature could be said to be inspired?

"Are you an active member of any church?

"Do you regularly attend any religious services?

"Would you be willing to have your family grow up in a community in which there is no church?

"Do you regularly have 'family worship' in your home?

"Were you brought up in a religious home?

"Do you send your children to any school of religious instruction?

"Do you think religion in some form is a necessary element of life for the individual and the community?"

Newspapers are to be asked to print these questions daily and publish daily totals of the religious poll. Names of those answering will not be published.

Charles Stelze, publicity counselor for the church advertising department, today said the facts developed by the poll "will, no doubt, be startling to large numbers of church leaders whose opinions concerning the state of mind on religion have been based upon a comparatively limited personal acquaintance, mainly with those sharing their opinions.

"Nobody," Stelzle said, "is in a position to secure this data quite as well as the newspapers. They will make a unique contribution to the religious life of the nation by giving the country the information thus obtained. The nonsectarian nature of the qquestions will permit everybody to participate. As the answers will deal with beliefs, without regard to what others may think, and as there will be no particular desire on the part of those who answer the questions to change the opinions of others, the answer given will undoubtedly be sincere."

Prominent ministers all over America are connected with the campaign.

Working Girl's Silk Hose Stir Clinic to Activity

New York, Nov. 21 (By A. P.).—What price silk stockings? This is one of the questions to be answered by women conducting a clinic on the working girl—what she eats and wears, how she works and plays.

In announcing the analysis, the Association to Promote Proper Housing for Girls, which begins its investigation tomorrow, says:

"If silk stockings are being bought at the expense of plain old-fashioned beef and fresh vegetables, there are a lot of people who wish to know it. Whether her slim, straight silhouette, of which the business girl is so proud, is the result of underfeeding or achieved by much exercise, also are points we will look into."

Experts in economics, nutrition and menu planning will meet the youthful financiers who manage to make $15 cover a week's board, lodging, clothing, amusement and other expenses.

Giant Dinosaur Eggs Discovered in Mexico

New York, Nov. 21 (By A. P.).—Five fossilized eggs of the brontosaurus, a species of giant dinosaur, have been discovered in Mexico by V. L. Volney Stevens, a mining engineer of Harrison, N. Y., the New York American will say in a copyrighted story tomorrow.

The discovery is the first of the kind made on the American continent and is unique in the annals of paleontology, in that each fossil reveals the remains of an elephant-like embryo.

Stevens broke up four eggs to examine them, the fifth he brought home with him. This one is said to show a well formed trunk bursting through the shell.

Suit on Paderewski Over Program Fails

Pittsburgh, Pa., Nov. 21 (By A. P.).—Nonsuiting an action in which Ignace Jan Paderewski, famed pianist, was sued for $5,000 for alleged failure to return an old program of a concert he gave in Berlin, Germany in 1891, Federal Judge R. M. Gibson observed that the plaintiff, C. G. Rothleder, Pittsburgh, "ought to have his head examined if he was offered $3,500 for the program and did not take it." Rothleder said a collector once offered him $3,500 for it. Later he said he sent it to Paderewski.

Sir Henry Brandon's Son Charity Patient

Chicago, Nov. 21 (By A. P.).—Henry C. Brandon, who died a charity patient at the County hospital, was identified today by friends as the son of Sir Henry and Lady Brandon, of London, an Oxford graduate and at one time astronomer at Greenwich observatory.

Five years ago he was a civil engineer for a railroad here, friends say. Death was caused by meningitis.

Boy, 9, Kills Cousin, 7, While Playing Bandit

Terre Haute, Ind., Nov. 21 (By A. P.).—James Martin, aged 7, living near New Goshen, was instantly killed today when accidentally shot in the head with an "unloaded" shot gun in the hands of his 9-year-old cousin, Chester Cox. The shooting occurred in the Cox home nearby, where the two boys had been playing "bandit."

FORD CHALLENGED BY NATHAN STRAUS IN BEHALF OF JEWS

DECLARES SYCOPHANTS DECEIVED MILLIONAIRE

Palestine Appeal Drive Speaker Offers to Submit Facts to Committee.

Boston, Nov. 21 (By A. P.).—Charging that Henry Ford has engaged his wealth "in a campaign of slander against the Jewish people," Nathan Straus today invited the manufacturer to select eight members of a committee of ten, which would prove to him that "some of the sycophants in his surroundings, for their own personal reasons, misinformed and deceived him" on Jewish questions.

Speaking here at an annual conference of the United Paletsine appeal, which opened the year's drive for $7,500,000, Mr. Straus asserted that the Jewish millionaires who fail in their duty to aid the cause are "not the only offenders by not employing their wealth properly."

"Among the Christian millionaires, there are some who use their wealth for the benefit of mankind, and others who use it for destructive purposes, for breeding trouble," he said.

Cites Rockefeller Family.

"For example, the Rockefellers, both father and son, are devoting their millions to help the welfare of mankind, to promote science and advance civilization; while a man like Henry Ford, who has become one of the richest money kings of the world, has engaged in a campaign of slander against the Jewish people, has spread malicious lies about them, and stirred up trouble, mischief and hatred here and in Europe."

Characterizing the Rockefeller wealth as a "blessing" and Ford's as a "curse to America and the rest of the world, because it has been used for the spread of hatred and not of peace," Mr. Straus declared that "it is not yet too late." He continued:

"Mr. Ford and his son must have realized ere now that some of the sychophants of his surroundings for their own personal reasons misinformed and deceived him. For a man of his vast interests it is not possible to verify all that is reported to him.

Offers Committee of Ten.

"It takes 'the great' to make amends for their mistakes, and although we have suffered much from these past attacks on an innocent, inoffensive people, we will forgive and forget if Mr. Ford admits the wrong he has inadvertently inflicted in the past.

"If he submitted the facts to a committee of ten men of unimpeachable characters, ministers and laymen, he would be fully convinced of the justice of my claim. Let him select eight and I will select two outstanding Christians, tried and true, to act on this committee. Is not this a fair proposition?"

Decrying "international fighting and quarreling here" while "our brethren abroad are suffering," Mr. Straus declared: "I wish the Jews would realize that by uniting they can rebuild Palestine easily, while by fighting among themselves they can only hurt themselves, harm the Jewish cause and delay the great historic work in which we are engaged."

concern which has announced, to its clients that it soon will be in position to give nationally known products the queen's indorsement.

Mr. Morris, who is conducting her majesty's tour of New York, said Marie did not know Harry Klemfuss, head of the concern, and that she had had no negotiations with him. A similar denial of any connection with such indorsements was issued by the queen while in Chicago, with particular reference to a New York hat maker who presented two bonnets and then published the formal letter of acknowledgment.

Another wish expressed by Marie went by the boards today. After a brisk run from Tuxedo to the Tarrytown ferry over narrow and rough roads, the queen asked the escort of State troopers to hold the speed to 45 miles an hour. After the crossing, however, the motorcars sped through Tarrytown and Yonkers into New York at 55 miles, perhaps because a half hour wait for the ferry threatened to set back the entire program.

The ferry was missed when the queen's own chauffeur had to stop while a mechanic investigated smoking brakebands. Too much foot-braking on the down grade had overheated the apparatus.

Guests at the Mitchell dinner tonight included Mrs. Charles Dana Gibson, Mrs. Morgan Hamilton, Mr. and Mrs. Dyndy Prince, Mr. and Mrs. Ledyard Blair, Mrs. Arthur Woods, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Goelet, Mr. and Mrs. John Crowdin, Foxhall Keene and Mr. and Mrs. Morris.

King Ferdinand Is Better; Takes Afternoon Drive

Bucharest, Roumania, Nov. 21 (By A. P.).—The condition of King Ferdinand, who has been ill, was greatly improved today. In the afternoon he took a long drive.

Official circles still refuse to comment regarding Queen Marie's earlier return from America, but general satisfaction is expressed among the people that the queen is homeward bound.

Ileana Takes Injured Policeman to Hospital

New York, Nov. 1 (By A. P.).—Princess Ileana converted her automobile into an ambulance today to take an injured motorcycle patrolman to a hospital and then walked to her hotel.

The princess was driving up Park avenue from the Calvary Baptist church, where she attended services, when a crosstown automobile at Forty-eighth street struck Eugene Roberts, a patrolman, escorting her. She ordered her car to stop at once, helped the injured patrolman into it and sent him off to a hospital. Then she walked three blocks to the hotel, accompanied by her chaperone.

CHURCH LEADERS PLEAD FOR ROUMANIAN FELLOWS

NOTABLE NAMES SIGNED

Boston, Nov. 21 (By A. P.).—A petition, asking Queen Marie of Roumania to consider the religious minorities in her country, has been signed by 60 prominent Americans and will be presented to her before her departure for home, the current issue of the Independent state. It reads:

"We present to your majesty our respectful salutations, and as citizens of the United States we welcome you to our country as an honored guest.

"We take advantage of your presence here to petition your majesty to give your distinguished personal consideration to those religious minorities in Roumania suffering under the practice of discriminations: Baptists, Jews, Lutherans, Presbyterians, Unitarians and Roman Catholics. We know that hopeful progress has already been made by the Roumanian government toward a solution of this problem. We rejoice that the condition of those minorities has been bettered, but much remains to be done, and it is our conviction that if your royal influence could be further exerted on their behalf their present condition would be vastly improved.

"We hope that your majesty may continue to enjoy your visit, and wish you godspeed upon your homeward journey."

Included in the 60 singers, representatives of each of the sects which make up the Roumanian religious minorities, are William Cardinal O'Connell, archbishop of Boston; Bishop Charles L. Slattery, of the Massachusetts diocese of the Episcopal Church; Evangeline Booth, commander of the Salvation Army in the United States; the Rev. C. S. Parkes Cadman, of Central Congregational church, Brooklyn, N. Y.; the Rev. Harry Emerson Fosdick, of Union Theological seminary, New York; Percy W. Gardner, president of the Unitarian Laymen's league, of Providence; William H. P. Faunce, president of Brown university; Harold S. Boardman, president of the University of Maine; Kenneth C. M. Stills, president of Bowdoin college; Ada Comstock, president of Radcliffe college; Ellen F. Pendleton, president of Wellesley college; Julian W. Mack, New York Federal judge; Robert Watson, president of the Massachusetts Federation of Churches.

Amos Hansard, 25, and a Mr. Curtis, 30, were killed instantly. Jessie Samples, 22, and his brother, Dewey, 25, are in a Gainesville hospital. The former is not expected to live.

THE NEW BRITISH COMMONWEALTH.

The British imperial conference has adopted the momentous report of its committee on interimperial relations providing for a readjustment of the relation of the dominions to Great Britain. Presumably the proposals will be submitted by the governments concerned; but it is a foregone conclusion that the plan will be approved in its entirety. The changed relations constitute the consummation of the desire of the dominions for liberty of action in conducting their own affairs and their relations with foreign countries.

Henceforth the British "empire" survives in name only. The imperial authority of the British cabinet and parliament is shorn away until only a vestige remains. The report recognizes that "the major share of responsibility" in the conduct of foreign affairs "rests now and must for some time continue to rest with his majesty's government in Great Britain." But each of the dominions hereafter will have power to make treaties, with the understanding that such treaties shall relate to its own affairs and that engagements affecting other dominions shall not be made without the consent of the parties affected. Thus the government of Great Britain is precluded hereafter from entering into treaties in behalf of the empire without first obtaining the consent of the dominion governments.

The status of India remains as defined by the act of 1916. Australia, Canada, the Irish Free State, New Zealand, Newfoundland and South Africa acquire a status equal to that of Great Britain within the British commonwealth of nations. Their governments will communicate directly with each other and with the government of Great Britain, and not through a governor general. This functionary hereafter will represent the crown, and not the British government, and he will possess only the nominal authority possessed by the king in Great Britain. The changed status of the Irish Free State having rendered the term "United Kingdom" obsolete, the title of the king is changed by leaving out those words.

Several features of this far-reaching decision are of special interest to Americans. First, it may be observed that if the government of George III had possessed the wisdom of the government of George V there would have been no Declaration of Independence, and the United States would now be a part of the British commonwealth. Second, the evolution from empire to commonwealth is accomplished by mutual consent, and no written constitution will follow to bind the bargain. Third, as the United States must deal separately hereafter with the nations of the British commonwealth, it appears probable that ministers representing Australia, New Zealand, Newfoundland and South Africa will be accredited to Washington, in addition to the Canadian and Irish representatives already provided for. Presumably American diplomatic representatives will be sent to these nations.

The independent status of the British dominions in the league of nations is recognized in the imperial conference report. Each has a vote, and hereafter each doubtless will aspire to become a member of the council, on an equality with Great Britain.

It is noted that the report lays emphasis upon the fact that all the dominions agreed at Geneva upon the conclusions reached by the special conference of members of the league of nations, which considered the conditions attached by the United States to its resolution adhering to the world court protocol, and that the dominions agreed to the action which that conference recommended. The action recommended was that the league of nations members should make an identic reply to the United States, imposing certain counterconditions to its entry into the world court. As President Coolidge on November 11 gave notice that the conditions adopted by the Senate must be accepted without modification, the disclosure of the attitude of all the British nations in favor of modifying the conditions makes it very clear that no agreement will be reached. The United States, therefore, will not ratify the world court protocol.

It can not be doubted that the British dominions eventually would have severed their relations with Great Britain if their independence had been denied. The imperial conference now adjourning must have been the occasion of many heartburning discussions behind the curtain. It could not have been easy for the government of Great Britain to surrender powers that have been exercised for ages, and which until lately were supposed to be an integral element of the prestige and authority of the crown of England. But the ministers in England have wisely relinquished to the dominions the powers to which they are entitled as autonomous nations under a common crown. Thus, while not reaching the happy condition achieved by the United States in the form of a "more perfect union," the British nations have nevertheless taken an enormous stride forward by abolishing the empire and setting up the commonwealth.

HELPING THE HUSBANDMAN.

The average farmer on the farms of the United States can not possibly appreciate the interest which a large body of men of science take in his welfare. These lovers of mankind use up many millions of brain cells in pondering problems the solution of which means so much to the husbandman. Unfortunately the results of these sleepless nights of deep thought are usually published in limited, very limited, editions and on such expensive paper that the man who might be benefited by reading the results of the researches is debarred from knowing how much his fellow men have done in his interest.

There was a gathering in the big banquet hall of one of the leading hotels in New York a few weeks ago. It was the occasion of the annual meeting of the Academy of Political Science, and at that gathering was read a paper, "Power on the Farm," wherein the listeners were told that the farms today are managed as a newspaper would be conducted if the old-fashioned Washington hand-press were the only means of printing the daily editions. While the speaker admitted that the tractor and the gang plow are an improvement on the man-drawn crooked stick which constituted the agricultural implement outfit of the husbandman in the days of the Pharaohs, and while he conceded that the mower and the self-binder are somewhat superior to the scythe and sickle of colonial days, he insisted that what is needed is electric power on every farm.

And it will be so easy to carry out his plans. He points out that there are upwards of six million farms in the United States, of which only about 7% have either gas or electric service. To reach these farms are approximately 3,000,000 miles of highways. By the expenditure of only $6,000,000,000 the speaker thinks he can establish enough "electrical highway mileage" to bring a power line to every farm in the country. Then by "assuming an average cost of $750 for the preliminary electrification of each farm, the total expenditure for equipment reaches about $4,750,000,000," which in the opinion of this deep thinker "could undoubtedly be financed directly or indirectly by the farmers themselves."

So everything is thought out—like the neglected Golconda of the golden West, "all that is needed is capital to develop it." All that the farmers are required to do is to put up the paltry $4,750,000,000 necessary to pay for electric fixtures. Then they can lie back and let the demon do the work.

TEACHERS' SABBATICAL YEAR.

The proposal to make one in every seven years a vacation period for teachers in the local schools is nothing new in modern administration of colleges and boards of education. Many cities and most institutions of higher education grant their teachers and professors a sabbatical year, and the local plan is being drawn along well established lines. Briefly, it contemplates six years of work by the educator, then a year free from the duties of instruction during which the teacher may travel, study, or take advantage of other methods of better qualifying himself. After the free year, he returns to work, refreshed for six more years of teaching.

Critics to the contrary, the task of instruction is at best grueling work. Sitting before a class day after day, intently alert at all times, is wearing both physically and mentally. The conscientous teacher needs more than a regular vacation period each summer, part of which is usually consumed in study. From the standpoint of the teacher the sabbatical year would be welcomed.

The student, too, indirectly receives the benefit of the sabbatical leave. Knowledge never has been static, nor can the human mind remain at a standstill. In order to keep abreast with modern developments the teacher must study continually. To guard against getting in the rut of constant repetition of the subject he teaches he must try to develop himself.

Apparently the plan could be introduced to the local public school system without adding to the payroll, for there is at all times a large application list for temporary positions. Such teachers are placed on the payroll at $1,400 a year. After seven years' work a regular teacher has amassed $700 in longevity salary, with which sum he would be able to leave his position for the year. The plan is to be taken before Congress for approval or disapproval at the coming session.

RADIO JAZZ IN COURT.

The question whether the radio is a nuisance was bound to be taken into the courts for adjudication. It happened last week in New York city, where any offense that can not be classified elsewhere is sure to justify a warrant of arrest if brought under the jurisdiction of the public health department. Thus, when a publisher in the downtown district of Manhattan found the outdoor loud speaker of a radio dealer getting on his nerves, he haled him into court on the charge of maintaining a nuisance "dangerous to life or detrimental to health."

History does not record whether the jurist who sat in this case is a radio fan, but with the wisdom of a modern Solomon he decided he could best pass on the merits of the case after a practical demonstration. The loud speaker was set up in the courtroom, and the magistrate tuned in and brought forth the strains of a jazz orchestra. This judge was not temperamental; had he been, a verdict of guilty would have been entered then and there, for there are millions of people in these United States, devoted fans, who expend their energy and fret their nerves nightly in futile efforts to escape the moaning saxophone which, more than any other instrument, is responsible for jazz.

In passing judgment this learned jurist admitted that he had studied music, attended operas and heard sounds from various musical instruments, ensemble and singly, and felt competent to compare with them the notes emanating from the radio. They were harmonious, hence musical, and the prisoner was discharged. Notwithstanding the decision of this judge that jazz is music and that he who plays it commits no nuisance, there will be a dissenting lay opinion in volume sufficient, if broadcast, to drown out all the jazz orchestras in existence. The more important thing, however, is that the radio has received judicial cognizance and been approved. It is no longer a luxury, but a necessity. Even if it sometimes is abused there is none who, having one, would permit its removal, save to make way for a better and later model.

ANTHRAX FROM A SHAVING BRUSH.

Unique in the jurisprudence of the State of New York is the case now pending before the appellate division. Can anthrax be contracted from a shaving brush? is the question on appeal to be decided in reviewing the judgment of the supreme court.

The plaintiff in the original action, one Smith, is a resident of Canada. While the guest of a hotel in Buffalo in September, 1923, he purchased from a drug company a shaving brush. After using the brush he declares that he became violently ill. His disease was diagnosed as anthrax, and physicians were compelled to remove part of his chin to save his life. In suing the drug company he contended that the brush purchased from them was made of horsehair and bristles which had not been disinfected as required by Federal regulations; that inspection after he had become afflicted showed that the brush was infected with anthrax spores.

The jury after hearing the evidence in Smith's suit for damages to the amount of $25,000, brought in a verdict of $12,000 in favor of the plaintiff.

In appealing from the judgment of the court the manufacturer and the selling agent, the defendants, contend that it is impossible for a human being to contract anthrax from the use of a brush, and that if the plaintiff really suffered from the disease he must have contracted it in some other manner.

It is expected that the case will eventually reach the Federal courts, whatever may be the opinion handed down by the court of appeals of New York, for the reason that the Federal quarantine regulations, as well as the sanitary code of the State, are involved.

SMUGGLING OF ALIENS.

There must be some truth in the statement that 1,000 aliens were smuggled across the Canadian line into the United States last summer, because it is attributed to the chief immigration inspector on duty there. The country is not only informed as to the number of aliens that have thus been brought in illegally, but is given intimate knowledge of the methods by which the smuggling ring with headquarters in Canada conducts its business and the inducements it holds out to foreigners, who are urged to take up a temporary residence in Canada, with assurance of ultimate transportation across the line into the land of promise.

Those who are not versed in the ways of capturing smugglers and preventing violations of the immigration law may be excused if they wonder how it happened that with such detailed information in their possession concerning the operations of the alleged smuggling ring, the inspectors were not able to suppress these activities and keep out the undesirables. It doubtless is difficult to watch a boundary line that extends several thousand miles, but with the main points of entry guarded and a patrol performing its duty the unlawful entrance of aliens in such numbers ought to be prevented.

Conditions along the New England border are substantially the same as farther west, along the Mexican boundary line, and in many of the seaports. If a careful inquiry were made it probably would be disclosed that all border enforcement agencies have been directed particularly to prevent the smuggling of liquor. This, naturally, would divert the attention of inspectors from other forms of smuggling. As between the unlawful entry of undesirable aliens in wholesale lots, and a few cases of proscribed liquor, there may be a difference of opinion as to which is most harmful to the nation. The immigration law should be just as effectively enforced as any other statute, but it is evident that, under existing conditions, it is not.

OWLS AND EAGLES.

Ornithological news has come from both coasts within the past few days, and the habitat of the birds which have attracted so much attention is in each instance the frozen wastes of the North. Boston, Mass., and Dunkirk, N. Y., both report the presence within their limits of numbers of "great snowy arctic owls whose wings spread from 4 to 7 feet." Two of these strangers arrived at the Hub as stowaways on the Leyland line steamer Winifredian. The birds were not on board the liner when she sailed from Liverpool, but were discovered when she was 400 miles from the nearest land.

Arctic owls live upon partridges and rabbits, and a disease among these fauna is said to have depleted the supply to such an extent that the owls were in danger of starvation if they remained at home. The assumption is, therefore, that having no store of canned goods to fall back upon, the "wise old owls" decided to emigrate.

The other arctic bird which occupies newspaper space is the Alaska eagle. The birds are so common that the citizens of that Territory kill them for the bounty of one dollar each which is paid by the Territory. The noble American birds are accused of depredations upon the young salmon and upon young game of all kinds, hence the bounty.

Territorial records show that since 1917 the Treasury has paid bounties on 41,812 eagles thus slain. Now appears the Audobon societies as "counsel for the defense." They deny the charges brought by the bounty hunters and insist that eagles are too well bred to prey on property which does not belong to them. The National Association of Audobon Societies appeals to public sentiment to demand repeal of the eagle bounty law of Alaska and a fair show for the one American emblem that is not yet extinct.

Startling Information.

Six thousand American students are studying abroad this year on fellowships of one kind or another.

The oft despised brain worker and research scholar has come into his own in the present era of enthusiasm for research and specialized study. He has come into his own in a substantial financial way rather than in a grudging intellectual way. The move has gained momentum since the world war, which introduced the theory of foreign fellowships as an aid to international peace. Recently organized foundations, societies and funds vie with one another in their efforts to recognize ability.

Philadelphia Record: Followers of football were mildly startled and amused several weeks ago by the news that Knute Rockne, coach of the Notre Dame team, had sent his husky athletes onto the gridiron clad in silk, instead of the customary heavily padded breeches, the idea being that the lighter garments would make for freer activity and consequently greater speed. Now comes the news that the University of Illinois team is using, with great satisfaction, football breeches made of chemically treated material perfected by the fabrikoid department of the du Pont Co., which is particularly serviceable in wet weather. The material, which consists of a cotton base treated with pyroxylin, is impervious to water. It will not weigh down the players on a sodden field or cut down their speed. It is said also to be durable and to afford better protection than the material heretofore employed.

Transportation Problem.

Colfax Gazette: Winter service is the problem now staring the transportation companies in the face. Heavy buses can not be allowed to plow up the public highways which are expensive enough in upkeep in good weather. There will be complaints from many sources, but with the passenger business wrecked on the branch railroads and highway conditions unsatisfactory for bus operation during extreme weather and deep snows, the public will have to make the best of it.

A Reasonable Guess.

Buffalo Courier and Express: Prospectors in Northern Mexico have found a mineral that explodes. Sounds like they'd come across a case of petrified home brew.

Society and Crime

By ROBERT QUILLEN.

IT is not true that every man has his price, but it is true that a great many men who now seem honest would become dishonest, if sufficiently tempted. And if society tempts these by reason of its negligence, it is to blame for their downfall.

Place a fish on the kitchen cabinet; leave the cat in the room and go calling. If the fish is gone when you return, is the fault yours or the cat's?

You buy a drum for your small boy. You know that small boys delight in making a noise. You know that drums are built for the business of noisemaking. Yet when the drum and the boy annoy you while you are courting a nap, you confiscate one and spank the other. Whose is the fault? Wholly yours. You set a trap for the boy when you bought the drum for him.

You know that crooks are unintelligent. You know that, despite the twaddle concerning master criminals, no man of good sound sense would risk a term in the penitentiary for the sake of a few thousand dollars. You know, also, that brains fetch a stiff price in the market and that to get a good man you must pay a good price.

Yet you hire a very cheap man to carry your payroll to the factory. Of course no man has a right to be dishonest, however small his wage, but that isn't the point. An $800 wage hires an $800 man, and you know it. If he disappears with the payroll, it is because he lacks intelligence. But is all of the fault his? Didn't you set a trap for him?

Suppose that one man in each fifty is a thief. If all banks and business houses should leave their doors and vaults unlocked and unguarded, can you doubt that ten men in each fifty would be thieves?

It is honor that keeps some men straight, and discretion that keeps others straight. Society does well to catch and jail the thieves, but it could serve itself better and keep more men in paths of virtue by spending more for padlocks.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Overpaid Taxes.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Your editorial columns are reflecting the general interest now being shown in the proposals to afford some kind of tax relief by appropriate legislation at the coming short term of the Congress.

The corporation of today raises little objection to the payment of a tax of 13½ per cent, but there was much groaning and gnashing of teeth in the days when the tax reached into the 80 per cent bracket. Picture, if you can, the president of such a corporation at the time he receives advice that the tax of his company for 1918 was overpaid, and the overpayment can not be refunded because of the statute of limitations.

This situation is only one of many that could be described, but a measure of relief to this class could be afforded in a very simple manner by the inclusion of a paragraph in the proposed new act, following the theory outlined in section 284 (c) of the 1926 revenue act. Refunds made in such a way would be sweet morsels in the mouths of many constituents and might make a good name for some diligent Congressman, willing to give the time and study necessary to this and related matters. W. R. K.

The Mother's Problem.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: All this talk about transferring a portion of the school teacher's duties to parents creates a degree of lassitude among us mothers. In the first place, the curricula of today differs so markedly from the teachings in the public schools of the District away back when some of us were being taught—when Mr. Lovejoy was superintendent—that we are absolutely disqualified to help out with the "home work" of the youngsters of this generation. Also, Dad is equally ignorant and can't help Junior with his examples. In the days when we went to the old Johnson school, up in the alley behind the market addition, division, multiplication, subtraction, and the rule of three, with enough geometry to define the difference between a straight line and a circle, were considered sufficient mathematics. But nowadays we find our youngsters stumping us with "algibry," complexes, and psychology, about which we have forgotten all we ever knew, if any.

Also, in those days when Dad took me to Allen's opera house or the National we could get two good seats for $3, and there was no war tax. Now we have to go to the movies, and when we hurry home we find that little Willie has mislaid the can-opener, because instead of being at school he has been allowed to get out in the middle of the afternoon and needed the opener, or some other household tool, to repair his scooter. The missing can-opener makes it impossible to get the soup and the beans out of the cans for Dad's dinner, with the result that more domestic unhappiness is in store for the family. Also the older children, if compelled to devote their evenings to "home work," will be deprived of the opportunity to attend the nightly meetings of their dance clubs, and there is more unhappiness.

Also, we pay taxes to enable the commissioners to pay salaries to teachers. The teachers are supposed to do the teaching. That is not the function of the parents. If we are to act the part of pedagogues, why have school houses? Keep the children in school and give us mothers a chance for a hand at bridge or a look-in at the movies, for, if denied the chance to spend the afternoon watching a screen presentation of a sex problem, how are we to keep up with the better posted juveniles in our families?

EDUCATED ARISTOCRACY TO RULE ITALY, IS PLAN

FAVORED BY MUSSOLINI

Rome, Nov. 21 (By A. P.).—Italy of the future would be ruled by a specially selected and educated aristocracy of fascists, under plans submitted to Premier Mussolini by leading fascist intellectuals.

A school, semimilitary and semischolastic with a curriculum based on science, politics and the art of government, would be created, having many features similar to America's West Point. Chief among these would be a selective system of obtaining candidates who would represent the cream of the applicants.

Creation of the school is recommended by the leaders of the intellectual wing of fascism, who have been studying the problems brought out by the abolition of popular elections both within the party and the nation. They want to form among the promising youths of the nation an aristocracy of faith and ability to guide the future destinies of the ship of state.

Premier Mussolini is understood to look not unfavorably at the suggestion.

The candidates would be chosen from among the young hopefuls of the fascist party, the blackshirt militia and the most promising students at the special classes in political sciences created some time ago in the various universities.

The academy's studies would include the analysis of political phenomena, the science of organization, Roman and Italian history, with special attention to the dictatorial periods.

Early in the course the students would be given opportunities to hold minor offices and to come in contact with the people in order both to train and test them, those showing incompetency at the practical aspects of the work being speedily weeded out.

LONDON PRAISES PLANS FOR DOMINION AUTONOMY

Press Backs Program of Premiers as Outlined by Imperial Conference.

CONFIRMS EQUAL STATUS

London, Nov. 21 (By A. P.).—Inter-imperial relations, as set forth by the committee of premiers of the imperial conference establishing the dominions officially as autonomous units, equal in status within the empire, are commented upon favorably by the London papers, and criticisms, even of the details, are few. A point generally made is that nothing of importance is changed.

The Daily Telegraph says the report gives fuller formal recognition than heretofore to a state of things already in existence.

The Morning Post declares those dominions which had worried about an unequal status now found they had been forcing an open door. It is of the opinion that the foreign relations clauses are complex and may be found difficult. (These clauses recommend that in future treaties the British minister shall sign for Great Britain, with each dominion signing for itself, and recognize that in foreign relations neither Great Britain nor the dominions can be committed to acceptance of active obligations without the consent of their own governments.)

The Daily Mail believes the report should satisfy all the aspirations of the dominions, but it does not alter essential conditions. At first sight, it says, the right of the dominions to make foreign treaties seems to multiply the diplomatic difficulties, but the right has been exercised in the past, and there is no real reason for alarm.

The Daily Express welcomes what it calls the negative results of the conference in leaving things much as they were before. It believes that the more loosely the empire is knit the more securely its parts are bound together.

The Daily News declares: "No effete or dying organism could have produced such a report. Its general effect is one of closer unity and greater inherent strength."

The Daily Chronicle praises the report as an admirable document emphasizing the strength of imperial relationship.

TAGORE BRANDS U. S. ANTIASIATIC, HOSTILE

Indian Students Can't Live Here, He Says; Hoped for Pacifism.

Bucharest, Roumania, Nov. 21 (By A. P.).—Sir Rabindranath Tagore, Bengal poet and philosopher, told interviewers here today that the United States was so unfriendly to Indian students and teachers it was almost impossible for them to live there.

"No," he said in answer to a question, "I am not likely to go to the United States at the conclusion of my present European tour. The unpleasant souvenirs of my last trip are still too vivid. I was glad to reach Europe after those trying experiences."

Walt Whitman, in the opinion of the Indian poet, was the greatest American poet, but he thought latter-day American literature too varied and complex. The people of the United States, said Tagore, are too occupied with business and have no time to live.

"I had hoped," he said, "that the United States would develop pacifism but the country is too aggressively anti-Asiatic and selfish."

The poet had no tenderer feeling to express for Europe, saying the continent today "is exploiting truth for her own selfishness."

SEASONAL DECLINE OF PRICES CAUSING NO UNSETTLEMENT

Buying to Be Resumed Soon, When Supplies on Hand Begin to Run Low.

SUGAR MARKET GAINS STRENGTH FROM CUBA

Textile Industry Also Shows Signs of Improvement; Consumption Grows.

New York, Nov. 21 (By the Associated Press).—Confusing cross currents continued to envelop the business situation last week, with all evidence pointing to a readjustment of activities on a smaller scale. Orderly recessions in industrial operations have followed a gradual decline in the volume of new buying—a process which may not be completed for several months. So far it has caused virtually no unsettlement.

A natural decline in commodity prices, already noticeable in some of the basic industries, had probably contributed to the slackening of trade since it has encouraged many potential consumers to delay filling their requirements in the hope of getting further concessions. This situation is expected to correct itself as soon as supplies begin to run low.

Seasonal Drops Pronounced.

Seasonal reductions became more pronounced last week in several important fields. Railroad freight car loadings apparently reached their peak in October and the declines noted early this month probably will be extended throughout the rest of the year. Curtailment of operations in the steel mills brought the average for the industry well below 80 per cent. Lower pig iron prices were reported and the price tendency of steel products was inclined to weaken on indications that the demand would be light for several weeks. Purchases of automobiles continued to dwindle.

Prospects for a settlement of the British coal strike unsettled the market for this fuel which had been strengthened as a result of a heavy export demand. Frequent changes in prices accounted for much of the uncertaintly in coke, which in turn affected the market for pig iron.

Sugar Market Stronger.

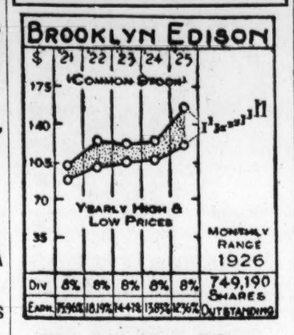

In contrast to the general downward trend, the sugar market was strengthened by a presidential decree limiting the Cuban crop to 4,500,000 tons. Prices of the raw and refined products soared to new high levels for the season, with sales in the New York futures market breaking all records.

Conditions in the textile industry also showed signs of improvement with prices relatively stable in the face of general expectations that the next estimate of the cotton crop will place the yield above 18,000,000 bales. Consumption of the staple, however, has been steadily increasing and labor conditions, except in a few localities, have been more satisfactory.

Other measures of business activity which have reflected a seasonal letdown include smaller bank clearings, lagging building operations, together with a lower output of lumber, a decreased demand for leather and cuts in the prices of automobile tires and crude oil.

The excess of American merchadise exports over imports for the month of October was officially reported last week as $74,000,000, the smallest for any October since 1922. In the corresponding month last year the favorable balance of trade amounted to $116,000,000. The total value of exports—$458,000,000—was the largest of any month this year, while imports were the heaviest of any month since April.

What's Behind Your Stock

The Brooklyn Edison Company

The Brooklyn Edison Co. serves the rapidly growing Brooklyn section of New York city with electric light and power. It's transmission and distribution systems include 6,380 miles of overhead construction and 5,820 of underground construction, and the estimated total population served is more than 2,200,000.

During the last ten years and more the Brooklyn Edison Co.'s gross earnings have shown consistent improvement, new records in gross earnings, net earnings and number of customers being attained in 1925. Annual average net earnings during the past ten years were equal to 13.6 per cent on the average capital stock on which dividends were paid. Last year's earnings at 12.36 per cent per share, were slightly less than the earnings of 13.83 per cent reported in 1924. This, however, was due to an increase, during 1925, in stock outstanding to the amount of about $15,000,000.

At the time of last report the company's financial condition was excellent, since current assets totaled nearly $18,000,000 while current liabilities amounted to slightly less than $5,000,000 dollars. Cash on hand alone was more than double the current liability figure. There are no bank loans outstanding. Dividends of 8 per cent per year have been paid on the capital stock since 1904.

BOND MARKET RESUMES STEADY UPWARD SWING

ST. PAUL PAPER GAINS

New York, Nov. 21 (By A. P.).—After faltering for a time in response to mid-month tightening of money conditions, the bond market last week resumed its march into new high grounds. The flow of funds into investment channels was temporarily retarded by unusually large interests and dividend disbursements, but the net result was merely a shifting of balances, which did not diminish the supply of money available for bond purchases.

Toward the close of the week trading in all classes of obligations was swinging along at a fast pace, rivaling the buoyant markets earlier in the month. The revival of buying interest in outstanding bonds was attributed in part to the announcement that only a small portion, and perhaps none, of the $120,000,000 Standard Oil Company of New Jersey debenture offering would be available for the general public after preferred stockholders had been accorded preferential subscription rights. Funds which had been withheld in anticipation of this flotation quickly sought an outlet elsewhere.

Meanwhile active trading took place in the open market in the new Standard Oil bonds in advance of any disclosures regarding the setup of the issue or the subscription price, an event of rare occurrence in Wall street. Bidding began around par, the price at which it was first expected the debentures would be sold, and quickly ran up to 102. Subsequently, the preferential offering to preferred stockholders was made at a price of 100 1-2.

Another feature of unusual interest was a rise in the junior obligations of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railway to the highest prices since the receivership on indications that the road would be sold next week under foreclosure proceedings to the reorganization managers, thus paving the way for its return to a new financial and operating basis. Other railroad liens were firm but less active.

Signs of steady improvement in foreign conditions stirred up renewed inquiry for European bonds. French issues reflected the return of capital to France and the rise in the franc to the highest level in many months. Belgian obligations also spurted ahead, eclipsing their recent high marks, and new peak prices were established by several German and Japanese bonds.

The delay in formally launching the Standard Oil issue kept the week's bond offerings down to approximately $55,000,000, compared with $80,000,000 in the preceding week, and $175,000,000 in the corresponding week last year, when the $100,000,000 Italian loan was floated. A $20,000,000 loan for Yokohama and a $16,000,000 offering 5 per cent bonds for the Texas Power & Light Co. are among the issues scheduled for this week.

Stored Coal Used in Britain.

One result of the coal dispute is to reduce the amount of laid-up tonnage in Great Britain by 56 per cent. All tonnage is required to carry coal from the United States and the continent.

WALL STREET GOSSIP

New York, Nov. 21 (By A. P.).—A new German loan will appear on the market tomorrow in the form of a $4,000,000 20-year 6 1-2 per cent bond issue for the Saxon State Mortgage institution. The bonds will be offered by the National City Co. at a price at 97. The Saxon Mortgage institution has assisted in financing Saxon industries through the creation of long-term foreign credits.

The republic of Poland has called for redemption an additional $700,000 25-year sinking fund external 8 per cent gold bonds, dated January 1, 1925, at 105 and interest. This is the fourth semiannual redemption, making a total of $2,800,000 of the original issue of $35,000,000, to be retired to date.

The chain of drug stores operated by Peoples Drug Stores, Inc., has been increased to 45 through the acquisition of the Tragle Drug Co., of Richmond, Va., and the opening of new establishments in Hagerstown, Md., and Coatesville, Pa.

Permanent solution of the cotton problem, methods for combatting the ravages of the corn borer and other pressing problems of agriculture will be the subjects for discussion at a meeting of the agriculture commission of the American Bankers association in Chicago on Decmeber 1 and 2. Secretary of Agriculture Jardine has been invited by the bankers to attend the meeting.

Unless the present flow of crude oil is restricted by recent price cuts, the domestic output for 1926 promises to exceed the record high production of 1925 by at least 2,000,000 barrels, it is predicted by the Oil, Paint and Drug Reporter.

THE GUARDIAN TRUST COMPANY, CLEVELAND, OHIO, TRUSTEE

O. P. Van Sweringen, Esq., President of The Cleveland Terminals Building Company, has summarized, as follows, his letter:

Location: The Terminal Tower Building is being erected on one of the most valuable sites in Cleveland directly over the concourse of the station of the Cleveland Union Terminal (which Terminal is in course of construction at an estimated cost in excess of $60,000,000) with a frontage of 243 feet on the Public Square and 302 feet on Prospect Avenue. In the immediate vicinity are the principal office buildings, department stores and banking institutions of the city, with the Hotel Cleveland adjoining the property on the northwest.

The Building: The Cleveland Terminals Building Company is erecting a fourteen-story office building with a thirty-eight story tower superimposed thereon making a total height of fifty-two stories rising 708 feet above the street level. It will be of the most modern type of steel and concrete fireproof construction, with granite, Bedford stone and terra cotta exterior. The building was designed by and is being erected under the direction of Messrs. Graham, Anderson, Probst and White, of Chicago. It will contain nearly 39,000 square feet of retail store space and about 521,000 square feet of rentable office space, in addition to the necessary ramps and entrances to the Union Terminal Station.

This building will be erected in two units. The construction of the second unit of the building will be commenced as soon as the Ohio Bell Telephone Company, which now occupies a portion of the premises, moves to its new building upon completion.

Security: These bonds will be secured, in the opinion of counsel, by a first mortgage on the leasehold estate in the site comprising 71,527 square feet, and in the building, being erected thereon.

The value of the building, when completed, has been appraised by Messrs. Graham, Anderson, Probst and White, architects, as being in excess of $12,100,000. The total authorized issue of $6,500,000 bonds will, therefore, be outstanding in an amount equal to less than 54% of this appraised valuation. The entire proceeds of the bonds to be presently issued, together with additional cash, will be deposited with The Union Trust Company and The Guardian Trust Company of Cleveland, Ohio, as Disbursing Agents. These deposited funds, together with the amount already expended in the construction of the building, will be sufficient to cover the entire estimated cost of the building, exclusive of the second unit referred to above. The funds so deposited will be expended under the restrictive terms and provisions of the Mortgage and Disbursement Agreement as the construction of the first unit progresses.

A bond of a surety company or surety companies, acceptable to the Bankers, will be furnished, or good marketable securities will be deposited with the Trustee, guaranteeing completion of the first unit of the building.

The balance of $1,200,000 bonds reserved under this Mortgage will be used to provide, not to exceed 60%, of the cost of construction of the second unit. The proceeds of these reserved bonds, together with approximately $1,200,000 additional cash, will be deposited and expended as the construction of the second unit of the building progresses, as in the case of the cash deposited to cover the estimated cost of the construction of the first unit.

Earnings: Messrs. William H. Babcock & Sons, of Chicago, estimate the normal net income, after operating expenses and taxes, and after allowance for vacancies, at $1,205,209. Mr. George D. McGwinn, Vice-President of The Union Trust Company, of Cleveland, estimates net income similarly stated, as $1,137,615. After deducting the maximum ground rent of $316,250 there is available for depreciation and interest an amount equal to more than twice the maximum annual interest charges on the total authorized bond issue. Occupancy of forty per cent. of the office space is already assured by applications from railroads, corporations and individuals.

Control and Management: The new Cleveland Union Terminal Station is now being erected by The Cleveland Union Terminals Company. The stock of this Company is held for the railroads which will be the principal users. The Cleveland Terminals Building Company was organized to develop certain of the property above the Union Terminal Station, and is owned by the Van Sweringen interests.

Legal details in connection with this issue will be supervised by Messrs. Tolles, Hogsett & Ginn, of Cleveland, and Messrs. Beekman, Bogue, Clark & Griscom, of New York, for the Bankers, and by John P. Murphy, Esq., of Cleveland, Ohio, for the Company.

We offer these bonds when, as and if issued and accepted by us, and subject to the approval of counsel. It is expected that interim certificates, exchangeable for temporary or definitive bonds, when ready, will be delivered on or about December 10, 1926.

Texas Power & Light Company

First and Refunding Mortgage Gold Bonds

5% Series due 1956

Dated November 1, 1926 Due November 1, 1956

Interest payable May 1 and November 1 in New York City. Redeemable through October 1, 1931, at 105 and interest; thereafter at a premium reducing periodically, and at 100 and interest after October 1, 1955. Coupon and registered bonds.

TAX PROVISIONS: The Company will agree to pay interest without deduction for any Federal Income Tax not exceeding 2% which it or the Trustee or any paying agent may be required or permitted to pay thereon or retain therefrom and to refund on timely application the Pennsylvania Four Mills Tax to holders resident in that State.

For further information regarding the Company, these Bonds and the security therefor, attention is called to the letter of Mr. A. S. Grenier, Vice-President of the Company, copies of which will be furnished on request and from which it will be noted, among other things, that:

Texas Power & Light Company will, upon completion of this financing and the acquisition of certain additional properties, own and operate one of the largest electric transmission systems in the South extending through an area in Texas as large as the combined areas of New York, Massachusetts, Connecticut and New Jersey. In this extensive territory the Company will supply electric power and light service directly and indirectly to 213 communities including Waco, Denison, Paris and Sherman. In addition the Company will do a gas business in three communities. The total population in the territory to be served is estimated at 475,000.

These Bonds will be secured, in the opinion of counsel, by a direct first mortgage on a substantial portion of the Company's property and by a mortgage on the balance of the physical property subject to $15,005,000 First Mortgage Bonds. No additional First Mortgage Bonds can be issued except for pledge under the First and Refunding Mortgage.

The Mortgage will provide for the issue of additional Bonds upon conditions to be therein stated and will contain provisions permitting modifications with the assent of the holders of not less than 85% in aggregate principal amount of the outstanding bonds.

Earnings for the twelve months ended October 31, 1926, of all properties now owned, including those presently to be acquired, were as follows:

Gross Earnings, including Other Income	$8,378,587
Operating Expenses, Maintenance and Taxes	4,955,557
Net Earnings	$3,423,030
Annual Interest Requirements on $31,005,000 Mortgage Bonds (including this issue)	1,550,250
Balance for Debenture and Other Interest, Depreciation, etc.	$1,872,780

Above Net Earnings Over 2.2 Times Annual Mortgage Bond Interest

The above earnings reflect practically no benefit from the operation of the large modern Trinidad station placed in operation last July, which should result in substantial economies in operation as well as in increased gross earnings.

The operation of the properties of the Texas Power & Light Company is supervised (under the direction and control of the Board of Directors of the Company) by Electric Bond and Share Company. The equity over and above the mortgage bonds will be represented by $2,000,000 Debentures, $6,500,000 Preferred 7% Stock and, upon the contemplated amendment of the Company's charter, 4,000,000 shares no par value Common Stock.

We Recommend These Bonds for Investment

Price 97 and Interest; Yielding about 5.20%

These Bonds are offered for delivery when, as and if issued and received by us and subject to the approval of counsel. It is expected that Temporary Bonds will be available for delivery on or about December 14, 1926.

PALACE DEFEATS QUAKER QUINTET IN LEAGUE DEBUT

Apaches Win, 6 to 0, Over Stantons

Hanback Is Defensive Star; Score Made by J. Sweeney.

By WALTER HAIGHT.

JUST out of the kindergarten of sandlot football, the Stantons, game little northeast players, yesterday gave a man's sized exhibition against the powerful Apache eleven at Union park.

True, the Apaches won the game, 6 to 0. The only score, however, was not the result of one of the famous "Little Indian" marches which made the ultimate winners 3 to 1 favorites at the start of the game but came as the aftermath of a forward pass intercepted by "Bits" Clifford in the third period.

Hancock hauled Clifford down from behind after he had carred the ball 40 yards to the Stantons' 12-yard line. Here the Green boys put up a noble stand as such crashers as Twomey, Reds Sweeney and Morton Gooch attempted to make the distance.

A first down was the Apaches' best on four rushes and with the ball inches from the line the Stantons withstood two assaults. Joe Sweeney, a former Stanton player, finally dove through tackle to the touchdown. He missed the goal.

The Stantons appeared worn by their stand and Apaches, with Joe and "Reds" Sweeney doing the bulk of the gaining again threatened the Green goal. This time the Stantons were not to be denied. They held the Apaches, took the ball on downs and let Georgie Jones, a far-punting back, boot out of danger.

Jones a moment later recovered an Apache fumble and, with a minute to play, the Stantons went to the forward pass, completing two for short gains before the game ended.

Offensively, the Stantons could accomplish but little which, however, was more than any Apache opponent of the season can boast of. The Green boys scored two first downs, one on a run by Jones and another on a forward pass, Snail to J. Handiboe.

It was their defense which kept the Stantons in the running. "Sally" Han-

Boston College Contract Refused by Cavanaugh

Newton, Mass., Nov. 21 (By A. P.). Maj. Frank W. Cavanaugh, football coach at Boston college since 1919, announced tonight that he had refused to sign a new contract with the college. His present engagement expires this season. Maj. Cavanaugh in a formal statement said he had not been offered a contract by any other institution.

Maj. Cavanaugh, who this season has piloted one of the four undefeated teams of the East, signed a contract last January for one year as coach at Boston college.

An all-American end in his college days at Dartmouth, he first coached at the University of Cincinnati after his graduation in 1897. He later served as coach with the Denver Athletic club, Worcester High school, Holy Cross and Worcester academy, returning to Dartmouth as mentor in 1911. He enlisted in 1917 and went to France as a private, returning with the rank of major. Since the war he has turned out many successful teams at Boston college.

HAWKS DOWN DOMINION ELEVEN

By BILL WALTER.

AFTER taking a good wetting from the Alexandria Fire Department eleven for the first half at American league park yesterday, the Mohawk gridmen got control of the hose and, when the water was turned off, the Indians had scored a 20-to-3 victory. About 1,500 people saw the battle and, if it is possible to judge by the cheering, the majority were from Alexandria.

The fire fighters lost no time in starting and had all the better of the first half. The Indians in these periods failed to threaten and, for the most part, were fighting in their own territory. Hayman and Goldman, of the fire team, were largely responsible for keeping the Mohawks in check at this stage by their many brilliant tackles.

The Firemen's only points were made in the opening quarter when, after an exchange of punts, they started a march that brought them to the Hawks' 40-yard line, from which point Stanley Dreifus booted a field goal.

During this particular march, "Ikey" Dreifus tore around right end for a Penalty Kicks Costly in 2 Games

Concords, Walfords Victors—Four Other Battles Staged.

By RICHARD S. TENNYSON.

THE 2,000 or more soccer fans who viewed the Washington Soccer league matches on the Monument grounds yesterday left firmly convinced that they had witnessed two of the best matches ever staged in the District. In the first tilt Concord was lucky to win from the young Rosedale eleven, 4 to 3, and in the second contest on the Monument field the champion Walford team barely nosed out the youthful Monroe kickers, 2 to 1. Penalty kicks played an important part in both victories.

In the other contests Fort Myer bounced back into its form of last year and defeated the British Uniteds, 7 to 1, and the young Roockville team scored its first league victory when it defeated Clan MacLennan, 3 to 2. Marlboro shut out Army Medical Center, 6 to 0, and the German-Americans humbled the German-American Reserves, 9 to 0.

Few will forget the brave stand made by the Rosedale team in the closing minutes of their tilt with Concords. Going into the lead early in the game, the inexperienced Rosedale boys were about all in toward the end.

Shots from the toes of the Koennell brothers, Louie and Franz, literally rained on the young Rosedale goalie, Warfield, but he saved each one as if his life depended upon it. With the score 3 to 2, and only twenty minutes to play, it looked as if Rosedale was about to cause the biggest upset of the local soccer season by downing Concord, but a foul committed by a young Rosedale back in his penalty area gave the ultimate winners a penalty kick, which Muhlhausen executed perfectly to equalize.

Shortly after this, another overanxious northeast back stopped a Concord shot with his hand and again Mulhausen sent the ball spinning into the net. Rosedale fought valiantly in the final minutes to take back the game that had been snatched from its grasp but apparently had put forth too much effort in the early stages and were not equal to the extra strain.

The fans stood dazed for 70 of the 90 minutes of the Walford-Monroe game, as the latter youngsters clearly outplayed the champs, but their fate was similar to Rosedale's, inasmuch as the veteran Walford combination had enough left at the finish to put over the victory.

Walford equalized the score, 1 to 1, twenty minutes before the final whistle and gained the lead just five minutes before the 90 minutes were completed.

Monroe counted early in the game when Earl Clark scored with a penalty kick and then the youngsters fought with grim determination to hold the lead, which they did for three-fourths of the game. Walford equalized on a penalty kicked, taken by the capable McLean, late in the second half, and won the game when Watts neatly dropped a corner kick to P. Faulds, who crashed the sphere into the net.

Dick Wingate, "Mutt" Fey and Leon Wolf were the outstanding players for Monroe. Wingate kept the ball out of his territory with strong, accurate boots, while Fey threw his body in front of Walford shots in a reckless manner, making some of the most sensational saves of the season.

Wolf saved at least two goals by expert heading. The Walford team, under real fire for the first time, was not found wanting in courage, as it kept pressing until it earned its objective, the victory.

Colonials and Catholic U. In Annual Battle Thursday

By JACK ESPEY.

FOOTBALL'S flickering light will be doused for the year locally after Thursday when George Washington and Catholic universities come to grips in their annual Thanksgiving day game. That is the final contest of the 1926 season for Washington, and with the exception of Georgetown and the Marines all of the local colleges will have put away their uniforms by the end of the week.

This year's clash of the Colonials and the Cardinals promises to be as interesting and productive of thrills as those of the past, while as for the prospects of its being a close battle it is more attractive probably than any of the previous ones.

Maryland and the Marines also will be in action Thursday, with the former meeting its old rival, Johns Hopkins, in Baltimore stadium, and the new Service champion eleven engaging Washington University at St. Louis. Then on Saturday, in their last appearance of the season, Georgetown and the Marines will play Detroit University at Detroit and Dayton University at Dayton, Ohio, respectively.

George Washington and Catholic appear to be evenly matched, each having weight, speed and a goodly store of experience. The Colonial stars, Stehman and Capt. Sapp, and the Cardinal luminaries, Foley and Harvey, are shipshape and ready for duty.

Catholic's stock has soared considerably since the game with Holy Cross and the fine defensive exhibition put up against Loyola, of New Orleans. Big Joe Tierney, 240-pound guard, is back in his position, strengthening the line, and Manfreda, the little line-plunging halfback, also is in working order again. George Washington should find it difficult to penetrate the Cardinal line, now that Tierney is there.

Coach Crum believes that George Washington will win if his men continue to play the brand of football they have been showing of late. He is confident that they can reverse the 20 to 0 score of 1925. Two scrimmages last week with Gallaudet have given the Colonials all the heavy work they need in preparation for the game.

Tomorrow and Tuesday Crum will send them through long signal drills and practices on new offensive formations, while Coach McAuliffe will drive his Cardinal squad along a similar program.

The other teams playing Thursday or Saturday will go out for practice today, too. The Georgetown team, which flashed a mighty attack against Fordham last Saturday, will be held in condition by Coach Little with a couple of dummy scrimmages and some signal work before leaving for Detroit Thursday night. The Marines will depart for St. Louis tomorrow.

The Detroit contest may be easy for the Hilltop outfit if the Ford City players do not improve during the week. At the most the Hilltoppers do not face the task they did with Fordham and which they cleaned up neatly. Detroit has been knocked around by two-thirds of its opponents so far and there doesn't seem to be a chance that they will overthrow Georgetown, while the latter is traveling such a fast pace.

In the Fordham victory Coach Little saw several of his substitutes outdo themselves, namely McCabe, Flavin and Scott of the backfield. When they went into the game it was safely "in" for the Blue and Gray by virtue of the work the regulars had done, but they broke loose with sensational ball-carrying which swept Fordham off its feet and turned the contest into a rout.

McCabe in particular impressed the crowd by his advances, making long gains in a broken field, changing his pace, eluding tacklers and fighting his way ahead even when opponents had him in their hands.

"Babe the Buffalo" Connaughton also was brilliant and proved to the satisfaction of metropolitan critics that he is as good as he was said to be beforehand. Babe did his stuff as usual, blocking all thrusts at his position in guard, breaking through the line to stop the ball runner and once blocking an attempted field goal.

He gave still further proof that he is of all-American stamp when he leaped into the air and intercepted a Fordham pass which paved the way for Georgetown's final touchdown.

Maryland should not find Johns Hopkins as tough as in last year's meeting, for there seems to be a decided advantage held by Coach Byrd's team over the Oriole eleven now. Maryland unquestionably is stronger than last year and there is little doubt but what Hopkins has gone down grade. But the same old rivalry between the two teams still exists and this makes for a closely fought struggle regardless of past performances of the season.

At St. Louis the Marines will be playing their twelfth game of the season, which is two more than any college eleven schedules, and on Saturday at Dayton they will wind up their activities for the year.

Lafayette Tallies Most Points in East

New York, Nov. 21 (By A. P.).—Two more undefeated elevens, New York University and Holy Cross, toppled from their stations at the head of Eastern colleges Saturday, leaving only Lafayette, Navy and Brown with records that show neither defeat nor tie. Ed Lewis' Manager Averse to California

Rochester, N. Y., Nov. 21 (By A. P.).—Billy Sandow, manager of Ted ("Strangler") Lewis, claimant of the world's heavyweight wrestling title, issued the following statement tonight regarding the meeting of the California boxing commission tomorrow to declare forfeited the $5,000 posted by Lewis to bind the match with Joe Stecher:

"I refuse to allow Lewis to go through with his match with Stecher in California under present conditions there. If the California commission will transfer the $5,000 forfeit to any other State in the Union I will agree to the match."

Sandow refused to explain what he meant by "present existing conditions there."

Ritola Beats Indian Over 6-Mile Course

New York, Nov. 21 (By A. P.).—Willie Ritola, Finnish-American distance running star, raced away with the National A. A. U. senior cross-country championship for the fifth time over the 6-mile Van Cortlandt park course today and led the Finnish-American team to its Fifth National Senior title at the same time. Ritola's time, 30 minutes 2 3-5 seconds, failed by more than a minute to equal the course record.

Trailing the Finnish distance king by almost a minute was Philip Osif, a full-blooded Pima indian from Haskell institute, Kans. Osif ran a strong race, but never endangered the lead of Ritola, who opened a 30-second gap on the fold during the first turn of the course. The Western Indian had been considered as a strong contender by virtue of victories in the national junior and senior 6-mile runs at Philadelphia recently, in which he smashed both records for the events.

The Indian team, finished sixth among the seven teams that brought 52 runners to the scratch.

Joesting Ties Record Made by Red Grange

Chicago, Ill., Nov. 21 (By A. P.).—As a touchdown-maker Herb Joesting, the Minnesota battering ram, has equaled this year the Big Ten conference record of Red Grange, with thirteen touchdowns for the season. Grange's record was made in 1924. Neither he nor Joesting came close to the conference leadership in points scored last year. Their record also is identical, in that neither made any other kind of score than by touchdowns.

It was a great year for fullbacks, for the first three in the conference standing of point-scorers were line smashers in that position. Not all their scores, however, were plunges for a few yards after others had helped approach the enemy goal posts. Gustafson, of Northwestern, in third place, pulled the "hole in one" of football by scoring a touchdown from the initial kick-off.

With a point score far above the other teams, it is natural that Minnesota should hold three of the first five places in the individual scoring record.

	TP.	T.	FG.	FG.
Joesting, Minnesota	78	13	0	0
Karow, Ohio	66	11	0	0
Gustafson, Northwestern	56	9	0	2

"Mike" Wilson Tops East's Point-Getters

Williams, of Connecticut Aggies, hitherto a "dark horse," gathered three scores to run his mark to 90, four points ahead of "Light Horse" Harry Wilson, of the Army.

The high-point scorers:

Williams, Conn. Aggies	90	15	0	0

Groh to Play Third For Rochester Team

Rochester, N. Y., Nov. 21 (By A. P.).—Henry K. (Heinie) Groh, veteran major league ball player, who learned the rudiments of the game on Rochester sandlots, will return to his native city with the starting of the 1927 season. Heinie has been signed by Manager Stallings to play third base for the Rochester International league club.

Groh started with the Giants last season, but later was sent to the Toledo club, of the American association, where he finished the season with one of the best fielding percentages in the circuit.

3 Grid Teams In East Still Unbeaten

Bruins Face Test in Colgate; Cadets May Jolt Annapolis.

NEW YORK, Nov. 21 (By A. P.).—Developments in the latest skirmishing of the East's gridiron arrays have dropped two of the previously unbeaten clans, New York university and Holy Cross, from the top, witnessed the rise of the battered Bulldog of Yale over the equally bruised Crimson of Harvard and emphasized, for the third straight Saturday, the potency of the field goal as a decisive weapon.

With the final week of campaigning just ahead, the chief claims to the mythical gridiron championship of the East apparently rest in the hands of Brown, the Naval Academy and Lafayette, the only elevens which have been neither defeated nor tied. Only one other team, Boston college, has failed to taste defeat, but a tie mars the otherwise clean slate of the Hub aggregation, which beat Gettysburg yesterday, 39-0.

Of the title-contending "Big Three," two face stiff closing tests, Brown's "Iron Men" meeting the rugged Colgate array Thanksgiving day, after which the Navy brings the campaign to a climax in the service battle with the Army at Chicago. The Cadets, incidentally, have been defeated only by an intersectional foe, Notre Dame, and would be in position to dispute the claims of any other Eastern title contender if victorious over the sailors.

Lafayette, with two of the East's greatest ball carriers in Frank Kirkleski and Mike Wilson, the latter leading the scorers of the section, closed a brilliant season with a smashing victory over Lehigh, 35 to 0, and can not be dislodged from its high position.

Herb McCracken's stalwarts haven't had such a conspicuously exacting schedule as the Navy and they barely snatched one triumph from Washington and Jefferson, but these elements hardly dim the luster of Lafayette's string of nine straight triumphs. The team has rolled up 330 points in this march to top the major elevens of the entire country in scoring.

Brown's rugged squad, although given a tussle, was far too powerful for New Hampshire, winning by 40 to 12 for the Bruins' ninth straight triumph. The Army and Navy, in their last competitive tests before going West to settle their own feud, also had trouble downing minor opponents, but put the main burden on substitutes in beating Ursinus and Loyola, respectively, by scores of 21-15 and 35-13.

Going West with eight straight victories to its credit, New York university's speedy eleven was tumbled from its unbeaten heights by Nebraska, 15 to 7, on a snow-swept field. It was a field goal that turned the tide against the New Yorkers and it was by the same device that Boston university scored an unexpected victory over Holy Cross, which previously had only a tie to mar its record.

The unerring toe of Jerry Wadsworth, Yale's kicking specialist, booted the points that clinched the Eli victory over Harvard before 78,000 in the Yale bowl. The final score was 12 to 7, with Capt. Bunnell adding 3 more points on a 43-yard drop-kick to supply a snappy finish to the last "Big Three" series, already clinched by Princeton's previous victories over both the Blue and Crimson.

Maryland, the conqueror of Yale, also suffered from this recurrent field goal complex losing by 3-0 to Washington and Lee.

Carnegie Tech, by whipping West Virginia to the decisive tune of 20-0, served notice that Notre Dame's national championship claimants may expect a battle next Saturday when Knute Rockne's Hoosiers invade Pittsburgh.

Georgetown, trouncing Fordham, 39 to 0, established a strong claim to the Catholic college title. Western Maryland, coached by Dick Harlow, former Colgate mentor, lifted itself to prominence in trimming Bucknell, 40 to 0. Syracuse, preparing for Columbia on Thanksgiving day, depended on its substitutes to pull out a 12-7 victory over Niagara.

Girls to Be Caddies On New York Links

New York, Nov. 21.—A new profession for their sex, that of acting as golf caddies, will be open to the young women of Harrison, N. Y., when a contemplated public golf course is completed there on 251 acres of land recently purchased by Jesse Winburn, banker.

Healthful recreation for the girls and suitable caddies for women golfers will be the result of his plan, Winburn believes. The announcement coming from him today was in the way of a right-about-face, for when Winburn, president of the Bronxville Golf association, purchased the Bronxville Golf club last year, he enforced a ruling that no women should be permitted to use the links.

Football squad, in charge of Commander D. L. Howard, leaves Wednesday at 5 p. m. on a Pennsylvania special train, which will be in charge of Lieut. Comdr. W. A. Richardson. Commander J. H. Ingram, director of athletics, will accompany the party.

Train arrives in Chicago about 1 p. m. Thursday, at which time eight special trains carrying a regiment of midshipmen will leave here, the first and second battalions via the Baltimore & Ohio and the third and fourth battalions on the Pennsylvania.

The midshipmen, in charge of Commanders F. A. L. Vossler and R. C. Griffin, will arrive in Chicago prior to 10 a. m. Friday, proceeding directly to their headquarters at the Palmer house, where they will immediately take up the routine of the day.

NAVY ELEVEN HOLDS FINAL DRILLS

ANNAPOLIS, Nov. 21.—The Army-Navy football game at Chicago on Saturday is now the absorbing topic in Annapolis. For the Middy warriors the preliminary work is all over with the exception of final polishing processes that will mark practice sessions tomorrow and Tuesday, for on Wednesday the squad will get under way for the Windy City.

Reaching there Thursday, the players will have a workout on the field of Soldiers stadium that will be the scene of the conflict, and Friday afternoon the final touch will be given during a romp on Stagg field, the grounds of Chicago university.

The Middies come up to the supreme test with a clean slate for the season, while the Cadets have but one smirch against their otherwise stellar performances, and that was when they fell before Notre Dame by one touchdown.

That the game should be the hardest-fought of any in the long series is realized by every one in the Navy camp, and it is also recognized by gridiron critics who have followed the fortunes of the teams throughout the campaign. But the Navy failed to impress against Loyola college on Saturday and Army had a hard time of it with Ursinus college.

Navy made no bones that it expected easy meat with the Jesuits, and accordingly went into the game with a combination of first understudies, only to be smeared around the sward in the first period, by a lighter, but fighting young bunch of Irish to the tune of 13 to 0.

Navy players and their followers are looking to the game with confidence however. They point out that the team rose to great heights in all games. But it had a mighty close call against Colgate, and again with Georgetown less than ten days ago. Both of these teams showed great power.

In a nutshell Navy has a heavy, powerful and hard fighting set of forwards and a string of first rate backs, none, however, that could be called a scintillating star. But thus equipped, Navy people feel that the team will show something a little better than their ancient rival and that a victory for the blue is not far from their grasp.

Cadets Have Full Strength Ready for Clash With Navy

West Point, N. Y., Nov. 21 (By A. P.). The two days intervening before the Army football squad's departure on Wednesday for the Navy game in Chicago next Saturday, will be devoted to a polishing up of the Cadets' offensive. A few hours of drill against the Navy formations is planned. The team came out of the Ursinus game unscratched. It is in high spirits and in perfect physical condition.

Both Trapnell and Elias, mid-October casualties, returned yesterday for extended periods of play. Both showed the effect of the long layoff. Coach "Biff" Jones was somewhat disturbed by the frequent fumbling of the varsity backs yesterday as well as the lack of power and drive in the Army running attack.

Stanford Is Monarch Of Football on Coast

San Francisco, Nov. 21 (By A. P.).—A new monarch sat on the throne of Pacific Coast football today.

Stanford won the laurel yesterday amid the colorful setting of memorial stadium at Berkeley, home of the Golden Bears, of California, who succumbed to the Cardinal avalanche, 41 to 6. Eighty thousand saw the game.

The victory gave the Cardinals a record for the season of four games won and no defeats, and it likewise capped a disastrous season for California, which lost all of its five conference games.

Southern California, which plays Notre Dame in a post season game December 4, finished with four games won and one lost, tied with Oregon Aggies and Washington State college.

Others finished in this order: University of Washington; University of Oregon; Idaho, Montana and California.

District Team Triumphs, 36-26

Philadelphia Tossers Lose Early Lead as Contest Wanes.

By FRANK H. YOUNG.

WASHINGTON'S entry in the American Professional Basketball league last night made an auspicious 1927 debut when it trounced the highly-touted Philadelphia five, 36 to 26, before about 2,000 fans. The Arcadia court has been greatly improved since last year and both lighting and seating conditions were ideal, with the players being given more leeway along the foul lines.

The inaugural ceremonies were short and sweet, with the Boys' Independent band playing the national air, following an introduction of the players of both teams. Then District Commissioner Proctor L. Dougherty tossed out the first ball and the game was on.

The Quakers jumped into a speedy lead when Campbell, in the first half-minute of play, sank a long shot for two points and Passon added two more points from the freedom line. Right here Manager Kenndy and his team put on the gas. The visitors managed to keep close to their opponents' heels for a while, but a 2-pointer by Ripley broke an 8-all tie and from then on the Washington team always was in the van. At half-time the score was 21-12.

"Stretch" Meehan, 6 feet 7 inches tall, was one of the magnets which attracted the fans and, as far as actual playing was concerned, he failed to stand out. However, his extreme height gave him and his team a natural advantage, which proved helpful throughout the game.

Not only was he able on occasions to hold the ball out of reach from every one and to snatch it from the air when it was a mile high, but he drew many free shots because Miller, local tap-off man, frequently fouled while trying to cover him.

The hard work which the Washington team has done in its training has stood it in good stead, judging from the performance last night. The five starters played the entire game and were going strongly at the finish. The club's team-work also was good, this giving it quite an edge over the visitors, who still have several rough spots to polish off their machine. Their failure to follow up their shots was noticeable, especially when compared to Washington's work in this respect.

So closely did the locals guard their opponents that the Quakers scored but four field goals during the game, Campbell and Passon getting one each on long loopers in the first half and Schneiderman ringing a pair in the second.

Washington, on the other hand, was credited with ten, the best of these being Manager Kennedy's heave, which never even hit the rims, from midcourt just before the finish. The local leader was the heavy scorer of the night, accounting for 14 points.

He, Saunders and Ripley scored three two-pointers each, while Ray was particularly good from the freedom strip, holding eight out of ten. Glasco, while scoring less points than the other regulars, played a whale of a game, his passing and guarding being of the best, while he appeared to be faster even than last season.

Miller, making his first start in a Washington uniform, was handicaped in two ways. Not only did he have an injured elbow, but he played opposite Meehan, whose height would make almost any center look bad. The youngster showed promise, however.

District fans who desire an encore are offered an opportunity tonight when the Washington outfit opposes the Brooklyn team, winner of the first half of the race last year. As Monday nights have been designated as "Ladies' days," the fair ones, whether accompanied by escorts or not, will be admitted free.

This also should prove to be a good game and one that should extend Manager Kennedy's lads. Of local interest is the fact that Gary Schmeelk, former local manager, has gotten back

MICHIGAN AND NORTHWESTERN SHARE TITLE IN WEST

Big Ten Race Culminates In Tie

Ohio State, Minnesota Also Have Strong Machines.

Illinois Has Promise for 1927; Chicago Disappoints.

CHICAGO, Nov. 21 (By A. P.).—The moleskins go back into the moth-bags for another year in so far as the Western conference gridiron campaign is concerned, with Michigan and Northwestern sharing the championship honors of 1926.

The season ended with yesterday's games, with both Northwestern and Michigan undefeated in the conference, and with each the winner of five games within the "Big Ten." Michigan, no doubt, played the harder conference schedule, but Northwestern, in games with formidable opponents, demonstrated its class beyond question. It held Notre Dame to the closest score of any foe Rockne's troopers faced, losing 6 to 0.

Northwestern, in the championship race, conquered Chicago, giving the Maroons one of the worst beatings they have received in years, walloped Purdue and Iowa, and also took a couple of falls out of Indiana in their double-header.

Michigan came through with a pair of victories over Minnesota, snatched a close victory from Ohio State, trimmed Illinois, and beat Wisconsin. Michigan's only defeat this season was at the hands, or feet, of the Navy.

Although the schedule failed to bring the two champions together, had they met, critics say, the contest, no doubt, would have been a furious affair, with the result a probable toss-up—at least, that is the view of unbiased observers.

Northwestern, with its backfield hard to match, had to battle furiously to win from Iowa in the closing game of the season. The Hawkeyes, like Chicago and Indiana, had not won a conference game this season, and they were determined, but they were unable to offset Northwestern's power. Cowboy Nick Kutsch, of the Iowa eleven, was no match for the Baker-Gustafson-Lewis combination on offense.

Michigan duplicated its achievement of a week ago against Ohio State in adding another one-point victory over Minnesota. The Wolverines sum up as an alert and intelligent eleven, a team of real athletes, particularly in the line.

The Wolverines, against Minnesota yesterday, lacked the crushing power they have shown against other conference opponents, but they refused to crack, and seized their one opportunity to triumph. Minnesota did one thing about which there was doubt of its ability to do—it checked the Michigan passes rather successfully.

The Gophers made 19 first downs to 3 for Michigan, but lacked the scoring punch that would have made their gains useful.

Ohio State was able to keep from cracking after the Michigan defeat and in trimming Illinois revealed a very flashy player in Byron Eby, a Chillicothe, Ohio, youth, who can do almost everything with a football. He played a marvelous game, lugging the ball in almost four out of five plays, gaining consistently. He will be available to Ohio for two more years.

Illinois, with its sophomore backfield, lacked great offensive strength, but it presents promise for next season. Without Fullback Daugherty in the line-up, critics believe Illinois would have been rated as a weak team this season.

Frosty Peters, Illinois' kicking star, was kept on the side lines for the first three periods yesterday, presumably because Coach Zuppke was not satisfied with Peters' gains from scrimmage. But when he went into the contest, the team seemed to play about 100 per cent better.

Chicago failed to play smart football in the first ten minutes of the Wisconsin game, allowing the Badgers to crash over with a pair of touchdowns that decided the contest. Thereafter, however, the Maroons showed a surprising passing game, which, if it did nothing else, proved that Coach Stagg was not such a back number in the aerial game as some of his critics believed.

Pat Page, with apparently the worst material in the Big Ten, failed to turn out a team at Indiana that could win in the conference, although the Hoosiers did well against Kentucky and Mississippi A. & M.

Rosemont Eskimos Stop Apache "Lights"

The Rosemont Eskimos handed the Apache lightweights a 27-to-14 trouncing yesterday on the former's field. Purr, of the winners, received a severe blow in the eye and will be lost to his team for the remainder of the season.

The Eskimos are anxious to arrange a game for Saturday with either the Western High or Eastern lightweights. Telephone Manager Bode at Alexandria 178-W.

Rockville worked hard to gain its victory over Clan McLennan, scoring three goals in the final period. The Clan eleven was greatly weakened after the first half when Jack MacGinity, dependable forward, was injured. The losers finished the game with 10 men.

German-Americans had little trouble in defeating the Reserves and seemed to be able to score at will. Fort Myer, using several substitutes, ran rough-shod over the British Uniteds, although the latter team did not play up to its usual standard.

back, at right end, played a masterful game. He repeatedly caught runners from behind with the play going around the opposite end when the target of a run, invariably spilled the interference, many times making the tackle in addition.

Joe Gooch, Georgie Jones and "Plunger" Snail backed up the line in collegiate fashion. Those players stood out but all had a hand in the glory.

In giving just credit to the Stantons for their showing, it would not be fair to pass up the fine work of the Apaches who, it seemed, could not be themselves.

"Boots" Brown, shifted from end, made a number of nice gains and also was on the throwing end of several completed passes. "Reds" and Joe Sweeney gained consistently, as did Mat Twomey. "Reds" Sweeney and Clifford were prominent on the defense.

TECH TO PLAY BUSINESS ELEVEN

Gonzaga May Oppose Baltimore Champs This Week.

BARRING another postponement on account of weather conditions, the Tech and Business elevens will bring the hectic public high school football series to an end tomorrow with their battle in the Wilson Memorial stadium starting at 3:15 o'clock.

Tech, with a victory, can finish the race in a tie with Western for the championship, while Business can escape sharing the cellar with Eastern should it take the long end of the score.

By comparative scores there seems little difference between the teams, but that method of doping the games has proven useless this season. However, both teams ran rough-shod over Eastern. Tech tied Central, which defeated Business, 3 to 0, while Tech also tied Western, a team which defeated the Stenographers by a touchdown.

Both teams have had no let up in their practice. Coach Collins has been trying to perfect the play of the Stenographers, while Coach Hardell, of Tech, took a beating from Newport News last Friday rather than risk injuries to his players.

Gonzaga expects to play the Baltimore Poly eleven this week. Poly won the championship of its home city last Saturday when it defeated City college. It is understood that a game had been promised the Purples, providing Poly clinched the Baltimore honors.

Central High's basketball team will open its season Wednesday night, meeting the St. Mary's Celtics on the latter's court at Armory hall, Alexandria. Coach Burt Coggins has his charges advanced to the stage for real games.

Alexandria Pirates Trounce Milans, 32-0

Alexandria, Va., Nov. 21.—The Pirates continued their winning streak today with a 32-0 victory over the Milan A. C. eleven. Roland supplied the feature of the game when he ran 80 yards to a touchdown. Cook played the best game for the Milans. The Pirates scored in every period and were seldom in danger.

SIXTH GRADE SOCCERITES IN LEAGUE

New Plans to Double Number of Players in Game.

MRS. SUSIE ROOT RHODES, supervisor of playgrounds, yesterday outlined the most pretentious program for elementary school athletics ever attempted by her department. This is Mrs. Rhodes' tenth year as head of the local recreation department and, in spite of all that she has done to improve play facilities in the District, she remarked yesterday that she had just begun to work.

The newest wrinkle in elementary school activities, as outlined by Mrs. Rhodes, is a sixth grade soccer league. For years each of the grade schools in Washington has been represented by one team from the seventh and eighth grades in the annual soccer series conducted by the playground department but, according to Mrs. Rhodes, her department has reached a stage of development where its work can be doubled—exactly what will happen when the sixth grade league starts.

Previously about 2,000 grade school boys played in the playground league and, under the new system, this number will be more than doubled.

Play will start in the junior league when games in the senior sections are completed, which will be possibly the week after Thanksgiving. Boys who have not passed the sixth grade in school will be eligible to play. This enables every school in the District to enter, as all have sixth grades, whereas in the senior league many buildings without seventh and eighth grades could not enter.

Instead of the twenty-minute halves that are used in the senior grade school leagues, fifteen-minute periods will be played, with five minutes' rest during the half-hour of play. Official referees will be appointed by the playground department and the city will be divided into seven sections, which will play on the following playgrounds: New York avenue, Rosedale, Virginia avenue, Georgetown, Plaza, Bloomingdale and Park View.

Sectional winners will be awarded banners emblematic of their triumph, but, according to Mrs. Rhodes, it is hardly likely that a city series will be attempted this year. The senior leagues play a city tourney.

COLLYER'S COMMENT on the SPORT of KINGS

BY BERT E. COLLYER

PARADE REST. Soldiers of fortune, as horse players are often termed, can take matters easy until Turkey day when the big doings start at Jefferson park and Tia Juana. Until then, Bowie is the only big track in operation. Members of my clocking staff send me a few good things to start off the winter season. Just pin them in your hat band.

Out at Tia Juana SWEEPING AWAY goes the opening day. This is one of the sweetest morsels ever served over a platter. MANZANA is also on razor edge at the Mexican course and the same applies to ZELDA LEIGHTON. The Unna-McGill combination will kill a flock of geese with PAULA SHAY when they get ready. TIN HAT and SANFORD are ready for the issue and some heavy commisions have been planted.

Down at Jefferson park, NOAH will carry the colors of Col. Phil Chinn and grab off the kale unless he is called upon to meet VESPASION, which is as sharp as a tack. PRICKLY HEAT was never better and Jack McPherson expects FIRE ON to continue in the good form he displayed in Kentucky.

For today at Bowie, OVERFIRE looks like the hot tamale Molly. He goes in the sixth spasm, which is at a mile and an eighth, and any old price should be a good one. I can't find any eligible capable of giving him a real argument.

Twenty are named to go in the opener. FIRST DANCE may prove to be a genuine sleeper at long odds.

The same applies to BEST FRIEND, which is carded to start in the second race.

KNOCKANY has only to run to best form to earn brackets in the third, being called upon to meet an ordinary lot.

ARBITRATION will be hard to beat in the fourth, having rounded to best form.

MINO has all the speed in the fifth and may last it out.

30-yard gain, and throughout the half he seemed a hard man to stop.

The beginning of the third quarter found the Mohawks coming into their own and aided by mighty rushes by Abbott, Cronin and DeGassis, they registered three touchdowns. Late in the final quarter, the Firemen managed to work the ball down to within one foot of the Hawks' goal, but the line plunging of the Dreifus brothers failed to pierce the Hawk line and they lost the ball on downs just before the whistle ended the game.

The Hawks' first touchdown came early in the third quarter after rushes netted five first downs, which brought the ball to the Firemen's 1-yard stripe, and here DeGassis plowed through center for the marker. Fee Colliere's boot failed to soar over the bars.

A penalty inflicted on the Firemen, which put the ball on the 1-yard line in the same quarter, soon resulted in a second touchdown for the Hawks when Cronin romped over for the marker. Fee Colliere's drop kick this time collected the extra point.

The mighty plunges of Abbott and DeGassis in the final quarter brought the Hawks again within one foot of scoring. And at this point Fee Colliere was given the ball and, with an off-tackle dive, landed behind the Firemen's goal. He then added the extra point.

WINTONS END RACE WITH VICTORY

Knicks Downed, 26-0; Southern Triumph in League.

THE Wintons, champions of the Capital City league's 150-pound series, completed their league schedule with a 26-0 victory over the Knick Preps, scored on Fairlawn field, which maintains their clean slate for the series and season.

The Southern Preps finished in a tie with the Northerns for second honors by handing the Brookland A. C. eleven a 20-0 drubbing on the Brookland gridiron.

The Northerns and Southerns have agreed to an unofficial play-off to be staged Thanksgiving morning on the Washington Barracks field.

TITLE WITHIN ALABAMA'S GRASP

ATLANTA, Nov. 21 (By A. P.).—Southern conference football teams numbering 22, with 7 exceptions, rested during the past week-end in preparation for their final contests Thanksgiving day of a season featured by upsets and the sensational and consistent playing of Alabama, twice crowned champions of the South.

The Alabama Tide this season has marched forward to its third consecutive championship brushing aside seven conference teams and one Southern Intercollegiate Athletic association aggregation. Only the University of Georgia stands in the way of an undefeated record for the Tide.

To win the Georgia game at Birmingham Thursday probably would mean Alabama again would be assured of the invitation to play at Pasadena's tournment of roses on New Year's day, if conference rules are amended to allow the conference champion the privilege of playing this post-season game.

The standing of leading Southern conference football teams:

Alabama	7	0	0
Tennessee	4	1	0
Georgia	4	1	0
South Carolina	4	2	0
Alabama Poly	3	2	0
North Carolina	3	2	0

SYNOPSIS OF PRECEDING CHAPTERS.

Marcie Allen, young, lively and restless, undertakes to "vamp" both the husband and the handsome father of her hostess, Audrey Parrish. Audrey's husband, John Parrish, has separated from his rich young wife because of the troubles that usually follow the marriage of poor men and wealthy girls. Her father, Harry Morton, comes home to try to bring peace, and finds Parrish partly wrapped in Marcie's toils. Morton laughs at Marcie's wooing of himself, but encourages her to the point where she drops the matter-of-fact, indifferous Parrish. Marcie is wildly jealous of Nona, famous stage dancer, who has just come to visit Audrey, and who long has loved Morton, and tells her, in confidence, that she (Marcie) has secretly married Morton. Morton tells Audrey that he will not think of marriage until she and her husband are reunited. Marcie decides that she and Nona, experts in dealing with men, shall tell their hostess how to bring back her husband. This chapter begins at midnight.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER XLIV.

NONA had not yet retired. She opened the door to Audrey and Marcie and blinked at them good-naturedly.

"Wait till I throw something over my nightgown," she said.

Enveloping herself in a robe of thin flowered silk, she curled cross-legged on her couch, where the other girls already had seated themselves. She lighted a cigarette.

"Gimme," said Marcie. Nona objected, and held a match to the cigarette at Marcie's lips.

"You people seem so full of mystery," Nona said. "Go ahead and expose the plot."

"It's like this," Marcie said. "Audrey here is pining for her man. I don't know why she wants him, but she does. What's more important—to me—is that Mr. Morton—" she leaned forward so she could see past Audrey and looked significantly at Nona—"says he can't think about marriage until John and Audrey are reconciled."

"Just a candidate?" inquired Nona. Marcie frowned at her and shook her head. Audrey's eyes were downcast, and she could not see the play of glances between the other girls. Nona's eyes met Marcie's without expression in them. "I thought you regarded me as an applicant for Mr. Morton's affections," Nona said to Audrey.

"But where do I come in?" Nona wanted to know.

"You and I," Marcie said, "are experts on men. Audrey's dumb about 'em—we'll tell her what to do."

Nona knocked the ash from her cigarette. "It's been my experience," she said, "that when outsiders butt into somebody else's love affairs the effect is pretty blah."

"But Audrey doesn't know the rules," Marcie urged. "She foozles her shots. She talks when her partner is getting ready to drive. She knocks divots out of the green, and doesn't put 'em back."

"She means," Audrey interposed, smiling faintly, "that I'm a golf widow."

"I mean you've messed up your married life because you don't know how to handle a man," declared Marcie. "I do—and I think Nona does, too."

Nona arose, brought a smoking stand, opened a box of cigarettes on it, lighted another for herself, and invited Marcie to take one when she wanted it.

"I don't think we'll do any good, but go ahead," she said to Marcie.

"Here's the dope," she said. "Your John has gone—lit out. He's mad because you've hurt his feelings. You tried to make up, and have sent him away, sorer every time. Why is he sore? Because you talk about the gifts you give him."

Nona put her hand on Audrey's knee. "Did you do that, dear?"

The married girl shook her head, mystified. "I only did it when I was showing him how kind I'd been to him."

"But why shouldn't I mention my gifts to him?" wailed Audrey. "You and Marcie and John and even daddy jump onto me for it, and I can't see where it's wrong!" She gave evidence of approaching tears.

Nona drew her toward her own shoulders. "There, there!" she crooned. "Don't cry! But, Audrey, dear—don't ever do it again as long as you live. Go on, Marcie."

"Well, he's gone, now," Marcie resumed. "You want him back. You've got to start your own courtship all over again."

"But he courted me!" Audrey protested.

"And now," Marcie told her, "you've got to court him. That's the difference. I do it, when I want a man; Nona does it; every woman does it, to some man, some time. It won't hurt you."

Audrey rubbed a knuckle in her eye. "I don't mind doing it—but every time we talk together he gets angrier at me than he was before."

"I've had a box seat at one or two of these shows that you and John put on," Marcie said. "Here's your trouble. You cry, and he gets softened up—gets all tender and juicy. So far, so good. Tears are dandy. But as soon as you have him cuddling you, and things are getting lovely, you razz him. You say: 'Now are you ever going to be mean to me again?' and 'How cruel you were to talk cross to me after I've bought you such nice underwear.' No wonder he r'ars up on his hind legs and snorts!"

"Good Heavens!" Nona said. "Do you do that way?"

Fat tears were coursing down Audrey's cheeks. "I don't see what's wrong with it!"

"It's just wrong—that's all. If you can't understand why, just take our word for it." Nona was emphatic as she gave this advice. She took up the thread of the sermon to Audrey.

"Marcie's right. You've got to start 'way at the beginning—win him all over again. Just pretend you and he aren't married—let on that he's just a fellow you like, and act that way. Don't expect him to grovel at your feet, and apologize—you're the one that ought to apologize."

Nona smoothed Audrey's shoulder. "Really and truly, Marcie's talking sense," she said.

"But how am I going to meet him again?" persisted Audrey. "If I go down to see him he will just glare at me, and be cold and distant, and I can't stand it!"

Marcie sniffed. "You're as helpless as a pup on crutches," she said. "Any woman who loves a man and doesn't know what to do when she meets him doesn't deserve a man. Audrey, you make me sick!"

"Hush," Nona interposed. "You're making her cry harder. Listen, baby." She caressed Audrey's cheek and brushed back the fair hair on her temples. "Was there any quarreling about anything else?"

"He got mad when I talked about his going to a show, without telling me. It was one of those revues with bare-skinned girls." Audrey was talking into Nona's boudoir robe. "And I said he had no right to use my money for things like that."

"Audrey!" said Nona, with decision. A faint "What?" came from the girl on her shoulder.

"John doesn't lie," Audrey said, her face still hidden in Nona's drapery.

"But you were trying your best to make him a liar," Nona said, firmly. "When a man does anything that's innocent, and that he enjoys, pretend you like it—pretend you want him to have a good time."

"But," Nona said, "evidently you want him to have your sort of a good time—that probably he doesn't enjoy at all. Men want to do things that we can't see the sense in—go fishing and hunting and to jazzy shows—there's no real fun in them—I used to act in 'em myself, and I know. But as long as the man thinks he's having a nice time, encourage him, child! It'll make him happier at home."

Audrey sat up. "All right. I'll do anything on earth to make him happy. But how am I going to get to see him?"

"If you were Marcie," Nona replied, candidly, "I'd say for you to trot right down and say 'hello.' But you'd bungle it."

"We'll ask Harry—Mr. Morton," Marcie decided.

Automatically the two other girls nodded in agreement.

"Is he up?" asked Audrey.

"Wait—I'll see." Marcie sprang to her feet and burst out the door. They could hear her hurrying footsteps on the stair.

Nona and Audrey went to the landing. Marcie was just going into Morton's study, and they could hear his voice giving vent to a surprised "hello." Then Marcie closed the door behind her.

Nona looked at Audrey uncertainly and took a step forward. "I don't like to have her alone with him," she said.

With that, she hastened in the trail of her younger rival. Without stopping to knock she turned the handle of the door and thrust it open.

Morton was in his revolving chair. Marcie was perched on the desk close to him pressing his cheeks between her hands.

WIVES OF TOMORROW

By FRANCES M'DONALD

The Warring Sexes.

MY Dear Miss McDonald: You have invited comment on your opinion "of the war of the sexes."

I feel that I must preface my opinions by the circumstances under which I arrived at them. I am in my sixties. I have grown sons. Born in the now scoffed-at Victorian age I observed its conventions. I never believed in nor practiced a "double standard of morals," yet I have come to believe that some of the conventions of "mating" are all wrong and must change radically, perhaps during this century, if modern conditions of existence are to be met and the race continue to improve.

I think women, as a sex, sense these facts somewhat instinctively, and that it accounts for their present actions and fashions.

Perhaps "man's refusal to do his duty and select a mate," even if he be a normal, decent, educated, hard-working young man, is not altogether his fault. It may not be refusal, but merely inability to give such a mate as he would choose all she demands and all he would like to see her enjoy of creature comforts.

Therefore, what does she do? She flaunts her sex lure. She may or may not realize it; but she does. Imagine, if you will, a bevy of sesqui flappers—or even matrons—appearing at the centennial exposition. You know what would have happened; they would have been mobbed.

Now you think, from reading the above, that I am from 50 to 60 years behind the times. I am not; I prefer the present tendencies, even if I did observe the past conventions and standards. Present tendencies are all right if they only proceed far enough and in the right direction.

Somehow, some day (a day I shall not live to see), young womanhood and young manhood will exercise at least as much intelligence in mating and rearing offsprings as is exhibited by a present-day breeder of Kentucky thoroughbreds. They will know that whatever else of mental equality and spiritual sympathy and culture are necessary to maintain a happy home, sexual "compatibility" is also quite as necessary.

How they, and society, will secure the latter knowledge, whether by "trial marriages" or otherwise, I don't pretend to know or predict; but it will not be left to chance—it must not be left to chance if successful homes are to endure. Is that what the "immodest, provocative, sophisticated" flapper is trying to teach the race?

I do not mean to disparage womankind. Neither sex has a monopoly of the virtues, so why should there be any antagonism?

From your writings, I infer that you are trained in social service. I see you have read Malchow and Havelock Ellis and Cope and Freud and other writers on sex psychology. And so, while I have written frankly, I hope I have done so without offense, for none is intended. These thoughts are for your use, if they are of any use. Sincerely,

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. W. A. EVANS

RELAX FOR CRAMPS WHILE SWIMMING.

A NORTHWESTERN student writes: Your recent article hardly did enough credit to the Swedish people for the splendid new steps they have taken in the sport of swimming. The real value of such a step can only be realized by those who are well acquainted with the sport, its advantages, and the immense number of drownings that occur all over the country every year.

The requirement that all university graduates and athletes be able to swim is not unreasonable, for under good coaching it is often a matter of only a few weeks before the pupil can propel himself in the water; after that is accomplished the work is interesting rather than tedious in the learning of new strokes, life saving methods, and the responsibility of caring for another life in the water besides one's own.

In many of the American universities and in boys' and girls' camps life saving methods are taught. The tests require that a pupil dive for a 10-pound weight, know the various carries used in bringing a drowned person to shore, the breaks used in breaking the grip of the drowning one wherever he may take hold, "dolphin diving," which is an aid in searching for the body, the Shafer method of resuscitation (which a 13-year-old Chicago girl used recently on one of the beaches to save a life), and the complete care of the drowned person after he is brought to. The pupil must also undress himself in the water.

There have been many unnecessary deaths caused by cramps. Some of the best swimmers have gone down with a siege of cramps, usually in the stomach. There is no need to drown from cramps, if the swimmer only knows how to propel himself. Upon feeling a cramp coming on the victim usually becomes terrified and loses all confidence in himself, which results in his own death, whereas if he were calm and cool he could completely relax his stomach muscles, keeping himself afloat with his limbs, even with his arms alone, and before long the cramp would disappear. I don't know about other universities, but at Northwestern the pupil must swim with both hands extended in the air and in all ways possible in which he does not use his entire body. The main thing to remember when you have a cramp is that relaxation in the affected part is necessary, and if given a little time the cramp will go away.

When you see an American Red Cross life-saving badge on a swimmer's suit you know that he is capable of taking care of any one in distress in the water, and the more badges on swimmers' suits the fewer deaths by drowning. If Sweden can keep pace with America in this matter, she will have an accomplishment of which to be proud.

REPLY.

The point of great interest about this letter is what is said about cramps. Panic is responsible for most of the fatalities which follow cramps while swimming. If the swimmer will merely keep his head above water and remain calm, the cramp will pass away in a short time. Keeping the head, but particularly the nose, out of water is simple for the man who remains calm.

However, cramps as an explanation of fatalities among swimmers has been very much overworked. The effect of cold on his skin nerve endings does increase the tendency to cramping somewhat. But it is not correct to charge to cramps deaths due to fainting, dilatation of the heart, anginal attacks, heart disease, apoplexy, and other causes which happen to occur while the party is in the water. Water is an unnatural medium for man, and anything which causes loss of consciousness is liable to indirectly cause drowning.

CURE FOR PURPURA.

2. What is slow coagulation of blood? Is it dangerous? Cure?

REPLY.

1. A condition in which the blood readily oozes out of some of the capillaries. It is generally a symptom of some such disease as scurvy, rheumatism, or some others. The degree of danger and the treatment depends on the disease of which this is a symptom.

2. A condition in which the blood coagulates slowly. It is a symptom which is frequently associated with purpura. Try to find the cause.

In some cases lime salts are given, or some horse serum is injected. Cianothya is used.

Conduct and Common Sense

By ANNE SINGLETON.

I RATHER think that in the good old days of savage Redskins we thanked Providence more warmly than we do today for preserving us and our harvests. Nothing makes existence and creature comforts so precious as to feel either may be nipped from you at a moment's notice, and no doubt frontier life and zipping arrows made our ancestors celebrate Thanksgiving day with great gusto.

People who give Thanksgiving parties now, if they have the wherewithal for a good meal, are only concerned about their surroundings in the way of decorations. Well, the kindly fruits of the earth, as the Bible so pleasantly calls them, are beautiful in themselves. What could make a lovelier table picture than a great flat, round or oval silver (or brass or glass or brilliant china) dish filled with vegetables, fruits flowers and autumn leaves. Corn is beautiful, eggplant is beautiful, tomatoes have a fine color, so have peppers. Grapes and roses, apples and autumn leaves—can't you see those as a delightful combination?

Melons are good; pumpkins a little large for town tables even on this occasion; but for real decorative quality the grains, the leaves, the vegetables and the fruits that can be used together make the most charming effect. This is a time when people who ask about using colored linen for dinner might be answered with a hearty "yes." Whether your dinner is a midday one, served at the lunch hour, or an evening one, you could still use a faint blue, yellow or pale pink or lilac tablecloth and napkins; and if you happened to have glass of the same color, a little darker in shade, your table would fairly glow. I'd have none of those horrid ceiling lights, but side lights on the walls and candles on the table. And I'd not forget that, in blessing all the earth's products, Providence did not omit fruit juices, however prepared. I'd also remember that one dinner at least should go to a poorer neighbor.

Mr. Work's Pointer On Auction Bridge

(Milton C. Work, the international authority, will answer your auction bridge questions. A stamped, self-addressed envelope must accompany each request for replies.)

IN auction bridge there are two classes of doubles, business and informatory; today I will try to explain their respective meanings and uses.

For some years after auction bridge was played in this country, the bid of an opponent was not doubled unless the doubler expected to defeat the contract, and consequently desired to double the penalty he would receive. The double made to obtain a double penalty is still as important a factor as ever; it is now called the "business double" to distinguish it from a made-in-America double, generally known as the "informatory double." The business double seldom can be used advantageously early in the bidding. To defeat a small-sized contract, even by one trick, is unusual; and when the opportunity to defeat it severely does arise, a double known to have been made for business would warn the opponents, and they would usually be able to overcall with some bid which would not be so expensive. Even in the exceptional case in which a business double of an early bid would stand and would yield a penalty, the return derived from it rarely would be as great as from a game-going bid made by the doubler or his partner; consequently when but one type of double was known, the privilege of doubling an early declaration seldom was utilized. It was because of this that the informatory double was devised and for more than a decade it has been generally used and very popular in this country. For years it was not favored by English players, but finally they too learned its advantages; so today it is conventional on both sides of the Atlantic.

The respective objects of the two doubles may be stated thus:

BUSINESS—Those made with the expectation of defeating the adversary, and for the purpose of increasing the score of the doubler; the desire of the doubler being that his double stand.

INFORMATORY—Those made for the purpose of conveying information to the partner who is expected to overbid; unless his hand is so strong that he feels justified in allowing the double to stand with the hope of a large penalty.

The informatory double of a no trump announces that the doubler also has a no trump. The informatory double of a suit-bid announces strength in the other three suits; there may or may not be strength in the suit that is doubled. In my succeeding articles I shall first take up doubles of one no trump, and later other doubling problems.

The pointer for today is:

A double of one no trump is informatory unless the partner of the doubler has previously bid or doubled; in which case it is business.

Examples: Dealer bids one of a suit. Second hand one no trump, third hand double; business because the partner has bid. Dealer pass. Second hand one no trump, third hand double; informatory because the partner has not bid. Dealer one of a suit, second hand double. Third hand one no trump, fourth hand double; the fourth hand's double would be business by reason of the double previously made by the partner.

Tomorrow I will consider the strength required to justify the double of one no trump.

BEAUTY AND YOU

By VIOLA PARIS

TAKING ADVANTAGE OF ELEMENTS.

IT is proverbial that women and girls who live in damp, rainy climates have a certain loveliness of complexion that is distinctly their own. The fogs of England and the mists of the Pacific coast are certainly not without their advantages, for they give a clear, fresh radiancy to every skin they touch.

This fact contains a lesson in beauty, even though not all of us can live in damp climates—nor would want to, perhaps! But for all of us there are plenty of rainy days and moral is that we shouldn't grumble at them. Instead of scurrying under cover and staying indoors by the fire, brave the weather and go out for at least an hour's walk each day. Let the wind and the rain blow against your cheeks; the rouge that you are not wearing, lest it be washed off, will soon be provided. And it will be an indelible rouge that only nature knows how to make.

It is proverbial that rainwater and dew are very good for the complexion. There is a legend that coutnry maids who wished to be more beautiful, for the admiration of their swains, used to get up early in the morning to bathe their faces in the grass still wet with dew. That isn't so practical for most of us nowadays, probably, since we may not even have the grass handy, but, even so, the lesson still holds good. Let us not be too fearful of the elements, particularly the damp ones.

THE BOY AND STRANGERS.

I'll run the chance for kindness' sake
On promises that strangers make;
Sometimes I'll cash a check, although
The worth of it I do not know;
But there's one risk I will not run—
I'll trust no stranger with my son.

Strangers may take my gold and flee,
And only slight the loss will be;
Liars and tricksters may deceive,
And not for long o'er that I'll grieve,
But I'll not risk my boy to go
With people that I do not know.

A care I can not well resign.
Others, perhaps, would do it well,
But that I can not surely tell;
And fearful lest he go astray,
I'll teach my boy from day to day.

I'll be his father and his friend;
What he would learn of life I'll teach,
I'll stay always within his reach,
I owe a duty to my son,
And I shall see that it is done.

No smooth-voiced stranger shall come in
And lead my boy to shame and sin,
Nor shall I send him out to play
With all who chance to come his way,
With money many a risk I'll run,
But strangers can not have my son.

400 Chickens, 4 Pigs For Wedding Feast

Budapest, Nov. 21 (By A. P.)—One steer, four pigs, six calves, 400 chickens, 8,000 liters of wine, 3,000 bottles of mineral water, and 400 pounds of cakes were consumed by the 600 guests at the wedding of Franz Kriz, the son of the burgomaster of Vaskur, a small town in the western part of the country.

Frolicsome Plays Attract Royalty

The Queen of Spain, who has been here doing her Christmas shopping, saw a comedy or light opera five nights of the first week she was in town.

Queen Maud of Norway on her first theater night attended a performance of "Lady, Be Good," and two nights afterward saw a jazz piece in which a score or more of American negroes appear.

"Rose Marie" is particularly popular with royalty. It has been seen by all the visiting royalty, as well as by the Prince of Wales, Princess Mary, the Duke and Duchess of York and Prince Henry. King George and Queen Mary have seen this play three times.

PARIS' STONE WALLS GIVE WAY TO PARKS

Paris, Nov. 21 (By A. P.)—A belt of parks, athletic fields and inexpensive apartments have replaced the stone walls that have formed a belt around Paris since the days of the Norman attack during the ninth century.

The work of tearing down the fortifications, some of which in their present form date back to 1190, is nearing completion. Between the Porte de Versailles and the Porte de la Plaine, a park of more than 7,000 acres has been created for the use of municipal expositions and fairs. Tennis courts have been laid out in several parts of the former stone ring.

Tourists are losing an interesting sight of Paris, but Parisians are gaining room in which to live, play and move.

180 More Stars Seen By Danish Scientist

Cape Town, Africa, Nov. 21 (By A. P.)—The discovery of 180 unknown stars is reported by Dr. Vandebos, a Dutch astronomer, who has been investigating the heavens from South Africa.

The astronomer also determined a group of three so-called double stars which in their aggregate form a sextuple constellation. This latter discovery Dr. Vandebos explains by the fact that hitherto many of these double stars have been accepted as single stars.

BROCADES AND VELVETS, WORN MOST IN MOVIES

V-NECKS ALWAYS LIKED

Hollywood, Calif., Nov. 21 (By A. P.). Costumes in the movies, where clothing the cast is more than a dressmaker's job, are the creations of specialists in fashions and feminine personalities.

Wardrobes call for designers and other craftsmen who can keep modern styles in advance of the mode and period fashions authentic, adapt styles to individualities, work fabrics into desired effects and criticise the finished product.

The costume designer usually dresses everybody in the picture and each must pass his examination before going on the set.

The simplest dress costs $200 to reproduce for the movies, says Andre-Ani, designer for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, but without his department the cost of costuming would be trebled. Delay in getting materials and the inconvenience of having the work done outside the studio are eliminated, he points out. There are 25 workers in the modern wardrobe department and 30 in the costume department.

"Satins and metallic cloths make the wearers look large," Andre-Ani explains. "Soft and flowy materials will hide ugly ankles and fat arms. Gold cloth often is used, and protuberances painted black to hide physical defects. Taffetas are disliked by directors. The material requires a good deal of painting to tone down the effects."

The fabric department prints materials according to Andre-Ani's designs. Hand blocked fabrics, more expensive than brocades, are widely used.

"V-shaped necks in dresses are the most popular because they make the actresses appear tall and lend grace to their figures," says the designer. "Short vamp shoes are preferred because the camera usually makes feet appear larger than they are.

"The secret of success in costume designing is insistence on simplicity and attention to the lines best suited to the individual needs of the stars. We go in for extremes only when it is a necessary part of the characterization."

MODISH MITZI

"Yes," says Mitzi to the Goofer, "I think it's going to be a highly successful party. I have a new fringe frock that you'll adore." Mitzi is dressed for the occasion of answering a telephone call in a green silk negligee trimmed with green marabou.

The Goofer Sees Too Many Revues

By Jay V. Jay

Mitzi wasn't strictly accurate. She has no fringe dress. She will have, though, by the time she needs one if she can make up her mind which one of several fascinating models she prefers. Left: silk crepe and fringe. Right: metal brocade and fringe.

Besides the fringe there's very little else to this frock at the left—only a yoke of chiffon and a tag of chiffon that may serve as a scarf. The dress to the right looks as though it might be a large size shawl carefully draped about.

Meantime the Goofer is slightly scandalized. Can Mitzi possibly mean a dress made all of fringe? Of course, if Mitzi does it, it's all right and yet the Goofer has some qualms. He's seen too many revues just lately in our opinion.

REED CALLS AUTHOR OF MISSOURI CHARGE TO TELL TALE TODAY

SENATE CHAIRMAN SAYS STORY IS AN ABSURDITY

Leaders of Both Parties in Kansas City Deny Any Knowledge of Gift.

Kansas City, Nov. 21 (By A. P.).—Senator James A. Reed (Democrat), Missouri, who has directed investigations of senatorial campaign fund expenditures in Pennsylvania, Illinois, Indiana and other States, tomorrow will delve into charges that the Democratic organization of his home town used a slush fund in the November 2 election.

As chairman of the Senate campaign funds investigating committee, Senator Reed has summoned H. R. Walmsley, of Kansas City, a Republican and former member of the Missouri legislature, to appear and testify regarding any knowledge he may have of gossip that between $250,000 and $750,000 was paid into the local Democratic campaign fund by the Kansas City Street Railways Co.

Walmsley precipitated the hearing by writing to Senator Norris (Republican), Nebraska, and asking for an inquiry into reports of alleged irregularities in the election here.

Upon learning of Walmsley's action, Senator Reed ordered the former legislator to appear before him Monday morning. Walmsley announced he would comply, although he said he could give no specific information. The hearing will be in Senator Reed's office here.

Holds Charge Is Absurd.

Commenting on newspaper reports of the Walmsley letter before he had received any official notification of it, Senator Reed said he regarded the charges "as characteristic of Mr. Walmsley."

The idea that the Democratic organization received such a sum as mentioned by Walmsley, he said, "is an absurdity on its face."

Republican and Democratic leaders expressed ignorance of the charges. Republican party chiefs indicated that Walmsley had acted without the knowledge of the county Republican organization.

T. J. Pendergast, factional leader of a powerful wing of the Democratic party, whom Walmsley declared "owned" the Democratic organization in Kansas City, flatly denied that any money had been received directly or indirectly by the Democrats from the railways company.

Walmsley, upon being notified of the summons, declared he had made no direct charges and could give no direct evidence but, he added, "fraud was apparent on the face of the returns and common gossip was that money was used."

He asserted that "a one-man Democratic committee to investigate frauds of which the Democratic party was the beneficiary is not likely to be a disinterested investigation."

Senatorial Election Involved.

In his letter to Senator Norris, which was turned over to Senator McNary, of the campaign funds committee, in Washington and its contents subsequently telegraphed to Senator Reed here, Walmsley declared it was "common gossip" that the Street Railways Co. gave the Democratic campaign fund for use on election day here between $250,000 and $750,000. Returns from certain precincts indicated, he asserted, that the voting was done by election officials.

Walmsley coupled the alleged irregularities in part with the victory of Harry B. Hawes (Democrat) over Senator George B. Williams (Republican) in the Missouri senatorial race.

As the charges reached Senator Reed, the Street Railways Co. was alleged to have donated to the Democrats in return for a twelve-year extension of its franchise. Shortly before the election the Democratic majority of the city council voted to extend the franchise, and the action was seized upon by Republican campaign speakers, who condemned the extension.

Commenting on the Walmsley charges, Senator-elect Harry B. Hawes, Democrat, said:

"All I know about the matter is what I know from the newspapers. I am thoroughly convinced that the charges have no foundation in fact.

FERNANDEZ REBEL BAND DEFEATED BY MEXICANS

2 ARMY OFFICERS HELD

El Paso, Tex., Nov. 21 (By A. P.).—Gen. Nicolas Fernandez, leader of a band of Mexican rebels, which crossed the border east of here November 1, was defeated by federal soldiers in a clash today in the northern part of the state of Durango, said a telegram received in Juarez from Parral.

Twenty-two horses, 30 rifles and a pack mule loaded with ammunition were reported to have been seized from Fernandez.

Gen. Fernandez was forced to flee with two of his followers after the brush with the federals, it was reported.

The information came in a telegram to Gen. Rafael L. Mendoza, commander of the Parral district, who is visiting Juarez on private business.

Fernando Fernandez, a minor rebel leader, had been captured and courtmartialed, the advices said. Whether or not he was executed could not be learned.

Former followers of Gen. Francisco Villa in Chihuahua have pledged their support to the federal government and have assured Gen. Mendoza that in the event of a serious uprising they will take the field against the rebels, he said.

When questioned about revolutionary activities in the Paral district Gen. Mendoza said that his territory was quiet, and denied that trouble was feared by officials in that district.

Mexico City, Nov. 21 (By A. P.)—Police have arrested two army officers, Carlos Obregon and Manuel Martine, on charges that they were organizing a seditious plot against the government and were ative in distributing propaganda favorable to the Catholic cause.

Several civilians were apprehended on the same charges and the police declare there will be numerous other arrests of persons implicated.

ANDREWS' SUGGESTION IS CALLED DOUBTFUL

Present Supply of 15,000,000 Gallons Will Last Eight Years, He Declares.

The Antisaloon league is willing to assent that the government renew the manufacture of whisky for medicinal purposes provided a plan for foreign purchase of liquor is first tried out and proven unsatisfactory, Wayne B. Wheeler, general counsel of the league, declared in a statement yesterday.

"Whether the United States should renew the manufacture of whisky here or buy it abroad, as the law provides, is an open question," Wheeler said. "If the government tries the foreign purchase plan for a short time and finds it unsatisfactory, it can start the distilleries whenever the contingency arises," he declared. He continued:

"The wets have declared persistently that the only place to get pure whisky is in Scotland or some other foreign country. If they are right, the needed supply may be obtained abroad. We need not buy it for at least five years and could tell better then how much was needed. Any needed supply could be imported in a very short time to fill any deficiency between warehouse supply and the demands of the hour."

From his own perspective and point of view, Wheeler said, foggy misgivings arise thick and fast concerning the plan of Gen. Lincoln C. Andrews to renew the manufacture of whisky in order that it may age in time to replenish the present supply which is said to be growing dangerously low. Regarding the plan to select one distiller to manufacture the whisky, Wheeler said:

Supply Must Be Low.

"The law prohibits the manufacture of whisky until the existing supply is so low that a new supply is required, given time for aging. When the government decides that this date has arrived, under the present law every distillery has an equal chance for a permit. To issue permits to a few would bring charges of favoritism and provoke court action to compel the granting of other permits. Some distiller would take a chance and make a large supply of whisky for beverage use.

"There is a possibility that this difficulty may be met by the passage of a bill that is being drafted under the supervision of the prohibition unit. This bill would provide greater government control over the manufacture of a new supply."

Wheeler suggests further the use of pure ethyl alcohol as the basis for alcoholic medicines. This now is the rule in many States, he said, declaring, "this method is more scientific and brings better results." Druggists object to the handling of whisky in drug stores, he said.

And anyway, he declared, "the facts are that only about 1,800,000 gallons of whisky are being used for medicinal purposes, so that the present supply of 15,000,000 gallons will last more than eight years, adding:

"According to the standard set by the medical profession, only four years are needed for aging, consequently there is plenty of time remaining before it is necessary to start the distilleries."

Finds Bread and Water Poor Turkey Substitute

Hartington, Nebr., Nov. 21 (By A. P.).—November 25 may mean Thanksgiving to most people, but John Rex, in county jail here, is afraid it will mean only bread and water for him. He is the last of the recent "diet" cases, in which lawbreakers were sentenced to imprisonment wtih certain periods set aside during which they were fed only bread and water.

Rex has appealed to Judge Wilbur Bryant, who sentenced him because of some trouble over a check that Rex had written. Through jailer Ed MacRill, Rex has asked the judge that the five-day bread and water period, in which Thanksgiving lucklessly falls, be arranged to permit him to at least share in some of the "specials" that the other jail inmates will enjoy. His sentence calls for alternate five-day periods of bread and water and regular fare.

PANAMA FLIGHT TESTS DELAYED BY WEATHER

MAY WAIT THREE WEEKS

Norfolk, Va., Nov. 21 (By A. P.).—A cold northwest wind that brought a mixture of snow and rain today prevented final tests of the navy's Norfolk to Panama nonstop flight seaplanes, and officials tonight could not predict when the start would be made, saying it might be made tomorrow or it might be held up for three weeks. The planes, PN-10 all metal machines equipped with two 600-horsepower motors each, flew to Hampton Roads Friday from Philadelphia, where they were built and were to have had their full load tests at the Hampton Roads naval air station today. The proposed flight of 2,171 miles is designed to demonstrate the possibilities of long distance seaplane scouting.

The time of the flights start will depend on the condition of the motors and the weather, Lieut. Comdr. H. T. Bartlett, commanding the expedition, said tonight.

"I am not absolutely satisfied with the motors yet and don't propose to start until we have these planes running just as smoothly as we can make them," Commander Bartlett said. "After we are ready we are going to wait for favorable weather. When that will be I don't know; it may be tomorrow, or it may not be for three weeks. I don't think conditions will be favorable for taking off tomorrow."

The flight commander received a message from the weather bureau in Washington reporting:

"Conditions improving but probably not favorable until Tuesday or Wednesday. Weather still bad in Caribbean."

Both planes made short flights today despite the bad weather but it was decided not to attempt to hold the full load tests until tomorrow.

Sought as a Slayer, He Dies of Pneumonia

Yonkers, N. Y., Nov. 21 (By A. P.).—Notified by police of Greensboro, N. C., that Clarence Wharton was wanted there on a charge of murder, police here today found that the notification had come a day too late. Wharton died of pneumonia last night.

At the home of Wharton police found Charles Shaw, whom they are holding as a fugitive from a prison road gang for North Carolina authorities.

corporation and procured a franchise for the building of a railroad from St. John, N. B., to Grand Falls, N. B., known as the St. Johns Quebec railway. The railroad was to be 210 miles long.

All Corporations Assessed.

"A charter was procured from the New Brunswick parliament for this purpose. In connection with this charter, parliament guaranteed the bonds of the railroad up to $25,000 per mile. This was a common practice in building railroads in Canada and in many parts of this country at that time.

"At the time we were seeking a charter politics were at fever heat in New Brunswick and a strenuous fight was on between the liberals and the conservatives who were then in power. Every corporation and especially American investors seeking to do business in Canada were assessed for campaign purposes, and we in common with all others were told how much we were expected to contribute to the campaign if we expected to get any legislation through parliament.

"The amount assessed against the St. Johns & Quebec railroad was $100,000, and we were told by Premier Flemming that we must pay that assessment if we expected to go on with our railroad.

"I strenuously objected to the payment of a cent, but the judgment of my business associates who were in a majority prevailed and my New York associates paid this amount of money without my knowledge, sanction or consent.

"Later, when Premier Clarke of the same party came into power, he sought a contribution of $50,000 from us, and likewise gave us to understand that if we expected to continue building the railroad we must contribute this amount.

Again Refused to Pay.

"I again positively refused and told my New York associates that I would get out of the proposition entirely if they allowed the railroad company to be sandbagged any longer. My advice was taken and we positively refused.

"As a result Premier Clarke and his associates, carried out their threat and passed legislation which put us out of business. At that time, the province of New Brunswick owed us more than $400,000 on account of money due us.

"We brought suit against the province of New Brunswick and carried it through all the courts of Canada, and the supreme court of Canada finally decided that we could not collect what was due us from the province of New Brunswick on account of legislation passed by the New Brunswick parliament.

"No question of bribery or attempt at bribery was found against anybody in connection with the railroad by the decision of this last court of last resort of Canada."

The Republican nominee characterized the committe report as "another cheap attack at the last moment to dig up some ghost in an effort to bring votes to the Democratic party."

ST. PAUL RAILROAD GOING UPON BLOCK AT AUCTION TODAY

Upset Price, $122,500,000, Is Fixed by U. S. Judge for System.

COAL BILL THE CAUSE OF LINE'S TROUBLES

Kuhn, Loeb and the Jameson Group Expected to Be Rival Bidders.

Butte, Mont., Nov. 21 (By A. P.).—The Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railway will go upon the auction block here Monday, the first major railroading enterprise in America to reach that status. The sale will pave the way for reorganization of the great transcontinental system which dropped into receivership something less than two years ago.

The upset price, that from which bids shall be started, was placed at $122,500,000 by Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson, in whose court the receivership has been administered, and who appointed Herbert Lundahl, of Chicago, as a special master in chancery to receive the bids.

The Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul has been estimated worth from $550,000,000 to $750,000,000 and on January 1, 1925, had an outstanding indebtedness of $465,045,000.

Rivals May Bid.

The railway's fiscal agents, Kuhn, Loeb & Co., of New York and the National City Bank, of New York, throughout have indicated their intention to bid in the system, and with them has been deposited a majority of the railroad's securities. An opposing group holding some $16,000,000 of the road's junior securities and known variously as the "Jameson group" and the Bondholders' Defense committee, headed by E. C. Jameson, of New York, have been reported as prospective bidders.

The Jameson group waged a strenuous fight in an effort to be permitted to intervene in the receivership, but permission was denied by Judge Wilkerson.

The railroad went into receivership March 18, 1925, when friendly involuntary proceedings were instituted before Judge Wilkerson. A comparatively minor coal bill was the vehicle of the receivership, but it also was represented that he railroad would be unable to meet $48,000,000 bonds maturing January 1, 1925.

H. E. Byram, then president of the road; Mark W. Potter, a former member of the Interstate Commerce Commission and E. J. Brundage, former Illinois attorney general, were appointed receivers.

In Federal court it was alleged that the receivership was directed by the railroad's bankers so that its financial structure might be reorganized, and the Interstate Commerce Commission also held a hearing to fix the cause for the receivership.

The railroad, with more than 8,000 miles of main line, is one of the nation's most important systems. It was the first Western road to push its steel to the Pacific coast and the first to operate electrically across the Continental divide. It now operates nearly 700 miles with electricity over two mountain ranges.

October Auto Output Falls, Report Shows

(By Associated Press.)

October production of motor vehicles in the United States fell off considerably, both as compared with September, and with October, 1925. The Commerce Department yesterday reported that passenger automobiles made in October numbered 288,848 against 350,913 in September, and 394,096 in October, 1925. Truck production last month was 42,890 against 46,428 in September, and 44,323 in October, 1925.

For the year to date, however, the motor output remains well ahead of previous records. Passenger car production was 3,407,411, against 3,089,153 for the same 10 months of 1925, while the truck output was 428,931 against 407,828.

jected to mysterious inquiries and other published reports are regarded by Mr. Fall and his counsel as tending to create in advance an atmosphere where his interests might be unfavorably affected.

It also appears that in the midst of these alleged efforts to influence public opinion, one of the news agencies communicated with Mr. Fall and asked him to prepare a statement to offset the effect of "unjust" and "inappropriate" comment in certain newspapers. Mr. Fall declined to make a statement of his case on the ground that he believed legal cases should be tried in the courts and not in the newspapers. But he later made public the purport of his reply to the request for a detailed statement.

"I feel very deeply the humiliation of being compelled to appear before any jury under a charge such as is pending," Mr. Fall said yesterday in his statement.

Wants Unprejudiced Jury.

"Nevertheless, I welcome the opportunity to have a fair and unprejudiced jury hear the evidence for the government and that which may be offered, if necessary, by the defense, and decide the issues in this case.

"For many years I practiced law and this legal training, at least in the old days, was along the lines of publicity to the effect that cases should be tried in the courts and not in the newspapers. I realize very fully the power of the press and that anything which I might say might be read by the jurors who are to try these cases. I can not, however, find it consistent with the ideas instilled into me when I was reading, and later, practicing law, to use any methods, howsoever legal and proper, to influence the determination of a jury, aside from the evidence submitted for their consideration by the presiding judge in the trial.

"I am aware of the fact that within the last few days articles have appeared in some of the papers which my attorneys have considered as unjust and to say the least, inappropriate at the present time as tending, in some degree, to influence adversely to their client's interest the verdict of the jury. To attempt to offset such unfavorable impressions, if any, through an effort to obtain favorable publicity, I can not think is proper under the present conditions."

Plagues of Insects 4,000,000 Years Ago

Salt Lake City, Nov. 21 (By A. P.)—Bees, flies, beetles, ants, dragon flies, and even mosquitoes were pestering around Utah 4,000,000 years ago, the same as they are today. Prof. Earl Douglass, of the University of Utah, who discovered dinosaur skeletons near Vernal a year or two ago, has just found fossils of insects in eocene formation in Dinosaur National monument.

Sixty specimens of fossil plants, including leaves, stems, buds, roots, flowers and fruits were also uncovered. Usually only leaves are found, said Prof. Douglass

HOUSE GROUP LIKELY TO START HEARINGS ON CITY AGAIN TODAY

School Board Members to Be Asked for Improvement Opinions.

SLIGHT HOPE HELD NOW FOR DONOVAN PROPOSAL

Gibson and Houston Lean to Auditor's Program, Is Indication.

The House District investigating subcommittee is expected to resume its hearings today. Representative Gibson, its chairman, expects to have at least one other member to sit with him, in which case the study of the local government again will be taken up.

Members of the school board are to be asked to come before the committee, not necessarily today, to give their opinion of needed improvements. They will follow District government officials who have been appearing before the subcommittee since the hearings were resumed.

One of the most important proposals thus far submitted was that by District Auditor Daniel J. Donovan, who declared the local government should be responsible directly to Congress without the intervention of the budget bureau or comptroller general. Representatives Gibson and Houston, of Delaware, are believed to look sympathetically upon the proposal, though this does not mean they are yet ready to sponsor it.

It would be difficult of passage, it is believed, and would have little chance of success at the coming short session. There is the probability that it may reach the form of a bill, however, before the seventieth Congress convenes.

Those members of Congress who have to do with District affairs long have indicated a desire to broaden the powers of the commissioners, but so far they have not known just how they should go about it. Because of this sentiment it is not unlikely that Donovan's proposal could make some headway in the next Congress.

As soon as the subcommittee has concluded hearing expressions of opinion and suggestions as to changes, it plans to launch definitely on its own inquiry.

Commerce Bureau's Aid Nets $189,376,000

(By the Associated Press.)

Commerce Department services to Americans engaged in international trade resulted in a gain of $189,376,000 in new business in the last fiscal year, Dr. Julius Klein, chief of the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce, estimated yesterday in his annual report. The government expended $3,000,000 in rendering the trade information which helped to bring about that particular result and general benefit.

In 2,032,000 instances, Dr. Klein said, the bureau gave specific service by furnishing information or aid to traders. This compared with a total of 505,000 such services given in 1922, and the heavy increase of duties on the bureau's personnel was declared to be in direct ratio to the increase of service. Because of overtime now imposed in the bureau's office, he asked for an increased working force, and recommended also an increase of fifteen offices to the total of 62 which the bureau now maintains at home and abroad.

Man Flees After He Assaults Policeman

A few moments before he would have been whisked away in the "Black Maria" and lodged in a cell on a charge of intoxication, an unidentified colored man yesterday succeeded in knocking down his captor, Policeman H. G. Freeman, of the Seventh precinct, and fleeing.

Freeman arrested the man at Wisconsin avenue and S street northwest, and walked him to R street to a patrol box. As the patrolman was about to open the box, his captive struck him with his fist and knocked him down. Now the fugitive is being sought for assaulting a policeman.

DRIVE BEGINS JANUARY 17

Although the drive for $250,000, all of which will be applied to the new hospital, does not start until January 17, Casualty hospital officials are making elaborate preliminary preparations for the new hospital, so that construction can begin as soon as the drive is completed.

A speakers' committee, of which Odell Smith is chairman, now is engaged in arranging a program of speaking before the various citizens' organizations in order that they may be fully acquainted with the plans of hospital officials.

A. G. Herrmann, president of the Southeast Washington Citizens association, in sponsoring the drive for a new hospital, declared the need for an institution is extremely urgent.

Trade Board Accuses Philadelphia School

(By the Associated Press.)

The Lafayette Institute, Inc., of Philadelphia, a business correspondence school, has fallen into the bad graces of the Federal Trade Commission for advertising in such a way as to indicate that it owns and occupies the entire imposing Lafayette building in that city, in which it actually is housed in a single room.

A desist order was issued yesterday against the concern, forbidding it also to advertise various "departments" with important sounding titles for its single course in business administration.

Dean Calls Science Big Aid to Religion

Modern science is giving us facts which make religion more tenable and intelligent, the Rev. Dr. Shailer Mathews, dean of the divinity school of the University of Chicago, declared yesterday at the union service of the Washington Federation of Churches at the Eighth Street temple.

Dr. Matthews pointed out that by religion he did not mean a system of theology, but the attempt of men to get help from the universe in the same way as they would get help from persons. Living in a scientific age present religious thinking will be tested by scientific methods, he said.

1,642 RIFLE CLUBS NOW IN COUNTRY

Total in June Follows Policy of Increasing Activity in Organizations.

Following a policy of the War Department during the last year to increase activity of all rifle clubs or withdraw support from inactive ones, Assistant Secretary of War MacNider announced today that 1,638 rifle clubs had been organized prior to July 1, 1925; 249 were abandoned during the fiscal year, and 253 new clubs organized, leaving a total of 1,642, June 30, 1926.

Under provisions of an act of Congress, April 27 1914, and army regulations, certain schools are supplied with arms and other equipment for target practice. On July 1, 1925, 72 schools throughout the United States were so supplied.

It was learned subsequently that some of these schools were not conducting rifle practice and that arms issued them were used solely for drill purposes. Their attention was called to the provision, and those who declined or found it impossible to comply, had their arms withdrawn.

FUNERAL SERVICES OF JUSTICE M'KENNA WILL BE HELD TODAY

NATION'S HIGH TRIBUNAL TO AJOURN SESSION

Services will be held this afternoon for Joseph McKenna, former associate justice of the Supreme court, who died early yesterday in his apartment at the Connecticut, 1150 Connecticut avenue northwest. Funeral services will be held at the apartments at 3 o'clock. The distinguished jurist will be buried at the side of his wife in Mt. Olivet cemetery.

Chief Justice Taft and the associate justices of the Supreme Court will be honorary pallbearers. The Supreme Court will adjourn this morning in respect of its former associate. The Rev. Edward L. Buckey, pastor of St. Matthew's church, will officiate at the services.

Death came to Mr. McKenna, who was 83 years old, after an illness of two months. A week ago his condition became critical, and Father Buckey administered the last rites of the Catholic Church. Physicians said that his death was caused by the infirmities of advanced age, but friends said he never had rallied from the shock of his wife's death.

Shortly after her death in 1925 he retired from the bench. He had been married 59 years. Surviving him are four children, Maj. Frank B. McKenna, U. S. A., retired, and three daughters, Mrs. Edward Alsop, Mrs. Pitts Duffield and Mrs. Davenport Brown. All were with him when he died.

Born in August, 1843.

In respect to the memory of the former associate justice, the Supreme Court will reconvene today following a three weeks' recess, and after delivering opinions and entering it will adjourn. Mr. McKenna served as Attorney General of the United States before he was appointed to the Supreme Court in January, 1896, by President McKinley.

ARMY CHURCH HABITS BETTER, SAYS AXTON

Chaplain's Report Reveals Each Man Attends Services 13 Times in Year.

The army constantly is improving its church-going habits, Col. John T. Axton, chief of chaplains, disclosed in his annual report made public yesterday. During the last fiscal year, 19,864 services were held with an attendance exceeding 1,800,000. This is an average for every officer and enlisted man of thirteen services a year.

Col. Axton said this record indicates the good moral and spiritual conditions which exist among the soldiers. While the total attendance was slightly less than for the preceding year, when all previous records were exceeded by nearly 500,000, there were more worshippers at the Sunday services than in 1925. The week night attendance fell off nearly one-half. In addition to the regular religious services army chaplains officiated at 520 marriages, 947 baptisms and 1,273 funerals during the year.

The chief of chaplains recommended that chapels be erected at permanent army posts where religious services may be conducted amid proper surroundings. He said the services generally are conducted in social halls, gymnasiums, messrooms and other improvised quarters that detract from the spirituality of the exercises.
